March Permits Reach $1,036,475

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Glendale Maintains Unfalteringly Her Million-a-Month Building Pace

WITH the issuing today of a permit for $400,000 to the Security Trust & Savings bank, Glendale has again demonstrated the stability of her growth.

Three months in succession with permits over one million dollars for each month is surely a record to be proud of.

No wonder men of vision are choosing Glendale as a field for their activity. A city with not only an unsurpassed record in growth of population but a city where the building activity keeps pace.

* * *

THE building permits so far this year amount to $1,024,336 for January, $1,015,463 for February and $1,036,475 for March; a total for the year so far of $3,080,424.

The permits taken out for March constitute a record for Glendale for the amount is the largest in the history of our city.

* * *

PERMITS taken out for the first three months of last year amounted to $1,445,310. This was considered high but this year's growth is nearly two hundred thousand more than double that recorded last year, and only about one hundred thousand less than the permits issued during the entire year of 1920.

Prospects for April are considered good; in fact, as we have mentioned in several of our editorials, there never was a time when prospects were as bright as now.

* * *

IN THE New Year's edition of our paper we made a prediction that the permits for the first three months of this year would go over the three million figure.

Some of our readers probably thought we were over optimistic but today's reports justified our belief.

While a permit for one large building is included in the total, the greater part of the permits issued were for homes; which demonstrates that Glendale can still keep the slogan—"The City of Homes."

ANOTHER item of unusual interest is the announcement made today that the firm of Haddock & Nibley had purchased the estate of Judge Erskine M. Ross. This tract, along with the Cameron D. Thom tract which adjoins it are right in the heart of Glendale and Glendale is to be congratulated over the fact that both tracts are now placed on the market and without much doubt will be sold in record time as both are properties in which Glendale residents have been much interested. Mr. Lon Haddock, one of the owners of the new property, is a consistent Glendale booster, and we welcome his return to Glendale.

HARRY JAMES EXPLAINS SUIT

Relative to the suit filed in the Superior court in Los Angeles Friday by Charles J. Hall, a motion picture producer, against Mrs. Alice Frank James for $7092, damage for breach of contract in connection with the picture play, "Loyalty," Harry James, husband of Mrs. Alice Frank James, states this is merely a counter suit filed to offset the suit which he instituted against Mr. Hall for alleged failure to guarantee one-quarter interest in the production to himself and Mrs. James. His suit is to come up April 27 in the Los Angeles courts. The picture, he understands, is being shown in New York.

Mrs. William Paseman, 207 East Broadway and Fred A. Barlow were piloting autos that collided at the 1200 block on Broadway at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No one was injured.

$400,000 NEW BANK

Boom of New Subdivisions to Carry Record Thru the Entire Year

Building permits for the month of March went romping over the million dollar mark shortly before noon today.

The permit that "did the trick" was for the 6-story building at the northeast corner of Brand and Broadway by the Security Trust and Savings bank. The value of that permit was $400,000.

This permit rang the "million dollar" bell for the third time this year.

The exact valuation of the building permits taken out during March, 1923, was $1,036,475. The permits issued during March, 1922, amounted to $521,265, the difference between March, 1922, and March, 1923, being $515,210.

Permits issued during March, this year, not only went over the million dollar mark, but constituted the largest month thus far known in the history of Glendale. The next highest month was January, 1922, which reached a grand total of $1,024,336.

Value of the permits issued during January, February and March, 1923, amounts to $3,080,424. The valuation of the permits issued during the same months last year was $1,445,310.

The permits taken out thus far this year have a valuation of about $100,000 less than the entire total for 1920, which was $3,137,264. The total for 1921 was $5,099,201.

The following permits were issued up to noon today:

LA CRESCENTA SCHOOL BONDS ARE VOTED

Vote for $45,000 Contains Only Five Negatives; Culberson Elected

LA CRESCENTA, March 31.—At the election for two trustees and $45,000 school bonds here yesterday, 128 votes were cast, 123 for the bonds and 5 against.

School trustees, C. E. Culberson of the Crescenta district and Albert D. Pearce of Glendale Union high school, each received 126 votes, two votes being spoiled.

This was the second bond election in the Crescenta school district in which negative votes have been cast. The elections for school bonds and improvements have otherwise been unanimous.

These bonds will provide added classrooms in the present building here and build a unit of three rooms at Montrose, install heating equipment in the buildings, buy furnishings and improve grounds.

The school trustees of the Crescenta district are: C. E. Culberson, H. A. Baldridge and Dr. B. H. Smith.

M'FADDEN, HE WANTED TO SPEED

Fined Twice for Trying to Do Said Speeding Twice

C. D. McFadden, 860 West Avenue 65, Los Angeles, who was arrested twice within a half hour in Glendale a short time ago for speeding, was fined $50, half of this amount on each count, by Judge Lowe, yesterday.

McFadden, it appears, gave his name at the time of the arrest as Charles E. Cowan, the name of the person from whom he (McFadden) purchased the car in which he was arrested. The registration of the car had not been transferred into McFadden's name.

The fact was brought out at the trial, according to Judge Lowe, that after being arrested McFadden wrote to Mr. Cowan, who lives in Gardena, asking him to say if he was approached on the matter, that he had sold his car to a certain party living in the northern part of the state.

McFadden paid the fine.

NOON-DAY SERVICES ARE CLOSED

Record Attendance Marks Last Hours of the Pre-Easter Devotions in Glendale

DR. WALKER SPEAKS

Dwells On Dying Agonies of the Savior of Man

The week of Lenten noon-day services held under the auspices of the Ministerial association closed yesterday with the largest attendance of the series. The services began Monday and continued with increasing interest throughout the week. Words of appreciation of Wm. A. Howe, who gave the use of the Glendale theatre, and of Paul Carson for his presence and use of the great pipe organ were expressed by the chairman, Rev. Louis Tinning. He also suggested that the interest warranted him in thinking the people would appreciate a like series of services another year.

The special solo was sung by Mrs. Fanny Marple Retts and was appropriate to the Good Friday service, "The Old Rugged Cross." It was effectively sung. The preacher for the day was Dr. Hugh K. Walker, of the First Presbyterian church of Los Angeles. He is well known in Glendale and many came purposely to hear his Easter message, which dealt with the events of Good Friday, so-called by virtue of the Resurrection which followed the ignominious death of Jesus of Nazareth on that day.

The speaker described the physical and mental suffering which must have been undergone by Christ, but claimed that it was not to be compared with that of His feeling that God had forsaken him. It was shown that He willingly allowed the hitherto binding relationship of Him and His Father to be severed because of the sins of mankind which He bore on the Cross; that it was this feeling of being abandoned and alone that was the most excruciating suffering. The text was taken from Paul, where he said he was willing to suffer loss of all things, that "I might know Him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings becoming conformed unto his death."

To reach Mount Forest Lawn special cars leave La Crescenta at 4:30 a. m.; Montrose at 4:35 a. m.; Verdugo Woodlands at 4:40 a. m.; and Eagle Rock at 4:45 a. m. These cars connect at Broadway and Brand boulevard with the Pacific Electric train leaving North Glendale at 5 o'clock. Special street cars will be run from Los Angeles, leaving the Main street station at 4:45 o'clock.

By automobile, go south on Glendale avenue, Brand boulevard or San Fernando road to Forest Lawn, thence east past Little Church of the Flowers. There is a foot path to the left of the church leading to the hilltop.

During the week special slides have been thrown on the screen of both theatres, banners have been carried on the street cars, highways have been posted with arrow signs, display cards have been distributed, and this, together with the publicity given through the newspapers gives every assurance of a record crowd. Mt. Forest Lawn is said to be the most easily accessible of any of the Easter sunrise service location.

One of the objects of the service is to bring together the people of all the churches and various sections of Glendale and vicinity. The sunrise service will not interfere with the regular Easter services at the various churches. The program will last about one hour, which will give ample time for those wishing to return to their homes and attend church.

The sisters and sweethearts of members served the dinner at which covers were laid for 175, providing the dainty candy baskets of yellow paper tied with purple which served as favors, and the floral decorations of poppies and fleur de lis. Opening and closing numbers were provided by the Immanuel quartet of young men of the Bible Institute, whose fine voices blend delightfully.

Harold Majors, retiring president, who made an excellent presiding officer, introduced the speakers.

Rev. Louis Tinning, the first speaker, enumerated the factors which make for the success of a ball team, stressing team work. In closing he said:

49 VOTES CAST FOR Hi TRUSTEE

Albert D. Pearce Elected Without Opposition in Meager Polling

LA CRESCENTA VOTE

Nearly Three Times Nearly Three Times That of Glendale

Promptly at 6 o'clock election officers at Glendale high Friday night closed the polls and a few minutes later announced that all of the 49 votes deposited in the ballot box were for Albert D. Pearce.

Glendale has a voting population of some 10,000 souls, the vote therefore being not quite .005 per cent.

A better showing was made at La Crescenta, where Mr. Pearce and the local trustee, Mr. Culberson, each received 126. School bonds in the sum of $45,000 for additional local school facilities also carried by a vote of 123, only five votes being registered against the bonds.

In Eagle Rock 58 votes were cast for and none against Mr. Pearce. Returns from Tujunga and Sunland have not come in.

HADDOCK & NIBLEY CONSUMMATE PURCHASE FOR SUBDIVISION

One of the Biggest and Most Important Deals That Has Been Negotiated in Glendale History of Local Realty

JUDGE ROSS SELLS WITH RELUCTANCE

Property Extends For One Mile On Either Side of Glendale Avenue and Verdugo Road Takes In Tract East of Latter Highway

Rossmoyne, "the happy land," is Glendale's latest subdivision.

The celebrated Ross ranch, consisting of 800 acres, has just been purchased by the Haddock & Nibley company, one of the livest realty firms operating in Glendale at this time. The sale was consummated the first of the week, and the tract will be open for reservations next Sunday. The purchase price was over $2,000,000.

The sale of the Ross ranch is considered one of the biggest and most important real estate deals made in or around Glendale for years. For many years the family of Judge Ross has had possession of this property.

Like many of the other pioneers in Glendale, Judge Ross came to this valley for the purpose of finding a home for himself and family. He searched the valley over and finally came to the conclusion that the piece he finally selected was the choicest bit of realty in Southern California.

The choosing of this property by Judge Ross was a question of elimination. There were so many excellent locations to choose from that one by one they had to be discarded, the final choice being the ranch upon which the Ross homestead has been standing for so many years.

This ranch home was built when Glendale was just a baby—and a very little baby at that. At that time there were just a couple of shack stores in this town, and they were located at the corner of Glendale avenue and Wilson, which was Third street at that time.

Slowly, as the city of Glendale grew, more and more attention was given to the Ross property. It has always been considered one of the choicest pieces of realty in the San Fernando valley. Today, when Glendale has grown to be a thriving city of the highest order, it is still considered the cream of this section.

The property purchased by the Haddock & Nibley company extends for approximately one mile on either side of Glendale avenue and Verdugo road. It takes in the wonderful property east of the Verdugo road to a point where it intersects with Glendale avenue, in addition to several hundred acres of gradually sloping land to the west of that point.

Extending north from a point near the old Ross home there is a canyon consisting of about 200 acres of the finest property that lays outdoors. This canyon will be divided into beautiful villa homesites.

Engineers are now at work subdividing a portion of this property, in order that the many property buyers who are besieging the owners for reservation privileges may be accommodated. The property

REAL HUMOR IS EPIDEMIC AT KIWANIS CLUB

Breaks Loose in Answers to Stunt Questions at Luncheon

That the Kiwanis club has some real humorists in its large membership was evidenced at the noon luncheon yesterday when Billy Page as chairman of the Educational committee announced the answers given to the "stunt question contest" inaugurated by the club. Primarily the contest was put on to find out how many members read the Kiwanis magazine, but judging by the variety of answers received few members cared to venture a real effort at answering the questions passed around.

If you were asked to answer these interrogations: "What is Bolshipobia?" "How many days in the Liberty calendar month?" and several other equally as complicated questions, what would be your answer?

Well, the wits of the club very easily figured it out their way, and it sounded reasonable. "There is none for the married man," said one humorist in answer to the "Liberty Calendar" problem, while another wit, who was evidently a "batch" said every day was a liberty day for the batchelor. Bolshipobia was a hard one, and answers had a wide range. One member thought it might mean a new drink, or a special concoction made by a more scientific distiller of wild spirits than has usually catered to the thirsty, while still another answer said: "It is a cross between a soap box orator and a would-be politician." Anyway Billy Page, who gave the prize for the best answer was unable to decide who was entitled to it, and reserved his decision until next meeting.

The politicians will be given a hearing. Someone suggested that each candidate for city council be given an opportunity to set forth his claims for election at a meeting of the club, and the matter was laid over until next Friday's luncheon, which will be at the Tuesday Afternoon club hall, when in all probability the various candidates will be given an opportunity to express themselves. Don Webb, secretary of the Kiwanis club, is a Kiwanian, and refused to take the floor without giving his opponents an equal opportunity.

Tickets for the Orpheus club entertainment to be given by the Kiwanis club, April 14, are selling fast, and it now looks as though the 800 tickets would be sold out by the latter part of this week. The entertainment will be a "humdinger," said Dr. Jack Anderson, who brought the matter before the club, and O. W. Andresen, who is a member of the chorus, says the Orpheus quartet alone is worth several times the price of admission.

Dr. T. C. Young urged every Kiwanian to vote for the airport at the coming election April 10. He said: "It would be a calamity to the city to lose this opportunity to get the airport, and besides that," continued the doctor, "the land is a good investment for the city and is worth a great deal more than was paid for it."

Dr. Freeman of Pasadena headed a delegation from that city as visitors of the club. He also gave a short talk in which he boosted the splendid spirit of the local club, and the work it is doing.

SACRAMENTO TO ENTERTAIN K. OF C. LAVISHLY

Elaborate Plans Made For Entertainment of 20th Annual State Convention

(Special Correspondence)

SACRAMENTO, March 31.—Delegates to the twentieth annual state convention of the Knights of Columbus, to be held at Sacramento, May 7, 8 and 9, will be entertained in a lavish manner, according to the plans of the K. of C. committee and the reception units of other Catholic societies of this city. Each of the seventy K. of C. councils in the state will be represented by two voting delegates, in the convention sessions, a total statewide membership of 25,000 Knights being represented.

Although the convention business sessions will not open until Monday, May 7, the entertainment and reception program will commence Saturday, May 5. Sightseeing tours, dances, entertainments, theater parties and other social affairs will take up much of the time during the week of the convention, the visiting ladies being especially provided for with appropriate events, the Catholic ladies' organizations of Sacramento having charge of the receptions and functions in their honor.

District Deputy Frank E. Michel, Jr., of Sacramento is chairman of the general convention committee, Thomas Ryan, Jr., being secretary. Past Grand Knights Ray Coghlan, Phil Hobrecht and other officials of the local K. of C. organization are members of the convention committee.

District Deputy Joseph L. Sweeney and State Press Chairman Joseph O'Connor of San Francisco, who took a prominent part in the executive details of the great international convention of the Knights of Columbus at San Francisco in August, 1921, left here yesterday, after spending two days with the local convention committee, working out plans for the coming conclave.

According to Convention Chairman Michel, it is believed that the coming state convention will be featured more than any other previous conclaves, by the presentation of large numbers of important measures for recommendation by the state convention, to be referred to the August national conclave at Montreal, Canada.

Word has been received by the committee arranging for the convention, that the members of California council No. 880, K. of C., have chartered the river steamer "Navajo," to convey several hundred members and their friends from San Francisco to Sacramento, the "Navajo" arriving here on the morning of Sunday, May 6.

Special trains will be operated into Sacramento during the convention week, by the Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and San Francisco-Sacramento railroad lines. Extraordinary low rates have been named for the round trip via all rail and steamer lines in and out of the capital city.

Convention headquarters have been established temporarily at 708 Jay street, Sacramento, where the convention committee is attending to inquiries for reservations for parties of Knights contemplating attending the coming state conclave.

FEDERAL TRADE BOARD TO INVESTIGATE CHARGE

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Mar. 31.—Charging conspiracy through co-operative agreements to hamper the business of the Proctor Gamble company of Cincinnati, the Federal trade commission has issued complaints against two wholesale grocery associations, several manufacturers and one wholesale grocer.

The complaint alleges that when the Proctor Gamble company changed its price policy and began to quote equal prices to all buyers, whether wholesalers or retailers, the respondents cited urged cancellation of orders previously placed with it by members of the association. Further, the complaint said, they refused to sell to those who continued to handle Proctor & Gamble products.

SHELL SHOCKED VET LOSES HIS IDENTITY

Picked Up at Yakima, Is Found to Be Missing From Los Angeles

[By Associated Press]

YAKIMA, Wash., March 31.—Confirmation belief of Red Cross officials here that "Pat" world war veteran of lost identity, is really Harold Gorman of Los Angeles, was awaited here today when replies to telegrams to Gorman's relatives were expected.

In the meantime "Pat" insisted to all that he was not Gorman, that Gorman was his pal and had a wooden leg. Some persons who have had "Pat" under observation since Sunday believe he is trying to conceal his identity.

Attention of social workers was first drawn to the man when he entered a railroad depot Sunday and demanded a ticket to Paris, believing himself back at a base hospital in France. Shortly after he collapsed and was taken to a hospital.

"Pat" was heard to call the name of Dr. Carl Rand of Los Angeles, in his delirium. Dr. Rand said that the description of the Yakima man fitted Harold Gorman, formerly a patient in the pyschopathic ward of a Los Angeles hospital. Red Cross officials wired at once to William Gorman of Minneapolis, said to be Harry Gorman's father and learned from him that Harry Gorman was supposed to be with his brother in Long Beach, Calif. A telegram to the brother followed.

In the meantime, "Pat" is seriously in need of medical attention, it is stated.

to the west of Glendale avenue will be put on first by the Haddock & Nibley company. This land is covered with apricots and lemons and each lot is a gem of the finest character. It lies north of Doran street.

This tract has a frontage of practically one mile on Glendale avenue and three-foruths of a mile on Verdugo road.

Wonderful plans have been laid out by the Haddock & Nibley company for the improvement of this wonderful property. This will consist of the highest type of street improvements, consisting of rock streets, curbing, sidewalks, water, gas, electricity—in fact, everything that goes to make the finest and highest class subdivision. There will be a scenic drive constructed around the foothill section of the property and down onto the gradually sloping stretches. This will start at the east side of Verdugo road and will wind around the hills, encircling the entire tract and connecting with Glendale avenue at a point near Doran street. They will be wide, of easy grade, and of the kind that will naturally appeal to the average homesite buyer.

The tract house for this property will be a work of art, according to Mr. Haddock. It will cost several thousand dollars and will be of the Egyptian type. This feature will be located on the east side of Verdugo road at its intersection with Glendale avenue, and will be one of the show places of the valley. Until this house is completed the selling force for this tract will be housed in tents near the intersection of Glendale avenue and Verdugo road.

No lot in this tract will be less than 50 feet in width. Some of them will be much wider, this depending on their location. The price of the lots will range from $2000 up. An adequate business section is being provided.

"We intend to make this tract the show-place of Southern California," said Mr. Haddock this morning. "The name 'Rossmoyne—the Happy Land' has been applied to it because we believe it will be just that and nothing more. A person will not be able to live in this tract without being happy.

"No expense will be spared to make this the finest home tract in Southern California. It will be ideal in every way. Many wonderful features are being planned and these will be a genuine surprise to the people who are hoping to own a home in that property.

"We will do better with Rossmoyne than we did with Glendale Heights, which has been all sold out. In that tract there were 400 lots, and all of them were sold within a year, 99 per cent of them going to Glendale people.

"A big percentage of the lots in Rossmoyne will, we expect, be disposed of to Glendale people.

"We are almost wild over Rossmoyne—and others are sharing this enthusiasm."

DYNAMOS CLUB HOLDS THIRD ANNIVERSARY

operation of Almighty God, keeping in close sympathy with each other and with Him through Jesus Christ, His Son. It is possible for you young men to so play the game that you will have an attendance of one hundred. Do that and we will give you one of the best rooms down in that new church."

In his installation talk to the officers-elect, Mr. Foster admonished them to seek to win members for their organization in view of the definite aim of the club to help young men and win them to Jesus Christ. To Harold Jones, the incoming president, he especially pledged co-operation and support.

Dr. W. E. Edmonds voiced his satisfaction in the growth of the Dynamos club and the work it is doing and told of the plans for the new church which fill all his working hours, indicating special provisions not contemplated in the original drawings, for Dynamos headquarters calculated to promote the Christian and social work they are carrying on.

He introduced Dr. Harry Boyd, medical missionary and chief speaker of the evening, who was the examining physician of the Canton (China) Union Seminary, and who is now practicing his profession as a specialist in eye, ear, nose and throat in Hollywood.

The three outstanding elements in the character of Dr. Boyd seem to be energy, enthusiasm and sympathy, and infused as these are with the missionary spirit, it was easy for his audience to believe in the wonderful success with which he is credited. He showed how close the medical missionary comes to suffering humanity in China which he pronounced the most marvellous mission field in the world today, though the life of a missionary is one of hazard in that robber infested land, where, if the missionary is not despoiled of all his valuables he may be kidnaped and held for ransom. Said he: "One thousand million people are there trying to achieve the impossible, to save themselves—waiting for you and me."

In closing he said: "I would like to see you take up the challenge of Christ who said 'Follow me and I will make you fishers of men.' There is no more wonderful work in life than to be fishers of men. If you have not caught a man for Christ, you have not really begun to live. It is easy if you go into it with the spirit of love and the spirit of the Master. The way to begin is to go out and do it."

The meeting closed with prayer offered by Rev. O. P. Rider. Officers installed were president, Harold Jones; vice-president, Lyle McAllister; secretary - treasurer, John Simpson; lookout chairman, Graham Tinning; devotional committee chairman, Harold Parker; social committee chairman, Tom McClellan; music, Paul Edmonds; Sunday publications, Percy Jewell; publicity, Arnold Jensen.

INSURANCE PROVES VALUABLE TO AUTOISTS

Three Glendale motorists happened to be in line on Big Tujunga bridge, Sunday. A small car swerved crosswise and the three Glendale cars telescoped. These were: Dr. H. C. Smith, Auburn; Louis Scovern, Hupmobile and Dr. O. A. Dietrich, Hudson.

As often happens with Glendale cars, Clinton Booth had them all insured.

Sunday, Joe Golstein, driving to Burbank, had three motorcycle boys jam into him. They jumped like frogs over his hood. Booth secured full release from parents, fixed up motors and Packer Auto company serviced Studebaker.

Recently R. W. Meeker's Buick was stolen. It was recovered in three days and re-tired and repaired by Tanner & Hall at the Buick agency.

Wednesday, March 21, A. E. Norrbom's garage and automobile were burned at 419 Stocker street. Before night of the 22d, the claim was paid in full and a new car purchased from Jesse Smith.

The next day one of Booth's customers smashed H. C. Lincoln's Overland sedan. George T. Smith put on new wheels, door, etc., and the property damage was paid by Booth.

These daily casualities, representing the 5 points covered by automobile insurance—fire, theft, public liability, property damage and full coverage collision, all covered by Booth, if you live in Glendale or vicinity at a cost less than some companies charge for collision alone.

The Security Insurance company, a California old-line stock company, is nearly 100 per cent Glendale. The president, C. H. Crawford and three largest stockholders, says Mr. Booth, have lived in Glendale for more than ten years. This company is 100 per cent secure, they have millions of dollars back of every policy. For example, the public liability is re-insured by companies with 39 millions in back of every public liability policy.

Booth, with no overhead but his hat, has desk room at the Dodge agency, where Col. Lenone or Booth will take care of all comers. This paper had occasion to call on them for service and found them

MRS. WILLIAMS JOINS RIPLEY OFFICE FORCE

Young Realtor Who Has Made Record Enters Strong Organization

The many Glendale friends of Mrs. Nettie Williams will be interested to learn that she is now associated with E. D. Ripley & Co., at 200 West Broadway, opposite Ralphs. In addition to handling real estate transactions she will do public stenographic work, as well as draw legal documents.

Mrs. Williams has had a wide business training. She was private secretary to former Governor Foss of Massachusetts for two years, after which she moved to New York to accept a responsibile position there with a large furniture manufacturing firm, which she resigned during the war to enter government service. Mrs. Williams moved to Glendale in 1920, purchased a home here and accepted a position with the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, where she handled correspondence in the escrow department, and later became assistant to D. H. Smith. Later, Mrs. Williams purchased an interest in the Tujunga Lumber and Supply company, and was secretary-treasurer to the corporation until she sold her interest a year later.

Mrs. Williams owns considerable property in Glendale and is acquainted with real estate values here. She says "it is my aim to give a square deal to the seller and buyer. I will never urge a prospective buyer to purchase a piece of property unless I felt that I would buy it myself if I were in the buyer's position."

KELLER STUDIO TO DANCE FOR CRIPPLES

paedic foundation was incorporated to work without profit in the interests of crippled children and to administer the larger affairs of the institution. It is non-sectarian and wholly eleemosynary. It is endorsed by state, county, municipal welfare boards, leading child welfare organizations and the Los Angeles County Medical association. Its charity extends to all crippled children and the work has been actively progressing for eleven years.

The Crippled Children's guild is a body of over 800 workers which supplies the many volunteers to carry on the social service work and assist in the hospital operation. There are 900 children now enrolled in clinic. A great deal of the work is charity cases, though the institution does also accept paid cases.

The children of the Pearl Keller studio are very enthusiastic over the coming performance, which is to take the form of a Children's society vaudeville, at the Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon, May 19. Rehearsals are already well under way and many new and attractive features are promised. This is not to take the place of annual society vaudeville to be given by the children sometime in June.

The work of these little folks is well known, as they and their teacher have been generous in assisting at various club meetings, programs, etc. Mrs. Brattain is a member of the Glendale Music club, a life member of the Tuesday Afternoon club, and also a member of the chamber of commerce, Business and Professional Women's club, American Legion Auxiliary of Glendale and the Indian Welfare league of Los Angeles. No doubt her many friends will welcome the opportunity of showing appreciation of past courtesies extended by boosting for this entertainment.

Not only will the crippled children benefit, but Mrs. Brattain is planning to donate a certain number of seats to be distributed among the orphan children.

Tickets will range in price from 25 cents and 50 cents to $1. Children's tickets will be 25 cents. They may be secured at the Keller studio after this week and exchanged for reserve seat tickets at the Philharmonic auditorium after May 1.

FROST SPREADS SOUTH INTO FLORIDA

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Mar. 31. — The predicted Easter cold weather blight was sweeping steadily eastward and southward today, and by tonight, according to the official forecast, the chill high pressure area originating somewhere in the Arctic regions, will have overspread practically the entire eastern half of the country.

By tomorrow, the weather man says, the chilling fingers of the Arctic visitors will have spread frost as far south as Northern Florida, with a sharply declining scale of temperatures northward. To the dubious Easter bonnet, however, he does not hold out the faint hope of a "slowly" rising temperature Sunday afternoon.

Have You Noticed How the "Ads" --Both Display and Classified--Are Increasing in the Glendale Press?

"THERE'S A REASON"

1st—The Glendale Daily Press has over 2,000 More Circulation than any other Paper Circulating in Glendale.

2nd—The Glendale Daily Press has a Progressive Policy. It is not controlled by any clique or set of men. It speaks straight from the shoulder. Its aim is to serve the best interests of the community without favoring any interests or individuals. In other words,

THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS IS AN INDEPENDENT PROGRESSIVE NEWSPAPER WITH BACKBONE AND A DEFINITE POLICY

—which is expressed Daily in its editorial columns. It is forging ahead, because the people like it—they know it is watching their interests and will do all in its power to protect the welfare of Glendale.

NO GREEN GOODS HERE!

The Circulation of the Glendale Daily Press is operated upon the Little Merchants Plan, which insures a bona fide paid circulation, that is far ahead of the newspaper which allows its subscriptions to "run as long as you wish and pay when you will."

We believe that our advertising columns offer the best medium for presenting the message of Glendale merchants, because we reach the most people. We have editions for Eagle Rock and Burbank. Three daily newspapers with an advertising rate that is not high enough for one daily paper.

Here are the sworn statements required by the government from both Glendale Daily Papers:

THE FACTS IN A NUTSHELL:

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS	4,985
SECOND NEWSPAPER	3,336
GLENDALE DAILY PRESS LEAD OVER SECOND NEWSPAPER	1,649

But, Dear Reader, since the statements were published in October, THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS has added 715 READERS TO ITS LIST and its circulation now exceeds the sworn statement of the second paper by 2364. Growing some in three months, you say. Well, you're right. Watch us grow during 1923. Watch the advertising columns grow. Glendale has live, progressive merchants and they are using the advertising columns of the Glendale Daily Press to send their message to the people.

BUTTER MARKET IS UNDER SPRING DECLINE

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, March 31.—Facing the usual spring decline during the next two months, the butter market during the last week in March was very unsettled and nervous. On the whole, price tendencies were lower. The extremely narrow range of prices for the various scores and the unusual relations between quotations at New York and Chicago continued.

Receipts of far western butter played an important part in keeping the markets on edge. A number of cars of California, Utah, Idaho and Colorado butter arrived at Chicago and eastern markets and sold at prices near the same grade of regular receipts.

The effect of New Zealand's shipment of butter still continued to show itself. It was feared that more shipments would arrive in New York and that a larger proportion of the last cargo than was generally expected would be thrown on the American markets.

JERRY JETER WINS BIG AUDIENCE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Jerry Jeter, conducting the revival at East Broadway and Cedar, is still drawing crowds.

The evangelist chose for his subject "The Old-Time Religion," and spoke to anxious hearts and waiting souls in the power of the spirit and the audience was stirred.

There were no criticisms of preachers in the message, just a wideawake gospel sermon.

The evangelist said that the deity of Christ was included in the old-time religion, the conviction of sin, repentance, forgiveness of sins by Jesus Christ; faith, work and love; the baptism of the Holy Ghost, getting right with neighbors, forgiving one another.

Services were announced for tonight and Sunday, 2:30 and 7:30.

No services Monday, but great services Tuesday, 2:30 and 7:30.

ST. MARK'S CHOIR GIVES SPECIAL PROGRAM

The Episcopal church choir of twenty-five persons presented "The Crucifixion" at the special musical services held last night. The church was crowded and this program was most pleasingly rendered. The solo parts were taken by A. M. Draper, bass; Mr. Bernays, baritone; Charles Comfort, tenor. Mrs. Virginia Freeman, soprano, also sang. Mrs. Charles A. Parker, director, sang a solo, "By Jesus' Grave," during the offertory.

There will be a musical service at the church Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Freeman, Mr. Bernays and Mrs. Parker will be the soloists for the evening.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SUNDAY

The services tomorrow at the Glendale Presbyterian Church will be of special interest. At the morning service Marjorie Bailey will give selections on the harp and the quartet will bring special numbers appropriate to the Easter occasion. Rev. Edmonds will speak on "Easter at Antioch."

There will be no evening service but at 5:15 in the afternoon Mr. Walton, the organist, will give an organ recital. This will be followed by a forty-minute program given by the Glee Club and Harmony Quartet of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles. There will be a brief message by the pastor as well as several selections by the church quarter. A free will offering will be taken at this service.

SCOUTS ARE BACK FROM TRIP TO THE ROBISON HOME

The scouts of troop No. 2, Glendale, in charge of H. Benj. Robison, scoutmaster, have returned from their four-day trip to "El Bosque Del Robles," the Robison's country home in La Crescenta.

Everyone declared he had a fine time and is anxious to know when the next trip will be taken.

Monday was spent in playing games and making camp.

Tuesday the scouts built two trails up the mountain, working in two groups, in charge of Scouts Horace Brown and Clifford Walcott. These trails will be of great help in case of fire as it will enable the fire fighters to reach the firebreaks quicker.

Upon finishing the trails a swim was enjoyed in the beautiful swimming pool.

A big campfire was enjoyed in the evening to which the members of the troop committee contributed stories, songs and stunts.

Wednesday, early in the morning, a big scout smuggling game was started which lasted until noon and ended with Horace Brown's side winning. After a swim and mess the boys played the squirrel game (a new one on them) in the beautiful grove of oaks. A lot of peanuts were hid and then the boys told of them. There was indeed a scamper as the "squirrels" went after the nuts.

The day was finished by two games of "capture the flag."

After a splendid campfire a game of will-o'-the-wisp was played and a snipe hunt enjoyed.

Thursday was spent in breaking camp and leaving.

"These are mighty fine cigars, doctor," remarked his colleague. "Where do you get them?"

"Oh, I just ordered one of my millionaire patients to stop smoking," the doctor replied, "and confiscated his supply so he wouldn't be tempted."

MANY NEW HOMES ON SUBURBAN HEIGHTS

The new bus line, for which permit was issued this week by the city council, is to touch on three sides of the Suburban Heights tract of beautiful homesites. Last week proved to be a banner week for sales of lots in this desirable tract, which is opposite Brand's castle home.

Many new homes are to be started at once by purchasers of property. The Suburban Realty Co., Inc., predicts that its entire tract will be closed out within thirty days, and people desirous of locating in this home tract should select their lots at once.

A. R. Johnson, president of the company, announces that there will be an increase in the prices of lots in Suburban Heights of from 15 to 25%. This increase is the result largely of the tremendous demand for lots and the improved transportation facilities which will be in effect within ninety days.

Suburban Heights main office is located at 508 South Brand boulevard and an office is also maintained at the tract.

An old actor was wont to claim that he had worked with Booth and Barrett, a distinction that got him much consideration wherever Thespians gathered. When questioned about his parts he would always answer, "I did hoof beats," and then add, "The drama has gone to pot."

"Why so?" some of the younger generation would indignantly inquire. "Anyone can do the honks, nowadays."

And the softer the road the harder it is to travel.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK AND ITS ENVIRONS

MARCH BUILDING PERMITS REACH $190,115

Elmer Dale, Burbank Inspector, Issues 84 Blanks

Burbank building permits for March totaled $190,115. This surpasses the January record by $46,300, for the permits issued by Elmer Dale, building inspector, for the first month of the new year, was $143,815. That total was looked upon as something to boost Burbank for the January of 1922 had brought $67,515 as the high water mark.

February permits amounted to $170,405, so that each month sees a big increase in building.

Out of the 83 blanks signed by the inspector only three were for a large amount, two being for bungalow courts and the third for the armory. Only 24 included garage buildings, so that indicates that everybody in Burbank has not yet purchased an automobile.

MRS. MAINARD IS GUEST OF HONOR

"It was the biggest birthday cake you ever saw," said a guest present at the birthday anniversary party for Mrs. J. P. Mainard, 544 North Angeleno avenue, given Thursday evening. Her daughters, who made it, said the cake had to be big to get all the candles on it. The cake was a gorgeous affair with pink icing and layers of every color that can be put in a cake.

Games, dialogues and a musical program formed the entertainment for the evening. The party was a complete surprise to the guest of honor, for her family had told her that her birthday was the day before and had given her family gifts at that time. Her friends showered her with flowers and many other gifts.

Mrs. Mainard did not tell her age, but she did say she had been married 44 years and a guest who counted the candles thought there were about 60 on the cake.

Those present at the delightful affair were: Messrs. and Mesdames Rippley, Napper, E. J. Mainard, Elliot, Ed. Kirkpatrick, Hough, Wyley, Harry Mainard of Los Angeles, Frambach, L. H. Hall, E. G. Hall, and their families and the Misses Napper and Petty.

KING ELECTED BURBANK SCHOOL TRUSTEE

In an election that drew out more people than have ever cast their votes before at a school election, J. J. King was elected Burbank school trustee. He received 209 votes. J. D. Radcliffe, for many years president of the board, received 99 votes and A. R. Graham scored a total of four.

More than 300 appeared at the Edison building during the voting hours Friday, which is a record of more than 200 in the usual elections.

Various factions interested in getting their candidates elected were busy all day long, mustering out their friends. The entire city hall force and a number of real out their friends. The mayor's morning to show interest in school affairs.

Neither Mr. Radcliffe nor Mr. King was out campaigining. Friends of Mr. Radcliffe were not aware that there was any contesting candidates and regret that after many years of faithful service devoted to the interests of the school he was not re-elected.

Mr. King, who is a recent citizen of Burbank, is well qualified for the place of trustee, according to the campaigners. He has been superintendent of schools for ten years they say and will be alive to all the needs of the school.

Easy Lessons in Auction Bridge

Freak Hands

Probably the most interesting and difficult questions of Auction arise in the bidding of freak hands. It has already been pointed out that four out of every five hands contain no suit of greater length than five cards. This means that only one hand out of five will contain suits of six cards or more. Of these hands only a very small percentage are properly termed freak hands so that it is apparent that the proper bidding of such hands is difficult, first, because of the character of the hands and, second, because so few are held that it is difficult to lay down any set rule to govern. The result is that freak hands are a law unto themselves and each one represents a separate and distinct problem.

A real freak hand is one that contains at least an eight card suit or, if the suit is of less length, other points of the unusual, such as two suits of six or more cards each. When the long suit is a major suit and its strength warrants doing so, the bid should be four at once. If the suit contains length and no top cards, pass and bid on the second round if at all. The following are true freaks:

Hearts — A, J, 10, 9, 7, 5, 3, 2
Clubs — A, J, 10, 7
Diamonds — 7
Spades —

With the foregoing hand, the dealer should bid four Hearts.

Hearts — 10, 7
Clubs —
Diamonds — K, Q
Spades — K, Q, 10, 9, 7, 6, 5, 4, 2

With the foregoing hand, the dealer should bid four Spades.

Hearts — Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 3, 2
Clubs —
Diamonds — Q, 4, 2
Spades — 10

With the foregoing hand, the dealer should pass and bid the Heart suit on the second round unless the bidding should make such course inexpedient. Hands which contain no tricks unless a certain suit is trump are not original bids and should be bid on the second round, if at all.

For the same reasons that justify a bid of four in Hearts or Spades, a freak hand where the long suit is Clubs or Diamonds justifies an original bid of five. For example:

Hearts —
Clubs — A, K, J, 10, 9, 7, 5, 4, 2
Diamonds — 10
Spades — A, 4, 3

With the foregoing hand, the dealer should bid five Clubs.

Sometimes freak hands of only two suits will be held, and such hands do not as a rule justify a shut-out bid, unless one of the suits is much stronger. For example:

Hearts — A, K, 9, 8, 7, 6, 2
Clubs —
Diamonds — K, Q, 10, 7, 6, 4
Spades —

With the foregoing hand, the dealer should bid one Heart and rebid that suit at least once before showing the Diamond suit. The latter suit is too strong not to be shown at all as the hand may very well be a game in Diamonds and not in Hearts.

Hearts —
Clubs — K, 7, 6, 5, 2
Diamonds —
Spades — A, K, J, 9, 7, 5, 4, 2

With the foregoing hand, the dealer should bid four Spades at once. The Club suit is too weak in comparison to the Spade suit ever to justify its bid.

Freak hands are held so seldom that it is not worth while for the novice to spend much time or thought upon them. They are included in this series merely because they are a part of the game, and it is suggested that they be studied only after the novice has obtained considerable experience and has thoroughly mastered the basic principles of bidding.

Don't shorten your nights in attempting to lengthen your days.

MANY ATTEND GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

"Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me."

"In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you I will come again and receive you unto myself that where I am there ye may be also. And whither I go ye know and the way ye know."

This talk of Christ to his disciples formed the beginning of the Scripture lesson for the Good Friday services conducted by Rev. Stevenson, Friday morning at the Methodist church. The minister repeated the story of Christ before Pilate, and His crucifixion.

He spoke of the gloom of black Friday when the sun hid its face when in the zenith, "but no he concluded, "for us it is good Friday when the lights of hope, joy and fellowship is on the ascendent. The new day has not yet reached its zenith, but we are all called upon to exalt the Son of Righteousness until all nations, kindreds, tongues and peoples shall bow to him as Lord of All!"

The Scripture talk was followed by congregational singing and chain of prayers by the members of the prayer circle.

Tired Tim knocked at the door of a cottage. It was a chilly day, and he was very hungry.

The old lady who opened the door was a good sore. She asked him into the kitchen and placed before him a nicely-cooked meal and asked him why he did not go to work.

"I would," replied Tim, "if I had the tools."

"What sort of tools do you want?" inquired the good woman.

"A knife and fork," was the reply.

NEWS AND DEVELOPMENT OF EAGLE ROCK CITY AND VICINITY

YORK BOULEVARD IS GROWING WITH DISTRICT

Adjoining Sagamore Hill, Attracts Big Attention From Glendale

Things are humming in York Boulevard Manor, and the prospects are that long before the expected time all of this tract will have been disposed of. The wonderful manner in which the tract has been laid out, the 5-cent fare to Los Angeles, and many other features are responsible for the activity at that subdivision.

York Boulevard Manor adjoins Sagamore Park, another Wesley Roberts subdivision. Both tracts are part of an old Spanish grant owned by the Glassell estate which originally included most of the land between Los Angeles and Pasadena. Mr. Roberts was able to secure this acreage upon very advantageous terms which allowed him to list the lots in these two subdivisions at much lower price than would otherwise have been possible. Thus the public is presented with a very attractive proposition—an ideal location and rock bottom prices.

Mr. Roberts is a pioneer subdivider. His activities date back to 1901 and many Los Angeles people owe their start on the road to prosperity to Mr. Roberts' wise selections of property—always where development was sure and rapid and investment safe and profitable. In speaking of his early experience, Mr. Roberts said:

"Twenty years ago I subdivided an orange grove at Santa Monica and Western avenues, and sold the lots at $600 each. Then I sold Vermont avenue frontage near Bimini at $300 a lot. On each deal I made $50 and have been working ever since on small margins and quick turnovers. Today these Western and Vermont avenue lots are worth a small fortune. At 48th street and Moneta avenue I put another subdivision on the market and this also made a lot of money for investors. People who have bought in my subdivisions for investment have made from 50 to 500 per cent in a short period of time. But in all my long experience in Los Angeles real estate transactions I have never handled a proposition that is so full of possibilities as York Boulevard Manor and Sagamore Park.

"Ideally situated in a fast developing district and provided by nature with all the desirable features that make for perfect home environment, these subdivisions are truly the most inspiring projects I have ever handled. No better opportunity for investment and quick turnover was ever presented to the people of Los Angeles—no more desirable homesites at moderate prices have ever been offered."

AUTO DEALER IS MORE THAN A MERCHANT

"The automobile dealer is so much more than a merchant," says Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chalmers dealer, "that the term automobile dealer is coming to mean a specialist in automotive transportation as well as a buyer and seller of cars and parts.

"Few merchants are required to deliver so much more than merely the item sold. Most commercial transactions end with the sale to the consumer, but the real responsibility of the automobile dealer only begins there.

"In order to fully meet this obligation to keep the customer permanently satisfied the automobile dealer must establish his business upon a very broad foundation of real service. He must specialize upon the things that develop after the sale, as well as upon the things which lead the car buyer to favorably consider him.

"The automobile dealer has now become one along with the grocer, the clothier and other merchants who serve constant community needs.

"Every community today is depending upon automobile transportation to an extent that makes necessary the constant presence of responsible institutions to sell and service cars.

"The operation of the modern dealer's establishment involves car maintenance even more than car sales. He is the source of automobile transportation in his market.

"The dealer who recognizes this responsibility and prepares himself to meet it will be the permanent dealer. Mere car salesmen will come and go."

POSTMASTER'S WIFE DRIVES OFF BURGLARS

[By Associated Press]

GRANITE FALLS, Wash., Mar. 31.—Three bandits tried to rob the Granite Falls postoffice early today. Mrs. Florence Carpenter, wife of the postmaster, clad in night clothes, engaged in a running gunfight with them, driving them off after more than a dozen shots had been exchanged. No one was injured. There was an unusually large amount of money in the postoffice vault, including payrolls for a number of logging camps in the vicinity.

CENTRAL P. T. A. TO ELIMINATE YEARLY PICNIC

Decided at Meeting of the Recreation Committee Held Yesterday

The Parent-Teacher association of the Central school has decided to do away with the usual yearly picnic which it holds for the students of that school. This was decided at the recreation committee meeting yesterday. The reason for this is chiefly because of the large number of children in attendance at the Central school now. So many of them are very small, and despite this, their mothers, knowing that they are well taken care of by those in charge, allow them to attend these school picnics. Few teachers can go, and the mothers who give their time to the event find their hands full, looking after the romping children. It would be almost impossible to be responsible for all of them now, with the large increase in attendance that has come recently.

So as a substitute which the parents felt would be quite agreeable to the students, a big free picture show and general entertainment was decided upon, to take place the second Saturday in May. A feature picture will be presented and various vaudeville acts given. The children will be allowed to have a general get-together "free-for-all" good time. This will relieve the mothers of much worry, responsibility and fatigue, without robbing the children of their big annual party.

SACRED CANTATA AT EVANGELIST TABERNACLE

Glendale Adventist Choir to Present Fine Program

A sacred cantata, "The Everlasting Light," will be presented by the choir of the Glendale Adventist church this evening at eight o'clock in the gospel tabernacle on West Myrtle avenue. This cantata is one of the finest musical numbers that will be presented during the evangelistic services, being conducted here by Evangelist C. S. Prout. The choir consists of thirty voices, and individuals will sing some unusually fine solos.

Again on Sunday night Evangelist Prout will deliver another of his absorbing lectures. The topic he has chosen is "Why Did Not An All-Powerful God Destroy the Devil? and Why Does He Permit Sin, Suffering and Death?" These are questions which every person would like answered. They are some of the most vital perplexities found in Bible study. Evangelist Prout, in his talk, will take in the scope of the history of the origin of the devil. He will explain whether or not the devil is a personal being.

The large, well-lighted tabernacle has drawn many people to these strong biblical talks. A large number attend each lecture from Glendale and surrounding towns. At the Sunday service the Glendale choir will sing, and several special musical numbers will be features. Professor Pettis, who is totally blind, will play several selections on the accordion. When Professor Pettis appeared last Wednesday night, he was given a most favorable reception. On the Wednesday following Easter Sunday, the topic will be "The Tragedy of Calvary. Why God Permitted Christ to Die."

The numbers listed in the cantata program are as follows:

Duet—Miss Velda Adams and Miss Helen Gettys.

Quintet—Mrs. A. E. P. Billington, Miss Lola Preston, Miss Helen Gettys, Mr. A. E. P. Billington, Mrs. E. J. Smith.

Organ Introduction.

Choir—"Break Forth Into Joy."

Soprano Obligato Solo—"Sing Together, Ye Waste Places of Jerusalem."

Soprano and Alto Duet—"For the Lord Hath Comforted His People."

Choir—"He Shall Feed His Flock."

Soprano Solo and Women's Chorus—"The People That Walked in Darkness."

Chorus—"Thy Light Is Come."

Soprano Solo with Choir Accompaniment—"Bethlehem."

Tenor Solo—"And There Were Shepherds."

Chorus—"Hail to the Lord's Anointed."

Contralto Solo With Choir Accompaniment—"The Virgin's Lullaby."

Contralto and Baritone Duet—"Room in My Heart for Thee."

BIG MAY DAY IS PLANNED BY P. T. A.

The P. T. A. of Central school held a board meeting yesterday and the recreation committee laid plans for a big May festival to take place at the Central school on the Saturday before May day. May 1 falls on Tuesday this year, so the committee decided to hold the affair on the Saturday preceding rather than the Saturday following May day.

The festival will be one of the largest attempted by the P. T. A., as many new students have joined the school and there will be events enough so that all can take part. A May queen will be chosen, with her ladies in waiting, and many of the students will be trained to participate in a huge Maypole dance. Many others will be taught special calisthenic drills and allowed to practice up for the usual May day races and games.

A gentleman who calls another gentleman a liar is no gentleman.

MRS. J. B. SQUIRE IS ELECTED BY LARGE VOTE

Demonstration of Friendship Is Surprisingly Large

Sixty-five votes were cast for Mrs. J. B. Squire, school trustee, at the Central school polling station yesterday. Mrs. Squire was the only candidate in the field, so the number of votes cast was larger than expected, because of the lack of competition. It was deemed advisable not to run more than one candidate, as Mrs. Squire seemed quite the most capable person for the office and the term is now almost over.

Coming so soon after the big annexation election, the number of votes cast at the school trustee election proved a surprise, as slight interest is usually displayed by the general community over the election of school officials.

Mrs. Squire takes the place vacated by Mrs. Alice Dirkes.

Funeral Services Are Held for Little Marjorie Kingston

Little Marjorie Helen Kingston, 11 years old, passed away at the home of her parents, Fred B. Kingston and Gertrude Bettes Kingston, at 9 o'clock Tuesday night. The Kingstons have lived in Eagle Rock for the past five years, coming here rfom Michigan. Their present residence is at 1124 West Broadway.

Little Marjorie had suffered for about two years and on January 30, an operation was performed for cirrhosis of the liver, but to no avail. The trouble grew worse and for the past two months the little girl had suffered greatly.

Funeral services were held from the Kingston home yesterday afternoon. Interment was in Forest Lawn. Reynolds & Eberle, funeral directors of Pasadena, were in charge.

DENVER, March 31.—A vein of gold four feet wide was discovered in a mine at Cripple Creek.

BIGGEST BUILDING PERMIT TOTAL IS REALIZED

$300,000 Is New Record for the City in March

The $300,000 building permit total was reached and exceeded by several thousand dollars yesterday. By tonight it is hoped that several more large permits will have been issued.

Permits were taken out today by John Bloom, 151 North Eddy street, for a ten-room house, to be erected at 215 North Fairmont street, at cost of $7000; by J. C. Trinkans, 701 Valley drive, for a three-room residence at that address, to cost $1300; to J. A. Berry, 1532 Ash street, Los Angeles, for a five-room residence and garage at Sycamore avenue, to cost $3000; to Wm. Bogynske, 214½ East Colorado, for a two-room temporary dwelling at 124 South Acacia street; to Hymen Zagon, 128 East Sycamore street, a garage permit; to J. A. Reimer, 144 West Palm street, a garage permit; and to Martha Bryant, 612 Colorado boulevard, a three-room dwelling permit, at 562 East Colorado, to cost $500, Montrose Construction Co., builders.

So the month of March has fulfilled the expectations of those in charge of the building permit department by running up a total that makes it the biggest building month in the history of Eagle Rock.

ORDINANCE NO. 768

AN ORDINANCE CALLING A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE ON THE 10TH DAY OF APRIL, 1923, AND SUBMITTING TO THE QUALIFIED VOTERS OF SAID CITY A CERTAIN PROPOSITION OF INCURRING INDEBTEDNESS AND ISSUING BONDS THEREFOR.

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of Glendale, at its adjourned regular meeting held on the 19th day of March, 1923, by vote of two-thirds of all its members, duly passed and adopted a Resolution No. 1854 determining that the public interest and necessity demand the acquisition by said City of Glendale of that certain municipal improvement hereinafter in this ordinance described, and that the estimated cost of said municipal improvement is, and will be, too great, as a whole and also as to a certain portion thereof, to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of said City, and that the expenditure of a certain portion of the estimated cost of said improvement cannot be provided for out of the ordinary revenue of said City, and that the public interest demands the expenditure of a certain sum of money for the purpose of acquiring said improvement, as more particularly appears from said resolution on file in the office of the City Clerk, which is hereby referred to for all particulars;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Glendale:

SECTION 1: That a special election be held, and the same is hereby called and ordered to be held, in the City of Glendale on the 10th day of April, 1923, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said City a proposition of incurring an indebtedness and issuing bonds of said City therefor, in the amount hereinafter stated and for the purposes set forth in said resolution and hereinafter stated.

SECTION 2: That said proposition of incurring an indebtedness to be submitted at said election shall be as follows:

The objects and purposes for which said indebtedness is proposed to be incurred and bonds issued therefor are as follows:

The acquisition of water bearing land from which to obtain water to be used by the municipal waterworks of said City in supplying water to the City of Glendale and the inhabitants thereof, which land is described as follows:

Lots Four (4), Five (5) and Six (6), in Block Ninety-six (96) of the Subdivision of the Rancho Providencia and Scott Tract, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 43, Pages 47 et seq., of Miscellaneous Records of said County; except the Southeasterly ten (10) feet of Lot Six (6) granted to the County of Los Angeles for road purposes by deed recorded in Book 6664, Page 21 of Deeds.

That the total estimated cost of said improvement is the sum of $66,000.00, of which the sum of $17,000.00 can and will be provided for out of the income and revenue of said City for the present fiscal year; that the amount of the principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor is the sum of $49,000.00, and the maximum rate of interest to be paid on such indebtedness shall be six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, which rate shall not be exceeded in the issuance of bonds for such indebtedness.

Said proposition of incurring indebtedness shall be designated on the ballots used at said election by the following question, to-wit:

"8. Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $49,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring water bearing land from which to obtain water to be used by the municipal waterworks of said City in supplying water to the City of Glendale and the inhabitants thereof, which land is described as follows:

Lots Four (4), Five (5) and Six (6), in Block Ninety-six (96) of the Subdivision of the Rancho Providencia and Scott Tract, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 43, Pages 47 et seq., of Miscellaneous Records of said County; except the Southeasterly ten (10) feet of Lot Six (6) granted to the County of Los Angeles for road purposes by deed recorded in Book 6664, Page 21, of Deeds.

That if said proposition for incurring indebtedness so submitted at said election receives two-thirds of the votes of the qualified voters voting at said election, bonds of said City in the amount of $49,000.00 shall be issued and sold for the purpose of acquiring said municipal improvement. Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness.

SECTION 3: That the election hereby called shall be, and the same is hereby consolidated with the general municipal election to be held in the City of Glendale on the 10th day of April, 1923, and heretofore called and ordered by the Council of the City of Glendale to be held on said date by Ordinance No. 763, entitled, "An Ordinance ordering the holding of a General Municipal Election Tuesday, April 10, 1923, in the City of Glendale, and providing for the participation of qualified electors of the Glendale City School District residing in territory outside of the City of Glendale in the election of members of the Board of Education," passed March 15, 1923. That the election precincts and polling places within the City of Glendale heretofore established and designated by said Ordinance No. 763, and the officers of election heretofore established and designated for said precincts in the City of Glendale by said Ordinance No. 763 are hereby established, designated and appointed as the precincts, polling places and officers of election for the special election hereby ordered to be held for the purposes aforesaid, and the precincts, polling places and officers of election for said special election shall be the same as those set forth in said Ordinance No. 763 for all precincts in the City of Glendale.

SECTION 4: The polls for said election shall be opened at six o'clock of the morning of the day of election, and kept open until seven o'clock of the afternoon of the same day, when the polls shall be closed; provided, however, that if, at the said hour for closing the polls, there are any voters in the polling place or in line at the door thereof, who are qualified to vote and have not been able to do so since appearing, the polls shall be kept open a sufficient time to enable them to vote. No one who shall arrive at the polling place after seven o'clock in the afternoon shall be entitled to vote, although the polls may be open when he arrives.

SECTION 5: That on the ballots to be used at said general municipal election in addition to the other matters required by law there shall be printed for the purposes of said special election the following:

	NO

SECTION 6: If an elector voting at said special election shall stamp a cross (X) in the voting square after the printed word "YES" after any question or proposition, his vote shall be counted in favor of the adoption of such question or proposition. If he shall stamp a cross (X) after the printed word "NO" after any question or proposition, his vote shall be counted against the adoption of the same.

SECTION 7: In all particulars not recited in this ordinance, said special election shall be held as provided by law for the holding of municipal elections in said city.

SECTION 8: The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance by the vote of two-thirds of all the members of the Council of said City, and shall cause the same to be published once a week for two weeks, and also for at least seven days, before the time appointed for holding said election, in the Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, printed, published and circulated in the City of Glendale, and the official newspaper of said City, and no other notice of said election need be given. "Did you," said the clever young man, "not that bit of news in the paper about an Albert Ross having a baby born with claws instead of feet?"

"No," replied his audience, "how remarkable!"

"Hardly remarkable," said the clever young man, making ready for a hasty retreat. "It might have been called remarkable had the baby albatross had feet instead of claws."

MAYOR ROBINSON EXPLAINS PLANT AT AIRPORT

Declares No Odors Will Arise During Process of Manufacture

"The impression that has gathered ground in Glendale," said Mayor Spencer Robinson today, "that part of the land that it is proposed to purchase with the proceeds of the $49,500 bond issue that is to be voted on by the people of this city on April 10 is to be leased for the purpose of establishing a fertilizer factory. This is a gross misunderstanding."

In a statement issued today Mayor Robinson declared that none of the land that the city seeks to acquire with the money from the sale of the water and airport bonds will be leased to any project or firm that could be regarded as constituting, in the slightest degree, a nuisance or an objectionable feature of the industrial life of Glendale.

Mayor Robinson explained at length that the site that has been selected by the company is to be used for a factory for the manufacture of a germinant that is absolutely devoid of objectionable odor.

"I am speaking from personal experience when I say that," asserted the mayor, "for I have used the product on my own alfalfa fields and can say that there is no smell to it or to its manufacture. Those residents of Glendale who live near the proposed industrial district at the airport need have no uneasiness on this subject, nor any fear that life will be made unpleasant for them by the fumes from any fertilizer factory, for the company is not engaged in the manufacture of any fertilizer. Theirs is a chemical product, with a sulphur base, that is made in accordance with a well-established formula, and it will be an enormous asset to the industrial life of the city when Mr. Rasmus gets his plant started, as he will employ a large number of girls and other office assistants, as well as a number of expert chemists in the manufacture of his product.

"I may add, also," continued Mayor Robinson, "that I have seen the preparation used in Patterson Park, where a pine tree that had been thrown away was treated with Plant-pep and is now revived to an extent that assures it of many years of flourishing life, and I have also tried it out on my own farm, where it not only reduced the amount of alfalfa seed that was necessary to seed my land but it has also started the crop to growing in a manner that insures me a greater yield than I have ever had before in all the years that I have been engagd in raising alfalfa.

"In viw of these facts, I consider that the manufacture of the goods in Glendale on the scale that Mr. Rasmus proposes will be one of the greatest advantages we would look for, and I want to repeat as emphatically as possible that the factory will not in any sense be a fertilizer plant, as some people seem to fear, nor will it cause the slightest discomfort to the people residing in the vicinity in which it is located."

Mayor Robinson is working steadily to secure the passage of the bond issue, as he is convinced that the acquisition of the land for the water works and the airport is a vital necessity to Glendale, besides representing an investment that is certain to become in the immediate future an important source of revenue for the city. As he expresses it "if some of these fellows around here would just cut out a couple of these two for a quarter cigars they are smoking, they could more than pay the tax for a year on a thousand dollars' worth of property, and besides that they wouldn't have to pay it anyhow, because the money the city will get from the water works and the airport will much more than pay for the principal and interest on the bonds."

The water and airport bond question will be No. 8 on the ballot on April 10.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrete and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

WHY I WISH I COULD JOIN THE AMERICAN LEGION

By Dr. Frank Crane

One of the very best things that comes out of war is comradeship.

It is impossible to prevent this comradeship even if we wanted to. Ex-soldiers are held together by the strongest ties of fellowship.

That is the reason why, if I were an ex-soldier, I would join the American Legion.

In other words, the American Legion is inevitable.

It is every citizen's duty to use existing agencies and inevitable forces. If he does not use them, other men will.

The best way to make the American Legion a force for good is for all good men to join it, take part in it, and direct its energies in wholesome ways.

The American Legion ought to be a tremendous power for good, for intelligent patriotism, and for sound government.

It is so now. The way to keep it so is for every man who is qualified to enlist his membership and help along.

THE CHILDREN

My children want a poem for them especially;
I'd have you know my children are many as can be.
They're little ones and big ones, and short ones and the tall,
And noisy ones and quiet ones and big ones and the small.
There may be quite a million, I'm sure I cannot say
How many with exactness, or count them in the way
You might count rosy apples, or stand them in a line,
But I claim all the children in every place as mine.

Yes, I claim all the children, the merry ones and glad,
The strong ones and the weak ones, the cheerful and the sad;
The ones with tan and freckles; the crippled ones and whole;
As many as there are on earth—Lord bless each little soul.
And I wish I might sing them a song to bring them joy,
To make them well and happy, yes, every girl and boy.
For they are all my children, the merry ones and sad,
And I wish I might bring them a song to make them glad.

My children want a poem, I'm very sure they do,
And I wish I might write one, that every dream come true;
That every cheek be rosy, that every day be bright,
That every voice be merry and every heart be light.
Oh, such a merry poem for every lass and lad
To set them all a-laughing and make them all be glad.
So all you bigger children, come see what you can do
To help me write the poem and make the dream come true.

PEARL WHITE AT THE GLENDALE IN 'PEACOCK'

Sunday Begins Four-Day Run of "The Christian"

Pearl White, famous star of William Fox photoplays, will be seen at the Glendale theatre tonight only, in her latest picture—"The Broadway Peacock" which, as its title implies, is a story of the gaiety, frivolity, disasters and triumphs of persons who are swept into the entrancing life typified by New York's great white way.

Miss White's role is that of a dazzling, vivacious hostess of a noted cabaret, whose beauty and personality keep the place seething with merry-making.

Seldom does the making of a motion picture make news of such importance that it is cabled across the ocean. But that is what happened when Maurice Tourneur and his Goldwyn company used Trafalgar Square, London, for scenes in "The Christian," Hall Caine's greatest story, which will be shown at the Glendale theatre, for four days, beginning Sunday. Here is the cabled account carried by the press associations:

"Londoners returning home early Saturday morning enjoyed a demonstration of American film making that left them astounded at American enterprise and made them wonder how permission had been gotten to stage such a spectacle, because the mob scene was given in historic, revered Trafalgar Square.

"From 1 o'clock until dawn Nelson's column was lit up by a fantastic bluish light which made falling rain look like snow, and threw garish shadows over the mob of 2000.

"The scene was being made for the film version of one of Hall Caine's novels. 'The Christian.' The hero, a clergyman, is being mobbed. He has the crowd nearly pacified when a gang of ruffians hired by the villain incites the mob to raid the monument and drive the hero from London."

The clergyman, walking along the main street of the village, on his way to call on a sick parishioner, met one of the richest men in the district. Putting on his most winning smile, he advanced to meet him with outstretched hand.

"Ah!" he exclaimed in delighted tones, "Mr. Jenks, what a pleasure to see you! How do you do?"

"Not at all up to the mark," replied the other disconsolately.

"Why?" asked the good clergyman. "What is the matter?"

"I'm thoroughly upset," replied Mr. Jenks. "That scoundrel of a son of mine has run off to Gary and got married without my permission."

"Alas!" said the good man sympathetically. "Alas!"

"A lass," retorted the other irritably, "of course it was a lass! D'ye think the boy would run away with his grandmother?"

PARAMOUNT FILM OPENS SUNDAY AT T. D. & L.

"Mr. Billings Spends His Dime," and Norma Talmadge Closes

Among the many big sets made at the Paramount West Coast Studio in many months, those used in staging "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime," a Paramount picture, starring Walter Hiers, which comes to the T., D. & L. Theatre Sunday for three days, stood out above all the others. Not only in size but in unusual appearance did they tower over all others.

Representing a street in a Latin-American country, one set was picturesque with its odd buildings, squalid and of novel architecture. In addition, the characters roaming the street added to its unique appearance. A partial list of the minor actors caled for the set included: Latin-American types, two mounted guards, coachman in livery, footman in livery, four soldiers, two women water carriers, one peon, one ox-cart driver, one burro cart driver, one wood bearer, one blind man, three men tourists, two women tourists, three men booth peddlers, two women booth peddlers.

Added to this were many horses, oxen, pigs, cows, mules, burros, goats, sheep, cats, dogs and other domestic animals.

A windless night on the street; soft moonlight falling on the sands cooling from the heat of the day; the silence unbroken save for the commotion in the camel corral; a youth on his way to the Holy Land; a beautiful girl, fleeing from a brutal husband.

Under such circumstances was born a romance that neither the youth nor the girl believed could be shattered until death parted them. They had met in a strange manner—and love had come to them in the desert. The past was no longer even a memory; they lived in the present and in the future.

Their travels brought them to the city of Damascus, the ancient city where civilization had met rebuffs throughout the centuries of its history. Customs of thousands of years ago still lived—and five times a day the muezzin, standing on the parapet of the minaret, called to the faithful to fall to their knees, face the east and pray to Allah.

This is a portion of the story of "The Voice From a Minaret," a First National picture starring Norma Talmadge, which is now playing at the T. D. & L. theatre. It is a powerful tale of love, hate and revenge, and has Eugene O'Brien in the leading male role. Robert Hichens, famous novelist, wrote it, and Frank Lloyd was the director.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE MARKET CONDITIONS

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Mar. 31.—Although business conditions in virtually all lines of trade and industry continued to show marked improvement, stock and bond prices lost ground during the week in response to heavy speculative selling founded on rumors which later proved to be erroneous, that another increase in the Federal Reserve re-discount rate was impending.

While these rumors furnished an excuse for repeated assaults on the general list, the course of prices indicated that the market had developed an overbought condition with the professional sponsors for the rise unable to attract a sufficiently large outside following to maintain the upward trend.

Although predictions as to the duration of the present bull market which has run, with few interruptions, for nearly two years, vary from a few weeks to nine months, there is a consensus of opinion that the public is much more discriminating in its choice of stocks and that the speculative excesses in the last phases of the market will not become as violent as they were in 1919.

Despite the general reactionary trend, several new high records were made during the week, among the most important being California Petroltum at 104-108, Maryland Oil at 56 5-8, Union bag and paper at 55 1-2, and Owens Bottle 51 3-4. The Virginia-Carolin Chemical issues dropped to a new low price for the year on heavy selling based on reports of poor current earnings, but they made partial recovery later on official announcement that the cash position of the company was good.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Stock prices moved in a rather aimless and irregular fashion in today's market. Few of the leaders fluctuated sufficiently either way to furnish a definite indication of speculative operations. With most of the large operators away for the Easter holidays, the price movements were largely in the hands of floor traders. Heaviness of Pacific Oil and several of the independent steel shares were counterbalanced by advances in the food group and a few minor specialties. Willys-Overland preferred was pushed 4½ points and Beechnut and Century Ribbon each advanced two. Marland Oil also rose over two points to a new high for the year. Selling in the Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues forced the preferred down nearly 3 points. Adams express and St. Louis Southwestern preferred also were conspicuously heavy. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 30,000.

NEW YORK, Mar 31. — With many traders away for the holiday, trading was relatively quiet at the opening of today's stock market with the price tendency irregular. Initial changes, with few exceptions, were of a fractional character. Shattuck Arizona advancing a point and moderate improvtment was shown by Maryland Oil. Standard Oil of California, American Can, U. S. Steel, Iron Products and Lehigh Valley. Bethlehem B and Crucible reduced frantically.

Mexican Petroleum, ordinarily inactive, added 13 points to its 9-point gain of Thursday, selling at 288. The Pan-Amtrican issues and California Petroleum also moved to higher ground. Gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by Postum Cereal, Brown Shoe. New York Air Brake and Wyllis Overland preferred. Republic Steel dropped a point and a reactionary trend was noted in St. Paul preferred, Adams Express, Lima Locomotive and Virginia Carolina Chemical. Foreign exchanges opened irregular; demand sterling dropping 5-8 to 4.67 1-2 and French francs climbing 3 1-2 points to 6.66 1-2. Moderate improvement also was registered by German marks, which advanced 1 3-4 to .0047 1-2 cent.

Its dawning is the golden glory that unites all Christians—the group on the Tropico hill with that on the icy slopes of the Arctic circle mission; with the far-flung, lonely vanguard of Christ on the Asiatic field, and the fever-infested swamps of the Brazilian jungles, where the cross is uplifted. Wherever Christ has touched a human heart comes the Easter sun with its sanctified message of the vicarious sacrifice 1923 years ago.

THREE SOCIAL IDEAS

In a recent address Dr. Raymond C. Brooks of Pomona colleges pointed out three conceptions of social leadership. These for the present are engaged in a struggle for supremacy. Perhaps that last analysis, by which relative merit ultimately is to be determined, has yet to be made. Nevertheless in every land thoughtful and unselfish men already have reached their own conclusions.

The three systems are autocracy, or rule by the intellectually and morally superior; bolshevism, or rule by the proletariat; democracy, or rule by the average man, considered, of course, collectively.

Probably the first conception could command greater support, if the "intellectually and morally superior" really possessed the qualities implied. As a matter of historical record, the qualities have been found to be sadly lacking when an absolute monarch has been put to the test. Were the superiority real, and not a thing of fancy and prejudice, perhaps the world would be glad to accept its control.

In Russia is to be seen what the proletariat is capable of accomplishing. Mentally, though maybe not through any fault of its own, it is incompetent. It cannot even formulate a logical theory. When it seeks to put into practice the lame and halt doctrine evolved from its ignorance, the result is ruin; a bitter experience leading to the climax expressed in choas.

Democracy seems to have done better, to be richer in performance, and to have achieved that of which it has a right to be proud. No claim to perfection could be sustained for it, were such claim to be made, but nobody has shown a better way. Democracy holds the rights of the common man in reverence. It rejects the sway of any class. It would not give government into the power of the rich, or the highly educated as a clique, or the radical, or the ultra conservative. It needs the energies and support of all. It deserves this service, for it is devoted to the good of all. It believes in justice and in fellowship. It recognizes that wrongs exist, and seeks to banish them. Its hope lies in fraternity, in community of purpose, all its zeal being tempered by patriotism and a sense of equality.

Equality could exist only in a democracy. The exalting of the rabble to a station of authority, closes the door to opportunity to all who had not previously belonged to the rabble. In these aspects autocracy is as forbidding. There remains alone democracy. Apparently upon its fate rests also the fate of civilization.

ERRATIC WEATHER

At this writing the weather has not made a very good record for itself in southern California. It has been fine and pleasant, but mere suavity is not all that is reasonably expected of a climate. It has other serious duties to perform than the creation of charming days. For instance, there's moisture. Where is the precipitation that ought to have gladdened valley and field, and caused the watersheds to be perky and green? It has not been observed either going or coming. If it is aloft, it is staying there with a persistence worthy of a far better cause. The hour grows late. In the friendliest spirit the rain is asked to take a tumble. It is needed; it would be apppreciated. March has been unduly warm, but that might be endured. Occasionally the wind swirling across the desert has filled the air with arid clouds, not delightful to encounter. This, too, will be forgiven and forgotten, if the tardy showers will but try to catch up with normal.

At the beginning of the rainy season the precipitation was abundant. For some time it seemed that double the usual number of inches was to be measured off by the official gauge, but this was bluff. There has been nothing to the rainy season yet but the beginning. Men who cultivate the ground for the purpose of growing things deserve well of their fellows. If by human resolution, statute, or ukase, they might be supplied with all the water they need, they would have the water. But here humanity is helpless, with no recourse, so far as known, but prayer.

It is not too late for the season to make amends at least in part. Weather prophets are requested to be as cheerful as they can in their predictions.

OPPOSING REFORM

Opposition to the three-fourths jury has arisen in the state senate, and the matter is to be reconsidered. When the plan was endorsed by the senate, nothing but praise was evoked, save from a coterie of criminal lawyers. As it was against these the proposed change chiefly was aimed, opposition was not surprising. That such opposition should have exerted definite influence, is, on the other hand, quite surprising.

The measure was formulated to meet a recognized evil. The system in vogue places a dangerous power in the hands of a jury minority. The minority may consist of one person, and yet effectually tie the hands of justice, causing mistrial, and often leading to the escape of the guilty. For a long time this condition had been deplored. An effort was made to remedy it. There was promise of success; and now the senate having taken a wise and popular step, proposes to reconsider. This may result in blocking the reform.

According to the common view all arguments are on one side. There does not seem any good reason for preserving a rule that is expensive and harmful in operation, and that works in favor of the criminal. It causes delay that keeps the courts far behind their dockets, and it detains in jail, awaiting trial, accused persons who may be innocent, and who constitutionally are entitled to speedy hearing.

Criminal lawyers have been permitted to dominate the courts. If they may also dominate the senate, naturally the hurtful practice is to continue.

THE MEANINGLESS PROMISE

A case recently before the courts of this county was unusual, possibly unique. A woman had sued for breach of promise. The man in the case got out of it by showing that at the time he entered into the engagement, following a proposal of marriage, he had not been legally separated from a wife previously acquired. The court held that a married man was in no position to promise marriage, and that such promise "was void and against public policy." Doubtless all the law necessary to the sustaining of this position was duly cited.

There does not seem to be justice in letting the man off. If the promise he made was intrinsically worthless, it would be just to devise some form of punishment for him for having given something having no value. The transaction had all the moral savor of passing forged paper, or a counterfeit. The spirit of it suggests that inspiring the operator who sells a bogus brick painted to resemble gold. It is as bad to give a promise that it is impossible to keep, as it would be to give a promise and then deliberately break it.

The defendant in this particular case saved his bank account from indentation, but he will find, in figuring the matter out carefully, that so far as his reputation was involved, the salvage was not great.

Many Americans have said, as they departed for Europe, that they were going for the purpose of studying some phase of the economic or industrial condition. The thought comes readily to mind that a useful operation is being reversed. Europe might learn much, in its day of comparative failure, by study of the United States, where there is peace and prosperity.

Only those who have no worries can afford to look worried.

A Little Case to Consider

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The person who reported to me the facts back of this story is the daughter of the couple about whom it centers.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

The girl is frail and depressed, anaemic and unlikely to long be able to maintain herself. But she is educated and commands a fair salary.

There are other children, all married and parents. The sinner is a man past 60 who is suffering with a psuedo passion that is nothing but a manifestation of senile dementia. He refuses to support his wife, the mother of his children, because his daughter "is able to take care of her mother;" and he spends all his money on other women. More and more he neglects and abuses his wife, his object being to force her to divorce him so he can marry a younger woman.

Not an unusual case; the conditions that I have described are daily becoming more common and they present a problem that society must face.

A man uses a woman up until she is past the age when she can for herself earn a decent living. In his old age he begins to dream of renewing his life by remarrying and starting a new family.

The result is in most cases that the first wife is thrown on society for support. Later the old sinner presents us with another family after which he dies and leaves as a legacy to the taxpayers. Why is it permitted?

In the interest of personal liberty? Whose liberty? Certainly not the liberty of the cast off wife. Surely not the liberty of the first set of children who are often forced to give up marriage to support their deserted mother, and with equal certainty not the liberty of the taxpayers who are assessed to meet the obligations of a coward and shirker.

It's a serious problem, my brothers, a very serious problem, and it calls for no sentiment in settlement. If men of 60 plus want to free themselves from their partners in order to prance and cavort, why should they not pay for the privilege? If the man of whom I am writing, insists on divorce why should he not have to give bonds for the support of his first wife and another bond for the support of the possible children of a silly young woman who will marry him?

In justice he should; and if we collectively were not a group of dunces he would. And you can bet that any regulation that compelled such bonds would automatically stop numerous capers on the part of such men as I have reference to.

Young women do not want old men. What they want is the money they can get out of them and that money by rights belongs to the wives and children whom old men desert for unprincipaled and anti-social young women.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

POTPOURRI

Tutankhamen

"Reader" desires to know the pronunciation of Tutankhamen. It is tut-an-ka' men (u as in rule; a as in artistic; a as in art; e as in get).

The Elite Challenged

O. Marius of Chicago writes, "Why does the elite persist in pronouncing pianist as peanist?" The following are correct pronunciations of the foregoing words: in' ter-est-ing (i as in hit; e as in final; e as in get; i as in habit; pro' gram (o as in go; a as in at); pi-an' ist (i as in habit; a as in at; i as in hit, or pi' a-nist (i as in police; a as in final; i as in hit). Pi-an' ist is preferred in the New Standard.

They Have Been Adopted?

C. Pozgay asks "whether through usage the following words have become English: candelabrum; carafe; cascable; coupe." Candelabrum means a candlestick or lamp-stand having several lamps. Carafe (from the French) is a glass water-bottle or a decanter. Cascabel is a knob or breeching-loop behind the breech of a muzzle-loading cannon. Coupe is a low four-wheeled closed carriage with a seat for two and an outside seat for the driver. Candelabrum and coupe are more familiar words than carafe and casabel.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

A man put up a building that looked fair from the outside.

A building of many stories.

Ten or twelve of them.

JAMES W. FOLEY

All with modern conveniences.

And then he invited people to come and engage offices from him.

* * *

But somehow the rumor got abroad that the building was not safe.

The walls not sound.

The floors not heavy enough.

And that sometime it might collapse.

And the tenants were shy.

* * *

Nobody would engage an office.

Because nobody wanted to go down in the smash.

People want to be safe and secure.

And while the building might have been in every way safe, public opinion destroyed it.

And it stood vacant and unproductive.

For lack of faith in it on the part of the people who were to rent it.

* * *

Eventually the man had to tear the building down and build a new one.

And he took good care that its safety and solidity should be known.

Because he realized what a necessary thing favorable public opinion is.

* * *

And so a man got a reputation as a slack workman.

And he suffered the same fate as the unsafe building.

Or the one reported to be unsafe.

Men would not hire the slack workman.

Because of his reputation.

And eventually he went constantly out of a job.

* * *

A government issued money.

Bales and tons of it.

In billions and trillions of units.

But something about the money did not appeal to the sense of safety.

And when a man got a million dollars' worth of it he turned immediately and resold it for what he could get.

* * *

The result of it all was that the money fell to a value of almost nothing.

There was no faith behind it.

People did not know today what it might be worth tomorrow.

And so they set out to get rid of it.

And exchange it for something worth while.

* * *

So with the building of buildings, the offer of securities, the issue of money, or any transaction involving faith and credit.

If there is no faith and credit there is no value.

The money of this country is worth a hundred cents on the dollar.

It is worth that today.

It will be worth that tomorrow.

* * *

So no man seeks to dispose of his money at a discount.

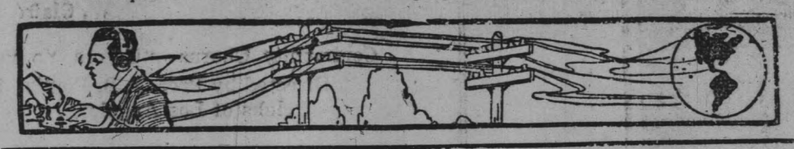
He does not fear that tomorrow his fortune will be worthless.

And he keeps on working, earning, depositing, saving.

For when he needs his savings in the future they will be safe for him.

* * *

It is impossible with any specious system of reasoning or any shady system of finance to get past that thing of public faith and credit.



Songs of the Poets

The Wonderful World—By William Brightly Rands

Great, wide, beautiful, wonderful world,
With the wonderful water around you curled,
And the wonderful grass upon your breast,
World, you are beautifully dressed.

The wonderful air is over me,
And the wonderful wind is shaking the tree—
It walks on the water, and whirls the mills,
And talks to itself on the top of the hills.

You friendly earth, how far do you go,
With the wheat-fields that nod, and the rivers that flow,
With cities and gardens, and cliffs and isles,
And people upon you for thousands of miles?

TAKING LOVE LIGHTLY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MRS. G. VERE TYLER, the novelist, said the other day: "I think that women, instead of taking love lightly, gayly, joyously, as a man does, take it too seriously and let it make them miserable. To be happy they must get over this. The time is coming when women will be free of glooms, grouches, martyrdoms, misgivings, and the like, and then they will be happy."

Love is essentially a light, joyous, and happy thing.

The period when love functions most vividly, the time of life when nature calls for mating, is the brightest epoch of our days. It is the time of romance, adventure, hope, and poetry.

It is the blossom time of the race.

But to say that love should be taken lightly would be misleading. For love, after all, is a serious business, and roundabout this bright day of sunshine can always be heard the thunders of destiny.

Love is inextricably bound up with the moralities. In fact, love and morality are not contradictory terms. On the contrary, normal love, that which is not only happy but wants to remain happy, seeks the moralities just as a man seeks for a rock and not the shifting sands upon which to build his house.

Morality, after all, is nothing but the science of human relationships. It is the attempt of people to discover the permanent laws which govern the art of getting along together. Every morality implies the other fellow. There is no individual morality, strictly speaking. Every virtue and every sin has its relation to our fellow man.

If by loving lightly, therefore, we mean to love without recognizing our responsibilities and our ideas of justice, honor, and fair play, such light loving is no more than a crime.

There are minds that cannot understand how a thing can be at once serious and joyous. Indeed, it is only when we have made some progress in wisdom that we discover that there is no joy except the light and beauty that play above the serious realities.

Monogamy is the best solution for the permanent relation of the sexes, for the simple reason that it is that form of love which recognizes the rights of the child and of the woman.

Love is the gladdest thing in the world. Only as we are in love do we experience the fullest exercise of every function of the spirit. Only the mind warmed by the enthusiasm of love can have vision, can give just judgments, can think clearly and soundly.

Coldness and hate are always squint-eyed.

There is a deal of right intuition under the woman's cry, "Love me little, love me long."

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NOT ALL "GRAVE ROBBING"

[Boston Transcript]

A correspondent writes to the Transcript: "If a gang of curious persons from Egypt should come over here and start digging into the resting place of General Ulysses S. Grant near New York, or that of George Washington at Mt. Vernon, should we call them scientific investigators or just grave robbers? We should be justified in calling them grave robbers if they came in the twentieth century, but if they came in the sixtieth century, and in the meantime the learned world had settled down to an acceptance of the theory that George Washington was an Eskimo chieftain, who conquered the northern part of the American continent with airplanes from Greenland somewhere between the year 47 B. C. and the final overthrow of the Hayseed Dynasty in the twenty-second century; and if it were known that Washington's tomb contained his private journal and his Farewell Address, long since lost to history, there would really be some excuse for careful research in his newly discovered place of burial, and living men would not be so keen against the grave-robbing.

There is every reason against brutal or wanton disturbance of the desiccated remains of King Tutankhamen, and it would be a matter of much human satisfaction if, after due observation and the fullest study of the records of his tomb, he might be allowed to slumber peacefully, and in full honor, beneath his glittering canopy. But it would be mere fanaticism to say that we should entirely forego the opportunity afforded by the material in his tomb to clear up certain doubtful points in Egyptian history. In due time, and without synic brutality, such inscriptions and other historical material as the tomb of Tutankhamen contains should be copied, photographed and added to the data which we already possess.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The desire for education is quite general. The means of acquiring an education are reasonably accessible. To become educated in any real meaning of the term necessitates application. To the thoughtful, education is the result of experience. Some minds are so constituted as to be able, otherwise unguided, to draw education from books. Here and there is the mighty mind, thinking as the impulse of instinct; reading the lesson of its environment; branching out into independent lines, and at last becoming not only educated, but an educator.

HENRY JAMES

People who have missed the opportunity of education often feel the lack. They are conscious of being under a handicap. They conceive the idea that there is a short cut to learning, and to the power they believe to be the concomitant of learning. Hence they are in quest of the easier way. It is this fact that accounts for much of the advertising that seems to hold out the lure of knowledge. So many have discovered the "secrets of life," and are willing to let others in, at a price. They proclaim an eagerness and ability to teach systems that will cause the individual to dominate all those about him. By absorbing the content of a small pamphlet, the subscriber is elevated into a master intelligence, invincible in all things, shaping his own destiny as a baker shapes a bun.

An amazing circumstance is that these systems should be advertised in magazines of generally high purpose and fine quality. Of course for the most part the schemes are pure bunk. They are effective, however. They woo the coin of the credulous, and this is what they are for.

Secretary Hughes did not need any vindication in regard to his statement of the administration attitude towards soviet Russia. That attitude reflected the opinion of Americans generally. The only exceptions are the parlor bolshevists and Senator Borah, whose activities are not limited to the parlor.

Soon after the utterance of Secretary Hughes came the showing that in this country there is an attempt to bring about a revolution. Also a showing that the activities of the aliens and so-called Americans thus engaged, are directed from Moscow.

The recognition that Russia merits at present is similar to that of the policeman for the night-prowler.

Bill Davis—everybody knows Bill—he says that Secretary Denby of the navy has been guilty of uttering pure drivel. This serious charge is based on the allegation that as the battleship Iowa sank, executed by the guns of other ships, the secretary remarked, "She served her country in dying as she served it living."

Now there is sentiment connected with material things, with a home, with a boat, or with a flivver such as Bill succeeds in holding together with a string.

"Aye, tear the tattered ensign down!" exclaimed the poet, right feelingly, not thinking there could be anybody who cared not a darn whether the ensign were aloft or in the ragbag!

Hasn't Bill a soul? Isn't there somewhere about him a spirit that soars on occasion?

Southern California will be sorry to lose the battleships. It does not understand why it is to lose them. The harbor at San Pedro has been pronounced most acceptable by men and officers. Admiral Rodman supported this view, at least up to the time when he left the command, and yet it was his official report that brought about the change.

However, though the fleet goes, almost everything else seems to come, and much of it, to elect to stay.

Wall street is hard for the rank outsider to understand. He may realize of course that if he went into it with money he would emerge without money. This is not the point being considered.

Wall street gentlemen cause the listing of stocks. Then they buy or sell. Often they agree to sell that which they do not possess, and never desired to possess. W[illegible]CHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

My [illegible] the travelling salesman came in this morning. He's mart, th[illegible] Smart as a whip, although I have never been able to find out just how smart is a whip. He has been making a good living for years selling things that no one wants, to the people who do not want them. You'll never find him handling staples, like sugar or shoe soles. He always sells articles that are hard to sell, and on which the commission is correspondingly large. Like real estate.

"I want to ask your advice," he said to me this morning, after the greeting had been properly managed and he had hung up his hat.

"Just a minute," I said. "I'll be right back."

Then I disappeared into the next room, and closed the door and borrowed Hank Devine's hat and went out on the street. From a safe distance I telephoned to Miss Kelly.

"Tell that good looking young man in my office," I said, "that I have been called to Cairo, Egypt, and may never get back. Tell him I'm all out of advice."

He caught me that way once. He put his selling problem before me, and I bent my forehead to it, and worked out the finest selling talk you ever heard. The arguments were all mine, with a little assistance at critical moments from him, and they were good. So good that when I finally convinced him that he was peddling an excellent article and he offered me the fountain pen and the dotted line I fell.

"That's the way I catch the hard ones," he chuckled some time later when I reproached him for this breach of confidence. "I ask their advice. Then they sell themselves."

I've used the idea myself since then. It usually works.

The Power of Money

It has power more than any other single thing—except the human mind.

Why?

Because money is a token that represents work or food or machinery—things that are useful and have power to create and satisfy.

That's why your money here in a savings account earns for you. The things back of the money are working and the profits are credited to your account in terms of dollars.

Wouldn't you be foolish not to take advantage of this power of your dollars?

CHURCH LAITY WANTS PART IN NAMING BISHOPS

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, March 30.—The appointment of bishops in the Church of England, which is the prerogative of the prime minister, has again been attacked by members of the church.

The question was brought before a committee of the recent national assembly of the church but no action was taken, although a large section of the "low" church members urged that the matter be brought before the main body of the assembly.

The matter was again before the public at the recent convocation of the Lower House of York, when a motion was made that the church should have direct voice in the appointment of bishops. It was pointed out that the last two premiers had not been members of the Church of England, although they had the power of appointing the church heads.

The debate was adjourned until the next convocation, despite the efforts of the laymen to bring about a vote.

"A pretty lot of children you are for a minister to have," exclaimed a west side pastor, whose children were misbehaving at the dinner table.

"Then why don't you change your business, papa?" asked four-year-old Dorothy.

MESSAGE OF EASTER IS ONE OF VICTORY DECLARES REV. COLE

In Every Christian Church of Glendale Tomorrow Will Be Found a Story in Song, Sermon and Ritual That Will Fill the Heart

MOST POWERFUL NAME WILL BE SPOKEN

Hundreds of Glendale Prepared for the Sanctified Day By Attendance On the Noonday Services at the Glendale

By REV. CLIFFORD A. COLE

The sudden popularity of the Easter morning observances and of the day itself brings possibilities for the advancement of the Cause of Him whose death it commemorates, or may be fraught with a danger that Christians will take into account as they worship in our churches today. That danger is, that in keeping the day and celebrating as a community, we shall leave out the primal fact of the Christian religion, that is, that Jesus of Nazareth was crucified and was raised again from the dead. Americans are long on celebration, but short on commemoration. We must never cheapen the observance of the crowning event of all time for the human race. 'Twould be like celebrating the anniversary of a friend, and forgetting the friend.

Tomorrow, in every Christian church in this city—both Catholic and Protestant—our citizens will find a story in song and sermon and ritual that will thrill the hearts and lift up the souls of men. You are called to go there and worship. The most talked of, most loved, most hated, most powerful Name among men today will be spoken there. You may be a good man, but you'll be a better man after hearing that Name in all its significance—the Name of the Son of God.

It is to be observed with a good deal of satisfaction that, in spite of little publicity and without the appeal of entertainment, literally hundreds of our neighbors went at a most unlikely hour, the noon-hour, to hear again the story of the world's powerful event and of its most portentous week. The ministers of Glendale have been pleased with the splendid response to their experiment of noon-day services, held during the past week in a local theater.

The message of Easter is a victorious message. "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world," was the triumphant note of confidence in the darkest of earth's nights. What a strange contradiction were these words of Jesus in the face of the abuse, insult and vituperation of man and of an ignominious death! But now, on this Easter Day, the generation proclaims, "Thou Son of God, thou hast conquered!" The victory of Christ over Death is the supreme triumph of the ages. Love, in conflict with all the power of sin, occupied the cross on Golgotha's hill. The Cross seemed death and defeat, but the Resurrection proclaimed life and victory!

It surely is not out of place that in the face of our celebrations which are heralded everywhere, and which by some might be turned into commercializing the Day and making it a time to give publicity to city and community enterprises, that we call attention that it is the Resurrection of the Son of Man we are commemorating. It is a deeply and purely religious thing that we are called to do on Easter Day. Christ is Risen! He towers solitary and alone among the teachers of the world. Go, stand in the gateway of the City of the Dead, and call the roll of the wise men. "Socrates!" A voice answers from the hollow recesses of the tomb, "Here." "Plato!" "Here." "Aristotle! Confucius! Mohamet!" All answer "Here." But call the name of Jesus of Nazareth. An angel answers, "He is not here! He is risen! Come see the place where they laid Him."

"If Jesus Christ is a man—
And only a man—I say,
That of all mankind I cleave to Him,
And to Him will I cleave alway.

"If Jesus Christ is a God—
And the only God—I swear
I will follow Him through Heaven and Hell,
The earth, the sea and the air."

DIPLOMAT WAS ONCE IDAHO ENGINEER

[By Associated Press]

BOISE, Idaho, March 30.—Prince Gelasio Caetani, Italian ambassador to the United States and famous war hero, has quite a reputation in Idaho as a mining engineer. About 20 years ago he came to the mines of Custer county, but only his most intimate friends knew that he belonged to the Italian nobility and that his father was the Duke of Sermoneta.

Caetani studied mining engineering at the Royal School of Mines in Italy and then took a post graduate course at Columbia university. During his vacations he served as a miner, timberman and underground surveyor in Colorado and in the deep coal mines of Belgium and Yorkshire, England. Upon completion of his studies at Columbia, he came to Kellogg, Idaho, and entered the employ of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining company.

After he had labored at Kellogg for several years, Caetani went to the Treadwell Island mines in Alaska, but again returned to Idaho in 1909 to become superintendent of mills for the Bunker Hill and Sullivan. He held this position for some time and then went to San Francisco where, with two other men, he started a private engineering company.

In 1914, when the World war broke out, Caetani went to Italy and, with the entrance of that country into the conflict, he joined the Italian army and became a captain in the First regiment of Royal Engineers.

He retired from the army a colonel and with many decorations. He had the distinction of having been a member of that heroic band which, on April 17, 1916, blew up the summit of Col di Lana, an Austrian stronghold in Val Cordevole.

The prince did not return to the United States when the war was over but instead stayed in Italy, where he succeeded to extensive family estates and titles. He becam a member of the Italian chamber of deputies and was one of the leaders in the construction of a canal to drain the extensive marsh lands between Rome and Naples.

When the Fascisti movement started in Italy, the prince joined with Mussolini and when that party came into power he was named as the representative of his country at Washington.

MISSOURI FARM RICH IN GOLD AND SILVER

EXETER, Mo., March 30.—A number of leases in southeastern Missouri have been sold in the last few weeks as the result of the discovery of gold, silver, copper and zinc on the farm of G. S. Johnson, near here.

About a year ago, while drilling a well, a golden colored rock about ten feet thick, and said to have been rich in copper was found by workmen. Beneath this rock, it was stated, another of a greyish hue was found. Minerologists examined it and found it to contain silver. Johnson pulverized the rock and from sixteen ounces of ore extracted about an ounce of metal.

Gold has also been found in the well, but, according to Johnson, in insufficient quantities to send it away to be smeltered. It is planned, however, to construct a large blast furnace and smelter here.

Johnson has leased the property to a company, and a shaft has been lowered to a depth of 70 feet. Assays of the ore are being made by the government bureau of mines.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 30.—Contrary to popular belief the federal prisons hold few bootleggers, according to Finch R. Archer, warden of McNeil Island, Wash., penitentiary, who was a visitor here recently. Of the 500 or more prisoners at McNeil Island, he said, only three are serving for liquor violations.

GLENDALE'S LATEST AND CHOICEST SUBDIVISION BEING SOLD OUT ALMOST OVER NIGHT; EVERY HOMESITE A JEWEL

Walter H. Leimert Company, Recently of San Francisco, is Bringing to Light the Many Wonders of This Charming Property

Bellehurst Park is breaking all records for quick sales, as it is almost all gone and the first announcement in the Los Angeles papers is only two weeks old. To date, more than seven hundred thousand dollars worth of property has been purchased, and the volume of sales is increasing every day.

A combination of very exceptional conditions makes Bellehurst Park the most desirable residence section of Glendale, if not of the entire metropolitan area of Los Angeles.

Bellehurst park is breaking all records for quick sales as it is almost all gone and the first announcement in the Los Angeles papers is only two weeks old. To date more than seven hundred thousand dollars' worth of property has been purchased and the volume of sales is increasing every day.

A combination of very exceptional conditions makes Bellehurst park the most desirable residence section of Glendale, if not the entire metropolitan area of Los Angeles.

In the first place, it possesses great natural beauty as the fine old trees planted years ago by the late C. E. Thom are unique in Southern California and add an unusual touch of artistry to the gently sloping acres with the background of blue mountains.

The second important factor is the central location of the property in Glendale. It is only 5 blocks from Bellehurst park to the business center of the city.

The third great point is the type of development that is to be carried out here by the Walter H. Leimert Co., which has made a wonderful reputation in similar development enterprises in Piedmont and Oakland on the east side of the San Francisco bay. The very best residence sections of these famous home cities owe their present beauty to the far seeing genius of Walter H. Leimert.

The fourth, and in many ways the most important point of superiority about Bellehurst park, is the transportation situation. The proposed subway in Los Angeles will reduce the running time from Pershing square in the heart of Los Angeles to Bellehurst park in the heart of Glendale by at least 15 minutes, making this the easiest high class residence community to reach in the metropolitan area of the city of Los Angeles.

Buyers from out of town as well as Glendale residents have been quick to see the coming rise in values that is sure to occur here, particularly in view of the low prices now asked for the property in the present mammoth sale. The enormous demand is therefore easily explained. It is confidently predicted that the entire tract will be sold out within two weeks so the late buyers will be out of luck. Now is certainly the time to buy in Bellhurst park, as an opportunity to get these high class lots at present under-valuations will never occur again.

All city improvements are now under way and the finished tract will equal any community in Glendale. Already many fine new homes are contemplated by the early buyers, and the end of the first six months' period in the history of Bellehurst park as a residence park will see some wonderful changes.

Glendale will have reason to be proud of this new distinctive and artistic home community.

REALTY BOARDS TO MEET IN "CHI"

April 13 and 14 in Chicago are the dates set for a meeting of the board of directors and advisory board of the National Association of Real Estate boards. W. H. Hollingsworth of Los Angeles, a past president of the Los Angeles realty board is one of the directors.

At this session the business affairs of the national association will be considered, and reports will be received from the chairmen of standing and special committees.

The chairmen of the seven divisions of the national association will also report on the progress which they have made with regard to their respective divisions during the last three months. Plans for the Cleveland convention, June 27-30 will be gone over thoroughly. Indications point to a record gathering of realtors and the directors desire to leave nothing undone in the formulation of effective preliminary planning.

SPARR HEIGHTS IS A BIG HELP SAYS HATCH

The Sparr Heights development is a source of great satisfaction to the Glendale-Montrose railway, says Superintendent Hatch, not only because of the increased passenger traffic it is bringing the line but also because of the increase that has already taken place in freight and that is promised by the building up of what has been until so recently, a dead haul. Mr. Hatch says about ten carloads of lumber a month are going over the line to Montrose and La Crescenta.

MICHEL TO BUILD IN EAGLE ROCK

Glen Court is the name given by Henry Michel of Glendale, owner and builder, to the largest court scheme of home construction yet undertaken in Eagle Rock City.

He purchased a tract fronting on Colorado boulevard, which formed a part of the Alban Reeves estate, and will construct upon it twelve high-class stucco houses with tile roofs, each costing $6,000, with a court street 100 feet wide between the two rows.

G. M. Railway Has Built in Eagle Rock

The Glendale-Montrose Railway Company has completed the construction of a pretty little station in Eagle Rock, where connection is made with the Los Angeles Railway line.

A refreshments counter within it has been leased and a soda fountain installed.

CAN YOU SELECT LUMBER FOR HOME?

To the average home-builder lumber is just lumber, something which they know is necessary for building purposes, but their knowledge of the various kinds and grades of lumber is almost nil.

When a man builds a house he expects, and should get, material that will render him utmost service and give him a durable, permanent building.

Unfortunately, the keen demand for homes in Southern California, coupled with the desire on the part of contractor or builders to make all the profit possible out of their construction, has resulted in the use of grades of lumber which were never intended to be used in constructing the average home.

One thing the home builder, or home buyer, needs to make sure of is that his home is constructed of lumber which is of a grade intended for use in constructing permanent buildings, for framing, such as studding, joists, sheeting, etc.

He should insist on a grade of what is known as No. 1 Common or Merchantable.

This will give him good, sound lumber, suitable in every way for home building.

Unless he is careful, however, he may be induced by a supposed saving of $50 to $75 or more to accept a lower grade, known to the trade as No. 3 stock, imperfectly manufactured, unsound, with streaks of rot, large loose knots, etc., which, when put in the building, will speedily commence to deteriorate, causing in a year or two cracked walls and other defects, giving him a building which will not render the service he ought to get, and in the end his supposed saving will turn out to be a decided liability.

While the lower first cost of unsound and imperfectly manufactured lumber may be an inducement, it almost invariably increases the labor cost of the building in addition to lowering the value and life of the structure.

If the builder keeps account of the extra wastage and extra labor caused by the use of low-grade lumber he will speedily discover that the difference in costs between it and good, sound Common is more than used up.

There is a use for low-grade lumber in out-buildings, temporary structures, etc. Its use in this class of building is desirable and will effect a saving, but otherwise it is the most expensive.

In finishing a home a great deal depends on the amount of money the owner desires to spend.

If he decides on a painted job he can use No. 2 Clear to advantage, as long as it is dry and perfectly machined.

For natural or oil finish he needs strictly clear, bone dry stock.

If material is not dry, shrinkage will soon open up the joints and spoil the appearance of the home.

The safest thing for the uninitiated home builder to do is consult a reliable lumber dealer, who has a reputation for handling high-grade stock.

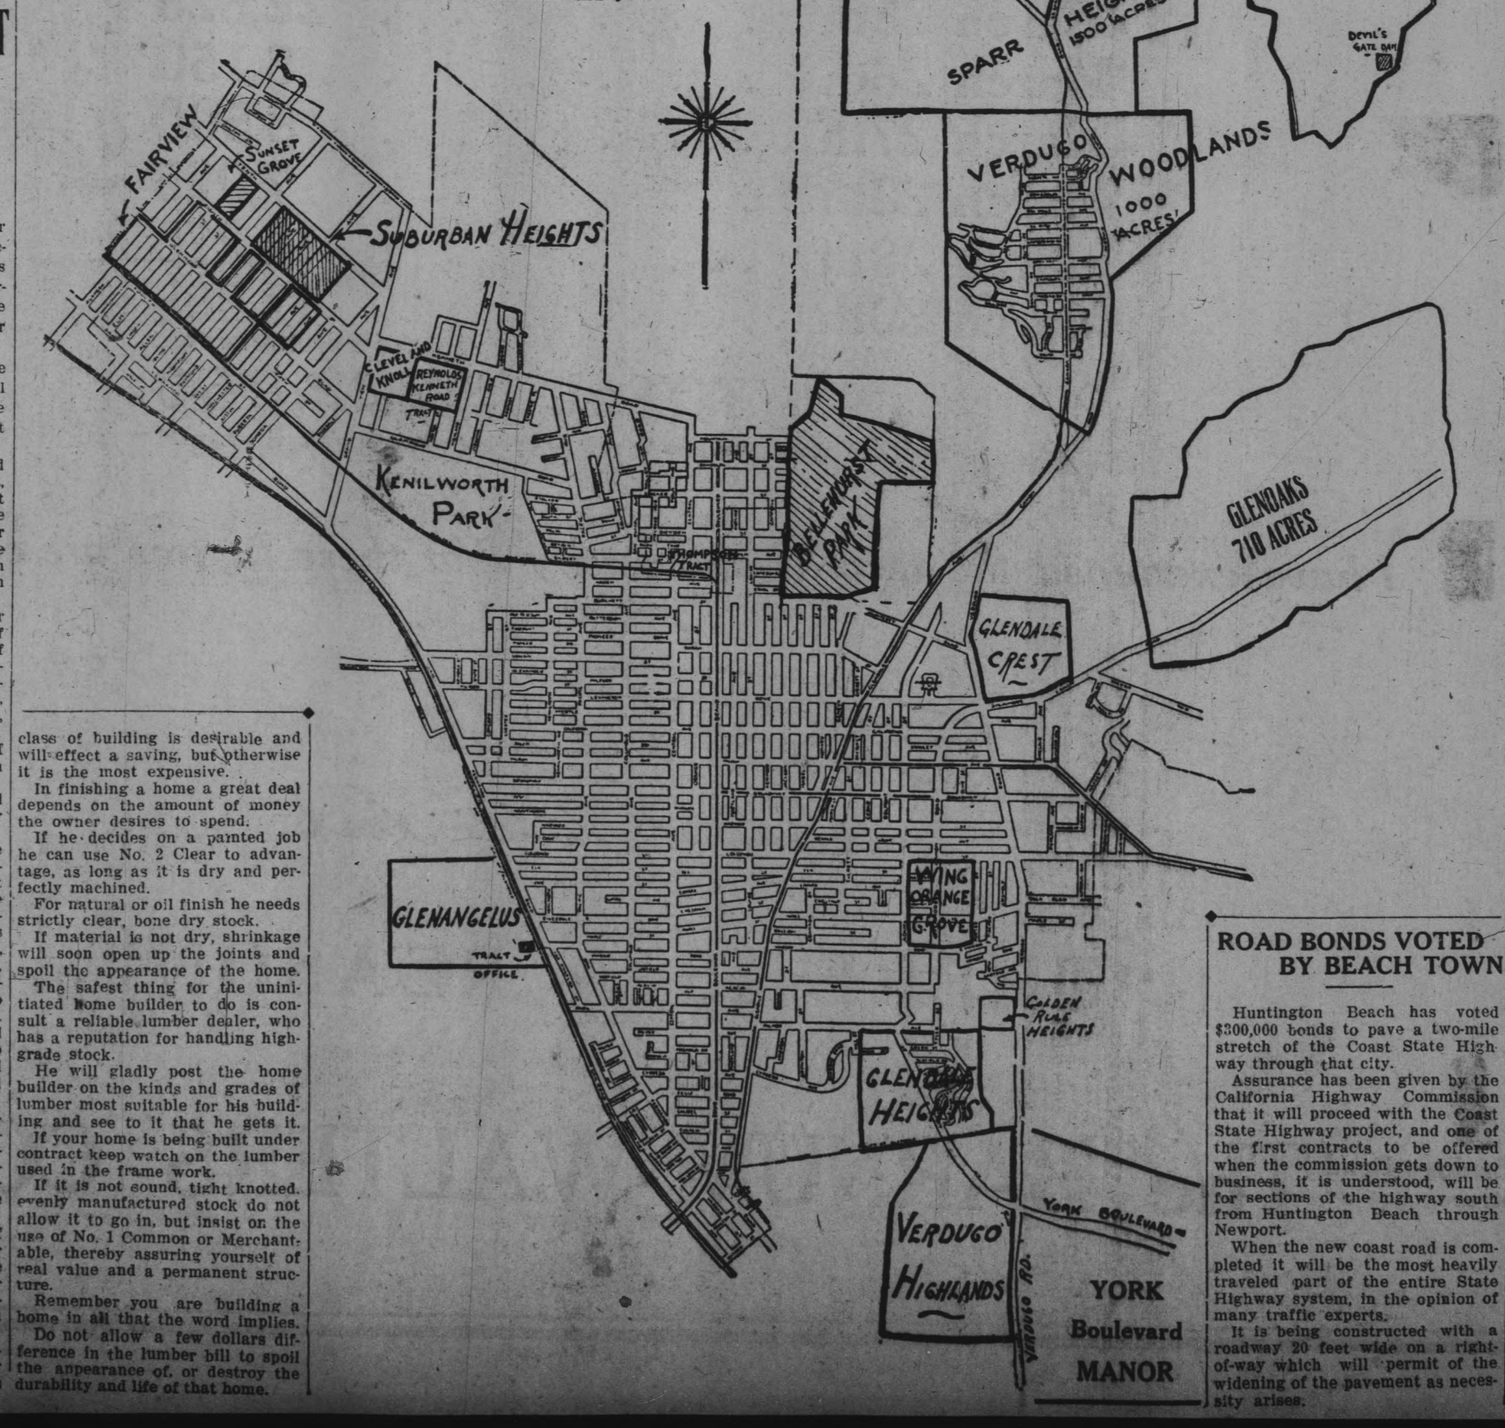
He will gladly post the home builder on the kinds and grades of lumber most suitable for his building and see to it that he gets it.

If your home is being built under contract keep watch on the lumber used in the frame work.

If it is not sound, tight knotted, evenly manufactured stock do not allow it to go in, but insist on the use of No. 1 Common or Merchantable, thereby assuring yourself of real value and a permanent structure.

Remember you are building a home in all that the word implies.

Do not allow a few dollars difference in the lumber bill to spoil the appearance of, or destroy the durability and life of that home.



IT IS EASY TO OWN A HOME HERE

"It is my belief that there would be far less vacant property in the city of Glendale if the owners of this property were conversant with building and building finance conditions," said a prominent builder recently.

"We read that building permits are running into the millions of dollars, that thousands of new homes, apartments, flats, hotels and bungalow courts were constructed during the past twelve months, but have you tried to rent a place to live in since January 1 of this year?

"What is the housing situation today? It is really worse than it was a year ago. There are at least two good reasons for the lack of homes.

"First, you and I come to Glendale, became wedded to its climate and its opportunities.

"It is but natural that we solicit the citizenship of our friends and acquaintances.

"They come, the chain grows link by link but the building operations fail to keep up with the influx of new citizens.

"Second, there are a lot of potential builders who are not conversant with the building situation as it now prevails, or who are unacquainted with available sources of building finance. Therefore they do not build.

"The first is easily solved by every lot owner building a home. But the second requires a knowledge of financial markets.

"Anyone who owns a clear piece of property can readily obtain all the money needed for conservative building operations at reasonable rates.

"The banks loan up to 40 percent of the value of the lot plus cost of construction on first mortgage security at 6 to 7 percent interest.

"Their property appraisals are naturally very conservative and oftentimes the lot owner is disappointed when he finds that the lot which he knows is readily saleable at a certain price, is given a bank appraisal of but 50 to 75 percent of this price.

"Again, the banks base their estimates of building costs on the 1914 prices, plus approximately 25 percent.

"As materials and labor are 50 percent or more higher than 1914 prices, the bank's loan represents about 20 to 30 per cent of the actual sales value of the property.

"Real estate loan brokers loan up to 50, sometimes 60, percent of the property.

"They charge a commission of 3 to 5 percent for building loans which generally run three years and carry 7 to 8 percent interest, except the amounts of over $25,000 when lower interest rates are sometimes available.

"If a property is worth $2000 and one builds a $3000 building, he can usually obtain a loan of about $1500 to $1700 from the bank and $2200 to $2500 from the broker.

"If he does not have the rest of the building money than a second mortgage or trust deed must be floated.

"These, as a rule, are subject to a discount of from 10 to 25 per cent and carry about 8 per cent interest.

"A note to cover the second money is given, which has a face value of about $150 to the thousand higher than the amount actually received.

"Gradually the second mortgage or trust deed is amortized.

Several organizations will completely finance the cost of construction where they do the building.

"The property owner who deals with them should insist on the job being bonded and should be reasonably certain that his income is, or will be, sufficient to cover all payments on the second mortgage, all interest, taxes, insurance, assessments and maintenance."

ROAD BONDS VOTED BY BEACH TOWN

Huntington Beach has voted $300,000 bonds to pave a two-mile stretch of the Coast State Highway through that city.

Assurance has been given by the California Highway Commission that it will proceed with the Coast State Highway project, and one of the first contracts to be offered when the commission gets down to business, it is understood, will be for sections of the highway south from Huntington Beach through Newport.

When the new coast road is completed it will be the most heavily traveled part of the entire State Highway system, in the opinion of many traffic experts.

It is being constructed with a roadway 20 feet wide on a right-of-way which will permit of the widening of the pavement as necessity arises.

LUMBER DEMAND IS NORMAL, SAYS LUMBERMAN

Demand for lumber, which so far this year has been substantially above normal and during January rose to a heretofore unequalled peak, has subsided until it is again approximately normal, says the America Lumberman, Chicago. This appears to be a lull before another spurt of demand to high levels, expected to come during spring, with its stimulation of building operations and outdoor work in general.

While a boom is not in prospect, spring building promises to assume a heavy volume in cities and towns practically throughout the country. The outlook for country trade has improved considerably, though any great activity in this may be postponed until later in the year, when farmers have completed their field work. Retail stocks in the cities are only fair and in the country districts are generally poor, and in whatever volume building may develop the retailers will be forced to buy extensively. Their policy is one of caution, however, and they are not likely to enter the market freely for another few weeks, until they have had opportunity definitely to ascertain just what the requirements in their respective communities will be.

Industrial trade holds up strong, with no prospects of early reduction. To the contrary, the arrival of spring will bring increased activities in some branches, as for instance, in railroad construction work, for which extensive plans have been prepared.

The steady rise of lumber production toward normal is gratifying in view of the intense stock scarcity in all producing sections and the heavy order files at the mills. Little headway has as yet been made in clearing up these order files, on account of long-continued strong demand and unfavorable operating conditions, and most mills have enough business on hand to keep them busy for the next thirty to ninety days. The market under such conditions holds firm at recent established price levels. Some transit cars are being disposed of at slightly easier prices, these being sold readily, and there is no such pressure on the market as would lead to a material decline in prices soon. Recent changes in mill prices have been mostly upward, but their comparative infrequency and unimportance indicate that the market is becoming definitely stabilized.

JAPAN APPROPRIATES FOR ROADS

TOKIO, March —The Japanese government contemplates spending 300,000,000 yen, or approximately $150,000,000, during the next 30 years to improve the roads of the empire. This includes the new Yokohama-Tokio and Osaka-Kobe automobile roads now under construction, which will eventually form part of a main road connecting Tokio, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kyoto, Osaka and Kobe, the width of which will be 36 feet near the cities and 30 feet in the country.

At present motoring in Japan is difficult owing to the narrowness of the roads and the fact that they pass through thickly populated villages.

Sylvan Scene at Flintridge — Where the City Meets the Country

"A hundred miles from town in fifteen minutes." That is the way one enthusiastic visitor to Flintridge during the past week described this popular residence suburb. And so great is the contrast between it and the city that the scores of Glendale people who know and love Flintridge will appreciate the significance of the above statement.

Its comparative seclusion from the rest of the busy world makes Flintridge a highly desirable residence center. Rolling hills and vales, groves of great oaks, sycamores and willows, and the rugged beauties of the uplands present views that are a constant delight to the eye.

Despite its unique location surrounded by natural beauties, Flintridge is just a few minutes drive from the heart of Glendale. Perhaps that is one of the reasons for its transformation in recent years from a scenic park to a community of artistic homes.

The present activity at Flintridge is centered in the erection of homes, some of which are now on sale. A ready market for these has developed, due to the fact that many people prefer homes already completed and ready for occupancy.

The Flintridge model home is daily attracting scores of visitors. This little gem is cleverly designed and very tastefully furnished and should prove a source of new ideas on interior arrangement to all who visit it.

Riverside Realtors to Meet May 12

Realtors of the Southern California district of the California Real Estate association will hold their third annual picnic at Riverside Saturday, May 12, according to announcement today by President W E. Stephens of the picnic association. Last year the annual outing was at Long Beach, and the year before at Santa Ana.

President Stephens announced the following tentative program:

"Our plans are to meet at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, May 12, at the Mission Inn and register and go through this famous hostelry. An hour later we will motor to the top of Mount Rubidoux and get a view of the Riverside valley. Then we will drive to Fairmont Park and have our basket dinner and our speaking. Our program of athletics, including a ball game, races, wrestling, and jumping, will be pulled off at the fair grounds. In the evening we will arrange to hold a picnic dance at the Elks' hall. How does this sound for a big day?"

President Frazier O. Reed of the State association will be the guest of honor at this picnic, and will make the principal address.

Realtors from Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, Imperial, San Diego, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties will be the guests of Riverside county on that big day. I. S. Logan, secretary of the Riverside Realty Board, is secretary of the picnic association.

CLEVELAND KNOLL ATTRACTS HOME SEEKER

Exclusive North - West Property Is Being Rapidly Snapped Up

Cleveland Knolls, in the heart of the exclusive northwest, is attracting many of the better class of buyers who want a homeplace that is out of the ordinary.

This is a tract which is "right." The property itself is high class. The improvements that have been installed could not be improved upon. Everything is there that the homebuilder wants. A grand, wide street has been cut through the property, this extending from Kenneth road to Glenwood road, and on either side of this the wonderful homesites are located.

Nothing in the way of cheap homes will be allowed on this tract. The dwellings to be constructed will range in price from $4,500 to $10,000, and some of them may go higher.

Cleveland Knolls is a tract for the discriminating home owner. It is a tract fit for a king.

LUMBER EXPORTS ARE INCREASING

Exports of lumber from the port of Vancouver are showing a monthly increase over last year or nearly 4,000,000 feet, totaling some 18,000,000 feet, says Consul General F. W. Ryder, in a report to the Department of Commerce. The mills are working full time, some with night shifts, and orders are booked for the next three months, and further business is in view for the spring and summer cuts. Active buying for the Atlantic coast market was experienced in the early part of the year, lumber yard stocks having been purchased at attractive prices.

Frequent inquiries are received from Japan to determine prices at which lumber may be ordered for shipment during the next few months. The mills have been busy with Australian and Atlantic Coast business to such an extent that the usual orders for "Japanese squares" do not prove attractive or even desirable. There has been practically no new business in the export of cedar logs but a general movement of other logs is noted.

The Australian market continues to absorb quantities of lumber; mills are running to capacity thre emonths in advance on these orders and every available foot of space on vessels operating on this run has been chartered far ahead. Even a larger volume of buying is expected from Australia and it is stated that the mills are anticipating higher prices.

FRANK MELINE CO. BIG ASSET TO GLENDALE

The entrance of the Frank Meline company, one of the principal real estate firms of Southern California, into Glendale, marks a step forward for this city, for wherever the Meline company goes there follows a trail of good roads, unusually high class improvements, excellently laid out tracts and satisfied customers. No subdividing or selling company in Southern California has a higher reputation than has the Frank Meline company. Probably no concern has done more for the upbuilding of Southern California in general. It has been ever on the lookout for anything that would tend to enhance the value of the southern end of the state.

From the head of the firm down to the youngest salesman the Frank Meline company is a regular sure-fire booster. It sings the praises of Southern California in general 24 hours a day. It is a firm that believes there is nothing too good for this end of the state, and this belief it carries out in its every move.

Besides being selling agent for the wonderful Glenoaks tract, formerly known as Scholl canyon, the Frank Meline company has charge of the selling of quite a number of other subdivisions in and around Los Angeles.

When speaking of Glendale and the Glenoaks tract recently, Mr. Meline said:

"It is with a great deal of satisfaction that we are breaking into Glendale. For years we have wanted to take up some work in this city, but the press of work elsewhere has prevented us from doing so.

"We believe Glendale is one of the most wonderful cities in the entire world. That is saying a great deal, but it is a fact that no one can deny. Every feature of this city is above the average. In addition to being extremely beautiful, it is a city the residents of which are determined shall stay clean. That fact is of the greatest importance when the "home" feature is being considered.

"Glenoaks is one of the most charming tracts we have ever handled. Within fifteen minutes after looking over the valley for the first time we decided to take the selling agency for the subdivision. Nothing can compare with it afound this section. It has everything that the homelover could wish. It is, in my estimation, an ideal home tract."

WINTER MAKING OF BRICKS IS AT HEIGHT

With nearly one-third of the brick plants in the United States shut down, largely for seasonal reasons, the winter production is at the highest mark that it has been in recent years, says a report issued March 1.

Brick manufacturers throughout most sections of the country face the coming building season with confidence, and are producing to the maximum of their ability under existing weather conditions.

The one section of the United States which still lags behind in building is the agricultural district, just west of the Mississippi, centering in Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska.

In all other sections an unusual amount of winter work has been going on, and the demand for brick is larger than a year ago, and except in a few of the most important building centers, even exceeds the phenomenal demand in the early months of 1920.

The report of the members of the Common Brick Manufacturers' association, made last month, indicates that the market is now in the healthiest condition it has experienced since before the war.

The situation is much more favorable than in 1920, for labor, fuel and shipping conditions are far better.

Of the plants closed down at the present time the majority are "summer" yards, not equipped to operate in cold weather.

A number are closed for repairs and there are probably more extensions to plans being made than in any recent year.

A few plants are closed on account of car shortage.

It is the view of a considerable number of manufacturers that the cost of production is increasing.

This, as usual, is due to increased labor cost, and increased fuel cost.

The composite price, according to all manufacturers reporting at the present time, is $14.45 per thousand.

This is the first month in which there has been shown an increase in price of any account during more than a year.

The peak price is found in the East and along the Atlantic seaboard, where $20 is the maximum reported. The lowest price is in Oklahoma and Texas, where current overproduction has resulted in some sales as low as $7 per thousand.

With no immediate danger of a coal shortage the manufacturers as a rule anticipate that they will be able to sell brick during the building season of 1923 at prices no higher than prevailed during 1922, although the demand may be greater and the supply in some sections may be inadequate.

OCCUPATION ARMIES AS GERMAN CLEANERS

REALTORS HEAR OF SANITARIUM LOTS

The Glendale Realty Board has been given exclusive right among the real estate operators in Glendale in the selling of the lots in the Sanitarium tract on Broadway, between Isabel and Jackson streets. This fact was made known at the meeting of the realty board at noon yesterday, by Guy M. Rush, selling agent for the tract.

Mr. Rush stated that the northwest corner of Isabel and Broadway, being 110 feet on Broadway, has been purchased by Charles G. Andrews and H. H. Cotton, and the northeast corner of Broadway and Jackson street, this also being 110 feet on Broadway, has been secured by Walter Leimert. It is expected that these buyers intend to improve their holdings at an early date. The method of the sale of the lots, the prices and other features, were explained by Mr. Rush to the realtors.

Mr. Kimlin, business manager of the sanitarium, stated that the buildings his organization are erecting in East Glendale will cost about $600,000.

A resolution was passed endorsing Pasadena as the place for the 1924 realtors' state convention.

Three books at $1 each, for the merchants' exposition, were ordered purchased by the board.

It was announced at the meeting that a special train will be run from Los Angeles to Cleveland for those wishing to attend the national convention at that place in June.

The announcement was made that two days prior to the election on the bonds for the airport, six airplanes will drop 20,000 dodgers boosting the purchase of that property. Four-minute talks will be made in the different theaters, and stickers favoring the bonds will be provided for automobiles.

The World Wants California Trees

Australia, Japan, India, South Africa and Ireland are all demanding supplies of California tree seeds, reports the San Francisco office of the United States forest service. Quick-growing species, such as Coulter and Jeffrey pines, incense cedars, white fir and oaks are desired to supplement the native tree growth of these countries. Seeds collected from the National forests of the state are being used to fill the orders.

BUILDING BOOM IS ON AT WING TRACT

The building campaign is on at the Wing Orange Grove tract, on East Colorado street.

Eight homes, ranging in value from $4,000 to $6,000, were started this week—and this is only a beginner. As many more dwellings will be commenced within the next ten days.

There are only 20 lots remaining unsold in this tract. Every one of these lots constitutes an opportunity for a homesite and investment such as the people of Glendale and surrounding country will not have again for a long time. After this tract has been sold out there will be many prospective home owners who will say:

"I wish I had bought a lot in the Wing tract."

There are a few chances left to ward off this expression of regret, but those chances are slipping rapidly away.

If you have occasion to tell a man what you really think of him, use a long-distance telephone.

BUS LINE SOON TO START IN GLENOAKS

Frequent Service to Glendale and 5-Cent Car to L. A. Is Promised

Beginning Monday morning a 25-passenger bus will ply between the business section of Glendale and Glencaks, that wonderful tract in Scholl canyon, and also between Glenoaks and the yellow car line in Los Angeles at Glassell station. This bus will be operated by an experienced driver, who will extend every courtesy to those riding on this line.

This step is being taken to bring Glenoaks closer to the people of Glendale, Los Angeles and the surrounding communities. The owners of this tract know absolutely that if the people of Southern California become acquainted with the beauties of charming Glenoaks, it will be simply a question of signing receipts for deposits on pieces of property in that valley. The call for property in that tract has thus far been extremely enocuraging. It has exceeded the fondest hopes. Glenoaks has hardly been opened, but still several dozen pieces of realty have been sold. Practically everyone who visits the tract determines to purchase one of the unsurpassed homesites at an early date.

The bus to be established is not a temporary proposition. It will be kept running for at least five years, which means that it probably never will be taken off. This fact is extremely important to the buyers of property in this tract. The very act of providing efficient transportation for those securing homesites increases the value of the lots immensely. The bus will be on regular schedule time, which will make it extremely convenient for those fortunate enough to "get in" on one or more of the lots of this tract.

The managers of Glenoaks have decided to establish a business district in the tract. This will consist of 43 lots and will be located immediately to the west of the two acres that the company has given to the city as a park. Some of these lots face on the 70-foot boulevard which will be built entirely through the tract from west to east. The whole business district will be located north of this highway.

The lots in this business section are being sold for from $400 to $600 and a number of them have already been disposed of. The prospects are that the entire business section will have been disposed of within two or three weeks. The fact that these will be the only business lots in the entire canyon makes them an unusually attractive business investment.

A 20 per cent discount on the selling price of the lots in Glenoaks is being given to a limited number of purchasers in the event that the buyers build within thirty days after all of the public utilities such as water, light and gas, have been installed. This will bring the prices paid for the lots way down below anything that could possibly have been dreamed of.

The elevation of this tract is one of the most attractive features of the subdivision. The tract office is 300 feet higher than the business district of Glendale. It "looks down" on practically every tract within the city of Glendale. In fact, the tract manager stated this morning that Glenoaks has the highest elevation of any subdivision within the city.

Then there are the oaks—such wonderful oaks! The oaks alone on many of these lots are worth far more than the prices paid for the pieces. To the man who wants a real homeplace, where he can rest after the duties of the day, these oaks are of inestimable value. They are the features that make the lots in this tract "different."

Hascall S. Hall, manager of Glenoaks, says he becomes more enthusiastic over that tract every day he stays on the tract. He has never seen anything like it before, and it is, he declared, the most desirable residential property he has ever handled. Many of those calling at the property share Mr. Hall's enthusiasm about the tract.

GEN. WOOD FAVORS AID FOR FILIPINO CHILDREN

[By Associated Press]

MANILA, P. I., March 30.—At the annual meeting of the American Guardian association, the aim of which is to aid dependent children born of American fathers and Filipino mothers in the Philippines, Governor General Wood, honorary president of the association, said he was greatly pleased to see the manner in which the organization had taken hold of its work and expressed his gratification that it was giving the children a chance to make good in life.

He urged that an endowment be established, and said many people in the United States were becoming interested in the association.

BURBANK SHOWS GREAT GROWTH IN TWO YEARS

Astounding figures depicting community growth in Southern California are getting to be the ordinary thing. But a record which it is declared eclipses almost any precedent, is that of Burbank, which in two short years has grown from a population of 2900 to more than 8500, according to recent estimates.

It is this sensational expansion which, it is claimed, fully justifies the ambitious plans underlying the development of Benmar Hills, a beautiful tract that takes in the western part of Burbank and extends from San Fernando boulevard to the Verdugo hills. These plans call for a complete control of Burbank's development along lines that will evolve a model American city of at least 100,000 people.

The logical direction for the growth of Burbank is toward the west, which is precisely where Benmar Hills lies. This expansion is already taking form, the city having erected its new $250,000 high school on a Benmar Hills lot and chosen sites for a civic center, public parks and recreation grounds and sanctioned the street system laid out for Benmar Hills.

Street improvements are reported as progressing rapidly at Benmar Hills, while property there is selling rapidly. All the business and commercial sites are taken and residence lots are being selected in numbers.

DO YOU CHERISH OLD TIME HOME?

"I cherish my childish loves, the memory of that warm little nest where my affections were fledged."

If that memory goes back to an English style home, then fancy centers around a hospitable Georgia doorway with brass or iron knockers that always opened to let those who entered enjoy the cordial happiness within.

Built along rectangular lines we generally find a spacious center hall with ample stairway and opening off of it several rooms conveniently grouped.

Much license is being taken today in the decoration of this type of home. Frequently fusing wrought iron, marble and plaster into the hall and sun room, striking distinctive Italian notes and thus adding to the composition a restful charm.

A hall of this kind may have its lighting fixtures, stair rail and consoles of wrought iron and with good taste add a floor clock, high back chairs and a chest, etc.

It is nice to find the living room and dining room paneled and in each a fireplace, and to arrange these rooms in English types of furniture so grouped that they form definite centers of interest.

The floors would be well treated with Oriental rugs and the windows to have glass curtains of gauze and the draperies of velvet, brocade or damask.

The library should, of all rooms, be restful and contain those accessories that are necessary for reading and research.

This room should be exceptionally well lighted and contain thoughtfully filled bookshelves, a globe, a library table, a good sized desk, that they may reflect the individuality of the owner and bring out that inspiration for which they were created.

With the English home the formal flower and vegetable garden form a veritable part of the plan and should be so developed to give the out-of-door happiness needed, with a pool fountain, sun dial, bird bath, hedge, shrubbery and trees.

Mexican Lumber Production Grows

According to the estimates of lumber producers and dealers, the production of lumber in Mexico is now approximately 750,000,000 feet, and another producer has just begun operations with the expectation of cutting from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 feet per month.

The largest producer at present is cutting between 2,000,000 and 3,000,00 feet. Most of the lumber is at present being cut in the States of Mexico, Michigan and adjoining states.

The high freight rates prevailing in Mexico have tended toward confining the market for lumber produced in the central part of the country to the region adjacent.

When a shiftless man dies it relieves his wife of much responsibility.

STUCCO POINTERS GIVEN BY EXPERT

Here are some pointers on stucco work:

In order to obtain a good job of stucco consideration must be given to the structural features of the building to which it is applied.

Care must be taken to see that no rain or other water can possibly get behind the stucco, through cracks around window or door openings; that sufficient overhang must be given the roof to protect the upper edge of the stucco. Thus the first responsibility for good stucco rests upon the designer of the house.

The second responsibility rests upon the plasterer, since no matter what materials are used it will be impossible to obtain satisfactory stucco unless the utmost care is used in its application.

It has been said and no doubt with truth, that proper workmanship is over 50 per cent of good stucco.

The third responsibility rests upon the material used and the method of application which we propose to describe.

A frame building should be thoroughly covered with a good roofing felt, starting at the bottom and lapping at least two inches as you go to the top.

On this should be applied a metal reinforcement (any good open mesh metal lath or chicken wire), which should be furred out at least three-eighths of an inch from the roofing felt, and in every instance all joints should be well lapped and tied together thus creating a continuous reinforcement over the whole surface to be plastered.

Then a mortar composed of one part of cement to which has been added 10 per cent of hydrated lime and three parts of clean, sharp sand, should be shoved thoroughly through the reinforcement, so as to form solidly against the roofing felt.

Scratch this coat and let dry two weeks, if possible.

Then a second coat of the same mortar as specified for the first coat, should be put on to a thickness of at least one-half inch over the face of the first coat.

NO FOREST FIRE WEEK IS NAMED

The following announcement has just been received from Charles H. Shinn, of the United States Forest Service:

Since President Harding has issued a proclamation naming April 22-28 as Forest Protection Week it is up to every American, young and old, to cooperate heart and soul. Where does one best begin? The answer is: "With what is nearest to you," dear reader of these lines. Get acquainted in the coming months with the nearest forest workers, both state and national, and read more of the pamphlets, bulletins and leaflets issued by the Forest Service and other agencies. Become an active helper in the work of the American Forestry Association, whose magazine, American Forestry, is one of the best things published anywhere.

Here in California let us help along the work of the Sierra Club, the "Save the Redwoods League" and the State Forester. Above all else, let us get firm hold of that central fact of modern civilization that we must have more and better forest protection if we are to keep going ahead toward bigger and better achievements. These things and such as these are what forest protection week means.

It's just as well to remember that it's always well to be just.

PEOPLE OF U. S. ARE SLOW TO LEARN

George W. Peavy, who is dean of the Oregon School of Forestry, and was formerly in the United States Forest Service, has written a pamphlet on the commercial forests of Oregon in which he gives the real reason for the slowness with which the people of America have waked up to the fatal results of forest destruction. He tells us how the pioneers in the infant colonies along the Atlantic faced what seemed to them a limitless forest and had to fight their way through for two centuries or more. From this came "that peculiar American attitude" which so perplexed the early leaders of forest conservation—the notion that a forest tree is of no consequence, and that any forest can be used or abused just as the individual pleases. It has taken fifty years of tireless effort on the part of such men as the late Dr. Fernow to substitute the ideas of public welfare and the economic importance of forests for this old-time carelessness.

There is still much to be done to educate the present and all coming generations to a full sense of the place of forests in modern civilization. We are at times in serious danger of thinking more of the secondary uses of forest lands than of their primary and permanent value—simply the production of timber. That is the main thing for which they exist.

TO SELL 100 LOTS GOAL OF FAY

To sell 100 choice lots on Saturday and Sunday, March 31 and April 1, is the goal which has been set by T. P. Fay, sales director for the Glen Angeles park tract. For many years, Mr. Fay was in the realty business in Seattle, disposing of about 30 subdivisions there. His business success in that city was due to his straightforward and at the same time unique methods, which he intends to carry out here.

Mr. Fay says, "If for any reason anyone buying property in this tract should become dissatisfied, by returning their deposit receipt they can have their money refunded. We are satisfied with the values of the property and we want none but satisfied buyers. That is the way I did business in Seattle and will do it here."

Mr. Fay has maintained real estate offices at Seattle, Oakland and Berkeley for a number of years. He was also connected with Herman Janss of Los Angeles in the disposition of a 72,000 acre tract at Fresno.

"The present low cost of lots in Glen Angeles park tract, which is located west of San Fernando road at Riverdale drive, assures a permanent investment with a good sound profit in the future," Mr. Fay states. The tract is just four blocks from Brand boulevard and a short distance from the center of the business district. Although offered at low prices and the easiest kind of terms, these lots are fully restricted. Plowing and grading work is already under way preparatory to the paving of streets. Other improvements such as curbs, sidewalks, gas, electricity, water, telephones, etc., are also under way. The tract office is at Goodwin street and San Fernando road.

The tract adjoins the famous Griffith park and golf links and is within walking distance of the Southern Pacific main line station. Mr. Fay intends to fully satisfy the public of Glendale as to the value of the lots, which will no doubt find a quick and ready sale.

Mr. Fay and his family first visited Glendale two years ago with the Seattle Elks, of which he is a member, during the Elks national convention. He was very much impresed with the city and decided to return here some time to make his home. When on a trip to Glendale about a month ago, Mr. Fay was astonished at the remarkable growth which had been taking place since his last visit and decided then and there to remain and become a factor in the future growth of Glendale. At the invitation of Mr. Vern Stires, owner of Glen Angeles park, he visited the tract and was greatly impressed with the advantages offered there and decided to accept the position of sales manager as his initial effort in Glendale. Mr. Fay has a number of former Seattle friends now in Los Angeles, including Ole Hanson, Bert Farrar and others.

USING TRACTOR FOR PULLING GRAPEVINES IN GLEN ANGELUS TRACT

LUMBER IS MOVING STRONG IN CALIFORNIA

California consumed practically 25 per cent of all the lumber that was cut in the two northwestern states in 1922.

Southern California alone took 1,250,000,000 feet and the northern part of the state approximately 750,000,000 feet—an aggregate, in round numbers, of 2,000,000,000 feet.

The total production in Oregon and Washington did not exceed 8,000,000,000 feet, if, indeed, it was that much.

Take the pine production of eastern and southern Oregon and eastern Washington out of the total cut of the two northern states and you reduce the total by a substantial amount.

California buys comparatively little pine from the north, except what comes out of the Klamath region of Oregon in the shape of box shooks; so, since most of California's demand upon the north Pacific States is for Douglas fir and its associate woods, it is probable that this state took fully 30 to 33 per cent of the fir, spruce, hemlock and cedar produced up there.

California, in 1923, probably will take just as much lumber from the northwest as in 1922.

San Francisco brought in approximately 775,000,000 softwoods of all kind during the year, of which probably 150,000,000 feet was redwood.

This is partly balanced by fir and kindred woods going by rail to other parts of northern California, so the aggregate for the northern portion of the state, as heretofore estimated, is about 750,000,000 feet.

The port of Los Angeles alone brought in just about an even billion feet of lumber last year. All but about 10 per cent of this came from the producing centers of the northwest—the Columbia River, Coos Bay, Willapa Harbor, Grays Harbor and Puget Sound.

This odd 10 per cent was redwood from Northern California.

The port of Redondo, which also serves the city of Los Angeles and immediate vicinity, but which is independent of the metropolis, brought in a little over 100,000,000 feet; San Diego the same amount; Long Beach, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Hueneme are the other ports of Southern California handling lumber shipments.

While the receipts over those docks were comparatively light, still, in the aggregate, they approximate another 100,000,000 feet, bringing the total water-borne lumber shipments to Southern California up to 1,300,000,000 feet.

An estimated 50,000,000 feet additional came from the northwest by rail.

Taking out the 100,000,000 feet of redwood, this obviously would leave, in round numbers, 1,250,000,000 feet from Oregon and Washington, consumed in Southern California.

HINTS ARE GIVEN FOR FINANCING DWELLING

Before entering into the discussion of the various methods of financing dwellings, it may be well for us to consider a few of the general aspects of home ownership in the community.

We have, particularly in the territory including and immediately surrounding Glendale, the most wonderful development of home construction in the world.

Our, climatic advantages, our heritage of peoples and tastes from widely scattered sections of the United States and from our conquistador and mission predecessors, have fostered a variety and a beauty in residence architecture unequaled elsewhere.

Even the smallest and most modest of homes have a grace in most cases that would not be found among homes of equal cost in other cities of this size.

This attractiveness has a marked effect on the rate of construction of homes and the number of sales of houses.

The inherent desire of every normal family to own its own home is stimulated by the knowledge that our climate and topography permit a wide choice of architectural styles, and even, sometimes unfortunately, a combination of several styles, within almost every cost class.

Our big figures have come from vast numbers of small residences constructed each year; a steady, but constantly increasing growth of home ownership, as to actual numbers of homes.

Yet, astonishing as it may seem to those who have not studied our statistics, we have lost ground, relatively, in the percentage of home ownership.

The purchase of sites, of vacant lots for homes has steadily increased both absolutely and relatively, but the construction of homes themselves has lagged sadly.

A home on almost any terms is better than rent. A home owner is a taxpayer and therefore a more deliberate and discriminating voter.

A home owner is a better employe, a better husband, a better father and a better and more useful citizen of the community in all respects.

Bolshevism and radicalism would be inconceivable in a community the majority of whose families owned their own homes; it is inconceivable even here with only a little over a third owning their own homes.

And our community welfare and future are rendered more secure in direct proportion to the increase in the home ownership.

No matter what's the matter, some people think it doesn't matter.

SPARR HEIGHTS, LOCATED IN HEART OF BEAUTIFUL VERDUGO CANYON, IS IS GROWING INTO A FULL-SIZED CITY

Home-Seekers, Seeing Advantages of Wonderful Surroundings, Are Losing No Time in Securing Lots in This Tract

"Just keep your eyes upon Sparr Heights," said Mr. Barnum of the Barnum-Walters company, the developers of Sparr Heights, that splendid 1,500-acre tract to the northeast of Glendale, on the Verdugo Road. "Of course, there are real estate subdivisions all over the face of the country round about Los Angeles, but nowhere is there a tract like ours.

"In no other locality is there but a single artery of traffic from the heart of a valley like this, which is the home of several prosperous communities, and nowhere else in this region is there a tract surrounded on three sides by mountains, as this is, forming a regular funnel through which the boulevard passes, like the mouth of a funnel, being the only way traffic must move to reach the city.

"Home-builders are quick to see the advantages of being so located that they are surrounded by natural beauty and yet not so far removed from the centers of city life that they may not easily reach them in a few minutes' motor ride. That accounts for the many beautiful homes now springing up in this tract and for the others for which sites have been purchased and for which plans are now being perfected.

"It is a source of deep satisfaction to us that those who live near us and have a realizing sense of the future of our property and have watched its development from the beginning of its subdivision, constitute by far the larger part of our list of buyers. It certainly speaks well for any project that those who know it best have the utmost faith in it. The people of Glendale have visualized the future of Sparr Heights, and as our near neighbors have been our largest investors, we know that they fully understand its certain destiny.

"Business investors have been equally canny, for they appreciate the fact that such a large community as Sparr Heights will be a real town and that there must be a large business center to minister to its needs.

"This recognition is evidenced by the number of commercial buildings that are being constructed along the main boulevard and for others for which the plans are finished and the contracts let.

"Work is to begin immediately on a handsome cafe to be erected on the west side of Verdugo road by Captain J. Hilton Brown of the Engineering Service company. This building is to be unique in design and construction and will be a very attractive feature in the improvement of the tract.

"Directly across the street from Captain Brown's building, Messrs. Anderson & Tupper of La Canada will soon begin the construction of a garage that will house the Ford-Lincoln agency. On the triangle just south of the cafe a filling station will be established, while further on the main boulevard C. J. Stahlberg of Glendale will build a three-story building in the lower story of which will be a service station, while the upper stories will be devoted to apartments. Another garage is to be erected near the center of the tract, and D. H. Dunn of Van Nuys is to build four stores at the corner of Sunset drive and Verdugo road.

"Oh, yes, we are satisfied with the progress we are making. In the past eight days we have sold $200,000 worth of lots to people who have examined thoroughly the merits of our tract, and our inquiries indicate that the interest is constantly growing. And as we are satisfied and our purchasers are, optimism for the future rests on the solid foundation of past performance."

WORLD WAR BROUGHT BACK MINERAL JET

WASHINGTON, March 30 (United Press).—The mineral jet industry, almost extinct since the advent of the black onyx, has been awakened to some extent by the great demand for mourning jewelry since the close of the war, it was shown by a statement issued by the bureau of mines.

A large portion of the jet used throughout the world has been obtained, in the past, from England, France, Spain and Germany. Discovery of jet deposits in Wayne county, Colorado, are likely to bring America to the fore, however, if some other use for the mineral is found, the bureau statement continued.

Should it come to a vote, every married man would cast a ballot to suppress the fashion magazines.

Dont' be impatient; it only makes people about you uncomfortable and doesn't hurry things a bit.

BEAUTIFUL HOME BUILDING FOR NEWCOMER

Plans have been drawn by Charlton & Brainerd and contracts have been let to the Stevens Construction company for a 6-room residence to be built for Mr. Manning at 132 Sumner street, Eagle Rock. It is of frame, with hardwood floors and all modern conveniences including gas-steam radiators.

They are also building a 5-room stucco for William Breitholle, of 601 North Howard street, and a double bungalow stucco for a Mr. Knowles of Hollywood.

'HOMES' M'GINNIS IS HERE TO STAY

The building activities in Glendale have attracted additional outside capital, and Burton "Homes" McGinnis has opened what he believes to be the "smallest office with the biggest business" in Glendale. He will make a specialty of financing homes and represents companies with combined assets of nearly $15,000,000, and says he will have plenty of money to finance homes in Glendale, Eagle Rock, Burbank and the adjoining portion of Los Angeles. He will also finance high-class business blocks and apartment buildings.

The "smallest office" is located at the entrance of the Chamber of Commerce building and has a floor area of only four and one-half by eight feet. The furniture was made to order and is finished in a silver gray to match the woodwork of the "officette," the balance of which is plate glass, marble and tile.

Mr. McGinnis is an "old timer" in the building and loan field and was formerly secretary of the Economy Building and Loan Association, St. Louis, and secretary-treasurer of the Missouri State League and member of the executive committee of the United States League, and his office is decorated with trophies from some of the national conventions he has attended. He numbers among his friends some of the leading building and loan men of the country and is himself well known in building and loan circles. He is a member of the Glendale Kiwanis Club and chairman of its public affairs committee.

"Homes," as he is known to his fellow club members, stresses the importance of a good design and substantial construction of a home and the recognition of these two factors in making loans. He says it pays the home-builder to have a competent builder with a complete set of plans and specifications.

Glendale is a city of homes and we welcome every agency which promotes home-building, especially better homes.

ONE MILLION FOR IMPROVEMENTS TO BE SPENT

Hard-Surface Streets and Winding Drives For Rossmoyne

One of the largest real estate deals ever made in Glendale was concluded during the last week, whereby the Haddock-Nibley company of Los Angeles took over the estate of Judge Erskine M. Ross.

This property, which consists of approximately 830 tracts at the mouth of the Verdugo canyon and radiates for a mile in either direction from the Verdugo road, has over one mile of frontage on Glendale avenue and practically the same amount fronting on Verdugo road. From here it extends to the top of the ridge, connecting with the Verdugo Woodland property. Several hundred acres of this land is now in full bearing orange, lemon and grapefruit trees. A natural canyon extends for nearly a mile in the westerly direction into the heart of the Verdugo mountains. Groves of live oak and sycamore trees add to the beauty of the property. Surmounting the whole, is a high mesa, rising 1000 feet into the air, with a level surface containing some 50 acres.

One million ($1,000,000) dollars is to be spent immediately in beautifying the property. Hard surfaced streets and winding drives are to characterize the general layout.

"Rossmoyne," the "Happyland" is the heart of the highlands of Glendale. This is the title by which the property is to be known.

Over two million ($2,000,000) dollars' worth of property will be sold in the tract this year according to the prediction of Lon J. Haddock, president of the Haddock-Nibley Co.

"Thousands of Glendale people and others familiar with this beautiful estate, have been awaiting the opening of this property," says Mr. Haddock, "and while we intend to restrict the same so as to make of it a place of "Happy homes for happy people,' at the same time, it is not our intention to make it so exclusive that only the rich can make homes on the same. The property is a veritable fairyland, and we are going to put it on the market at prices that will enable the people who buy to share in the subsequent profits with us. Tentative reservations are already being made by those who are interested in the project, but it is not expected that the property will be on the market before another two weeks."

Another item that gives added attraction to Rossmoyne, is the fact that the Montrose and Glendale electric car passes immediately in front of the entire property and this is to be connected with the old Salt Lake road, which is shortly to be electrified, and to join the yellow car line near its junction with the San Fernando road. This will not only give much better transportation facilities between Glendale and Los Angeles, but the promise is made that universal transfers will be used throughout Los Angeles, and the fare between the two cities will be reduced at least from one-fourth to one-third.

Lots in first units will be in full bearing orange trees.

Small business district to be established on Glendale avenue.

Large villa sites will characterize the canyon and hillside property.

Scenic road to be constructed into the heart of the hills.

Largest realty deal in Glendale.

Large force of engineers now staking out lots.

Modest restrictions to obtain.

WELL BUILT NESTS DEMANDED BY SETTING HENS

By SETH W. SHOEMAKER
Director, The School of Agriculture, International Correspondence Schools, Scranton, Pa.

When a poultry raiser decides to employ natural incubation he must assist nature and the hen to a certain extent.

For example, the nest for sitting hens must be large enough to prevent the eggs from being crowded or piled upon one another. It must be deep enough to protect the eggs from below and to help the hen by holding the warmth about the eggs.

Comfort is a thing that must be carefully considered. The hen must be kept from other hens that might disturb her while sitting. After the hens are disturbed they become nervous and are likely to break the eggs.

Nests for sitting hens can be made in a variety of ways. They should be at least fourteen inches square. Soap boxes answer the purpose very well. A box nine inches to fifteen inches wide and eighteen inches long provides ample room. The entire box should be lined with hay, and there should be a cover over it.

Barrel Nests

Nests made of barrels laid on the side against a post and sheltered from the weather make useful nests for sitting hens and may be used as brooding coops for the hen and her chicks. When not needed for hatching they may be used as coops for the broody hens.

Sitting hens should be nested in the rear part of the barrel and the food and water placed on the outside at the front. When nests are prepared in this way, the eggs are saved from danger and are confined to the nests.

A somewhat more elaborate nest called the combination nest is also useful. It is economical of space and is suitable both for the sitting hen and for her chicks after they are hatched. The boxes may be made singly or in pairs. In the latter nests two hens can be set at the nest two hens can be set at the same time, one on each side. The whole front of this coop should be fastened with hinges at the top to serve as a door. The slats in the front are sliding doors that push up when the doors are closed, and through these doors the chicks can pass in and out of the coop.

Each single coop should be twenty-four inches square and at least two feet high in front. The greater portion of the front is made of wire cloth. Such coops should be placed under shelter.

Many a man leaves the latch string out after barring the door from the inside.

PONY EXPRESS TO BE BORN AGAIN

DENVER, Colo., March 31 (United Press).—Sometime next summer, a pony express rider will leap on his mount in St. Joseph, Mo., and will head west on the first relay of the 2,000 mile trip to San Francisco.

Across the broad plains to Denver and from Denver over the mountains and western deserts, the 1923 pony express rider will follow the dim trail taken by his famous predecessors in the days when there were neither railroads nor wagon trails between "St. Joe" and San Francisco.

Decision to revive the old pony express was made at a recent meeting in Denver of the pony express memorial association. Fifteen delegates from half a dozen western states formed the association and determined to hold the race against time this summer. The last rider will reach San Francisco September 9, according to present plans. It will be a feature of several state celebrations staged in August and September.

At the meeting of the newly-formed association, James D. Phelan, San Francisco, was elected president; John A. Baker, Denver, foster son of Col. Wm. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), who was the first pony express rider, vice-president; Earl Snell, Reno, Nev., manager.

VETERAN OF 80 REFUSED TO PAY ALIMONY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 30 (United Press). — "Uncle" Dow Davis, 80, member of General Lee's staff and four times married, has taken the spotlight after many years of tranquility on his farm near here.

"Uncle" Dow faced jail for refusing to pay alimony to his fourth wife. Mrs Davis left her husband recently, alleging "barbarous" treatment.

This Davis sternly denied. Davis was ordered to pay temporary alimony pending outcome of the divorce suit now before the courts. He refused, saying he would go to jail first. He was not sent to jail but his 40-acre farm and homeplace was sold by the court and the money used for alimony.

LET WOMEN HELP PLAN THE HOME

Bentley Lumber Co. Think Home Should Have Feminine Touch

"Homes are built to a great extent for women, so why shouldn't they be planned under the direction of women?" asks Donald R. Gillin, service manager of the Bentley Lumber Co., situated at 460 W. Los Feliz road.

"One of our lady clients recently remarked that the favorite in-doors pastime of two of her sisters is the planning of future or dream homes. Whether or not they have real prospects of building or not, it is a pastime that will some day bring a reward.

"It is unfortunate that so few women seriously take up the question of plans for their own homes. Most houses are man planned (by contractors) and that means they are inadequately arranged and equipped for the housewife. It isn't given to the average man or the average contractor to fully appreciate these things.

"Just as soon as there is any prospect of a building, the housewife should get busy—she should be the first one of the job. She should firmly insist that the plans be worked up in detail by a specialist, an architect, preferably by one who specializes on plans of houses of moderate cost.

"Speaking of our own experience we find that many of our best plans are prepared under the advice and criticism of women. The average man hasn't the insight, the time or patience to develop a perfect plan. The woman is fortunate whose husband is willing to delegate the selection of plans to her.

"Contractors have occasion to draw only a few plans a year and then only as a matter of necessity in order to get the jobs. Now that necessity has been largely passed, for the plans of homeplanning experts are incomparably superior, and the moderate cost is invariably saved when the house is done. This is the day of the specializer. The contractor who hasn't architectural training cannot afford to bother with plans. Very often, contractors submit to us some new floor plan to be developed and improved. If advantage is taken of our sketch offers, a practical plan is prepared. Usually this is sent back for approval and correction of the future mistress of the home. If the contractor's estimate is satisfactory, the plans are return to us for final completion.

"The type of contractors who take advantage of these services or advise the purchase of plans made that practically meet requirements are the ones who do the right thing by the owner. In the first place, this creates confidence in the contractor and usually he is favored against mere price competitors. The owner gets a home that meets expectations. The contractor has a standing advertisement and good will that pulls business for many years. The Bentley Lumber Co. is equipped with over 500 beautiful photographic views of the "ideal home." Plans may be had immediately, and there is no charge to customers for plans," concludes Mr. Gillin.

And it sometimes happens that when a man says that he believes a woman that he is merely a polite fabricator.

HENS MENACED BY DAMP KEPT FLOORS

The construction of the poultry house floor has a decided effect upon the health of fowls. Dampness, particularly, inside of a building, is one of the greatest enemies of health.

Almost every poultry house will be damp unless special precautions are taken. The conditions surrounding the possible location of the house should be carefully looked into before the house is erected. Low damp spots with poor water drainage and slow air circulation should be avoided. The best exposure is southern with protection from the wind on the north; this allows the greatest amount of sunlight to fall on the floor of the house and also protects the fowls from cold.

An earth floor is satisfactory when the poultry building is so located that the floor will naturally keep dry and sanitary. This condition can be secured only when the house is located on a dry, well drained spot. If a dirt floor is used, however, the upper foot should be shoveled out at least once a year, preferably every six months, and replaced with fresh earth. To insure good drainage in times of wet weather, the surface of a dirt floor should be eight or ten inches above the ground level outside.

Board floors are frequently used in poultry houses and when properly laid make a sanitary floor at a reasonable cost. The chief objection to a wooden floor is that it is not always perfectly dry and that rats, mice and other rodents can gnaw through it.

The best floor, although the most expensive, is a concrete one. When properly laid it insures perfect dryness and keeps rodents from digging through; it also can be kept in sanitary condition with little care. The chief objection to a cement floor is that it may be cold and rough on the feet, but this may be overcome by keeping a liberal supply of litter on the floor or by laying a board floor on top of the cement.

The concrete floor should be about six inches higher than the ground level outside. The same is true if a floor is made of stone or brick.

How to Construct

A cement floor may be constructed as follows: the foundation should be laid at least eighteen inches below the ground level, preferably deeper, and should extend at least six inches above the ground. The space inclosed in this area should be filled in with dry sand or ashes, solidly packed down to within six or eight inches of the top. On top of this the layer of concrete should be placed. The upper two inches of this should be faced with a coating of concrete made of two parts sand and one part cement, troweled down very smoothly and worked until the moisture comes to the top. A floor made smooth in this way will do very little injury to the fowls.

In case the poultryman desires to lay a board floor upon the concrete the upper surface need not be worked smooth as just described. Joists two by four inches should be sunk in the concrete while it is fresh until they are level with the top. When the boards are nailed down on these joists a coating of hot tar should be spread on top of the concrete and a layer of tar paper should be put down. Another made of tongued and grooved boards should be nailed close to prevent cracks in the floor.

Forest Are Source of State's Wealth

Few people appreciate the fact that our forests are one of California's chief sources of wealth.

They yield an annual return of from 50 to 60 million dollars' worth of timber; they give employment to thousands of workmen; they protect the watersheds upon which cities and ranches are dependent for their domestic and irrigation water supply; they furnish forage for thousands of cattle and sheep; they are the natural home of our fast-disappearing wild life; they they are the great vacation playgrounds for more than two millions of our citizens.

WHAT WILL YOUR HOME BE LIKE?

What kind of a house are you going to be satisfied with when you build?

Did you ever have a suit that you became so tired of that it got on your nerves—one that you couldn't wear with comfort any longer?

Did you know that the same thing frequently happens with houses—that if they are not well planned sometimes become almost unbearable to their occupants?

One reason that architecture exists, as distinguished from mere building, is to prevent such things from happening—it exists in order that you and I may have dwellings that give us constant joy, rather than as often depress our spirits, in order to provide us with homes that we become attached to and never want to leave.

Do you know that some people's spirits are like barometers—something's got to keep them raised or they'll go down?

Are yours that way?

Music will answer for a stimulus with some, with others it is books, but with the majority their home surroundings have a lot to do with it.

Did you ever stop to consider that every vocation in life has a purpose, that otherwise it would go out of use?

Perhaps we all sometimes imagine that certain vocations are superfluous for us, that by cleverness we can dispense with patronizing them.

Does that of architecture seem like one such to you?

One way to live is in an autocamp. Have you ever tried it?

For a steady diet I imagine it is not very satisfactory.

Next to that is a mere building. That doesn't answer very well, either.

It affords a place to walk around in, to sleep and eat in, but not one to be very happy in.

It lacks one vital necessity put in this world for happiness, namely, art. Art in combination with building spells architecture.

You can't secure architecture for your home by sticking on a frill here or a doodad there.

One sees such attempts occasionally and they are pathetic.

Architecture is a quality that must be interwoven into the very structure of a building, into its plan and design.

This is no task for an amateur. To do it well requires not only native talent, but years of training and application.

The way it can best be done varies with every problem. An almost infinitude of architectural combinations form the mental stock in trade of the man who is thus equipped.

He has traveled widely or studied extensively in order to acquire the necessary vocabulary. His mind has become a kaleidoscope of architectural ideas, so that at each new turn of the domsteic conditions of a home builder he knows what combination will best unlock the secrets of convenience and beauty to fit the case.

Practical he must be. Beauty must walk hand in hand with convenience. They must dovetail together, each giving opportunity for, or expression to the other.

To accomplish this requires thought and also necessitates much handiwork.

Draftsmen must be employed, trained to portray graphically and with accuracy of figures and detail the accumulated results of such thought so that later they will blossom forth in enduring materials as the realization of the owner's wants and dreams.

So is it a mere building that you will be satisfied with, or will you demand one that has had your ideas woven into its fabric by an artist who read your wishes aright and interpreted them with sureness of touch in terms of convenience and beauty?

HUGE DOPE TRADE SINCE END OF WAR

By F. WILLIAM BUSCH
(United Press Correspondent)

VIENNA (By mail to United Press).—Recent arrests and convictions of dope peddlers here have disclosed the extent to which the use of cocaine, heroin and morphine has grown since the close of the war.

Testimony introduced by the state during these trials showed that ninety per cent of the drug stores in the city carry on an illicit trade in dope and that they are backed by a large percentage of the medical profession, who issue prescriptions to anyone asking for one.

Auntie had come to stay, and little Mary, with some pride, was showing a jumper she had knitted herself. "And did my little niece make this all by herself?" asked Auntie. "Nearly, auntie, all but the hole you put your head through, and that was there when I started."

The man who considers himself one in a thousand naturally regards the other 999 as mere ciphers.

Wise men settle their quarrels before they are begun.

FARM MORTGAGES TOTAL VAST AMOUNT

More than one-tenth of the value of all farm lands and farm buildings of the country is owed on mortgage debt. In the first compilation of its kind ever made, the Census Bureau and the Department of Agriculture jointly estimates the mortgage farm debt of the United States at $7,857,700,000 on January 1, 1920. The value of all farm lands and buildings at that time was $66,316,002,602.

Iowa, premier farming state of the country, had mortgage debts on its farms aggregating almost one-seventh of the country's total.

CHOOSE EGGS FOR HATCHING WITH CARE

By SETH W. SHOEMAKER
Director The School of Agriculture, International Correspondence Schools, Scranton, Pa.

At times there is considerable discussion as to improving the size, shape and color of hens' eggs, but very few poultrymen make any effort in this direction.

The time to try is when the eggs are being selected for hatching. Improvement may not be so pronounced the first year as marked results can not come from a single selection. To be successful on a considerable scale, the selection must be continued year after year.

Eggs for incubation should come from a variety of hen that has health and vitality to a marked degree. The best results are obtained from eggs selected during the hen's second or third year of laying.

In selecting eggs it should be remembered that the size of offspring is influenced more by the female than by the male. That is, small hens usually lay small eggs that produce small fowl and large eggs usually come from large fowls and normally produce large offspring. Of course, exceptions can be found.

The shape is a matter of importance. Eggs should be chosen that are of regular shape and of good average size rather than too large or too small for their kind. Freaks should always be avoided.

Color is an essential characteristic of eggs. Especial care should be given to seeing that the color is both uniform and clear and that the shell has a good, smooth finish. When it is desired to produce pullets that lay eggs with brown shells eggs should be selected for incubation that have a shade of the color preferred, and this shade should be uniform throughout the shell. Pullets that are hatched from eggs whose shells are not uniform in color are apt to lay eggs with shells uneven in color.

Uniform Color

The appearance of white shelled eggs is materially improved by a careful selection of only pure white shelled eggs for incubation. Frequent examples of uneven color in eggs are found in flocks of Leghorns. Some members of a flock will lay eggs of pure white shells, while others of the same flock will produce eggs that have a cream or straw tint. Any of these tints may be thoroughly established within a few years if eggs that have only the desired tints are used for hatching. This production of pure white shelled eggs can be established only by carefully selecting eggs at hatching time.

PAINT IS A GOOD PRESERVER OF WOOD

There is no doubt whatsoever but that good paint applied to buildings will add to their value.

Paint is a good paying investment.

A well-painted house will carry a lower insurance rate than an unpainted building.

Paint will increase the loan value of a structure.

Paint is applied to a thousand and one articles and its use is as varied.

Paint is used to preserve and beautify.

Not long ago my attention was directed to an old crossroads sign that was put up about 75 years ago.

The sign had been lettered with white paint. Originally the signboard had been a full inch in thickness.

It was interesting to note that the board had decayed or weathered away until it was half its original thickness, yet the letters stood out in bold relief as though they were carved and stood out nearly half an inch from the board.

Some of the paint clung to the letters.

The reason for the letters being so permanent is obvious. The white paint preserved the wood under the letters, the board had never been painted.

The paint manufacturing business has advanced tremendously during the last 75 years.

Good paint today is a far better preservative than any paint applied 75 years ago.

There are people who maintain that paint manufactured these days is not as good as it used to be.

What they should maintain is, that the paint they have had experience with was not first class painting material and they applied or bought a second grade article, thinking that paint was paint, or paint is paint, regardless of price.

It's a fact that 50 years ago painting materials were limited and cheap paint was unknown. Inferior or second grade paint is made to supply a demand and "A fool and his money soon part."

From a manufacturing standpoint there is seemingly a substantial profit in marketing cheap paints of all kinds.

However, it is noted that a manufacturer who confines his work along these lines always comes out, in the long run, a loser.

Large business establishments of any character never enlarged or built up a business on inferior merchandise.

Paint manufacturers, dealers or any paint merchant who wants your future business, interests his customer in good paint.

He can build a business on quality; it pays him and the customer.

But it doesn't rain very hard on the unjust if he is roosting under a stolen umbrella.

INDIANS KILL DEER AND ARE FINED

John Jordan Jr. and Sylvester Simmons, two Indians of the Paskenta region, were recently arrested by officers of the California National Forest for killing a doe each in the Lake Hollow region. Both defendants pleaded guilty in the court of Judge Lee at Paskenta and were fined $50 each. The deer meat seized was turned over by the forest rangers to the county hospital at Red Bluff.

LANDSCAPE PLAN FOR HOME IS IMPORTANT

Just as no house interior is complete without its furnishings, so no exterior is complete without its proper landscape setting.

This does not mean that a lawn and a few shrubs planted around bit or miss are all that is required.

It means that landscaping is an art in itself and should be considered as such.

It might be divided into two departments, that which has to do with the planning of grounds and that connected with the care of growing things.

It is generally supposed that one who knows considerable about the latter must also be well posted refarding the former, but such is by no means the case.

In fact, just the contrary is apt to take place, namely one who knows how to grow plants is often weak on the planning end, while he who is strong on planning is frequently impatient of the detail of growing.

I will not attempt to lay down any rules for proper landscaping, as I have said, it is an art in itself. There are, however, some general principles that are so often neglected that to mention them here may be helpful, especially to those whose grounds are of comparatively small dimensions.

First, then, try to cover up all the ugly lines of both the house and surroundings as much as possible, allowing the strong or graceful lines to show.

Secondly, consider that part of your yard which is away from the street, and where you intend to live out-of-doors, as a picture.

Frame it in all around the margins with shrubbery.

Obtain privacy for yourself in this way:

Keep the center of the open space so made free from any large shrubs.

Around the edges of the open space mass your flowers, distributing them below and immediately in front of the shrubbery.

A treatment similar to this was adopted with great success at the San Diego Exposition, where the bases of the buildings were fringed with shrubbery and a border of flowers was grown in front of that. The idea of thus hiding the base of a building is almost always desirable, the line so formed seems generally to require some such treatment.

If your place is one of any size do not attempt to do the landscaping yourself. As I have said, it is an art in itself, therefore, in such a case consult a competent landscape architect, one who makes a speciality of that kind of work.

MILK GOAT IDEAL FOR THE HOME

By CHARLES WEEKS

The milk-goat has given nourishment to the human race from the beginning of history.

This well known animal ranked with the cattle, camels and sheep as the chief wealth of the Israelites in their pastoral days.

Its flesh, with the exception of the fat, was eaten.

A kid of the goats was, in a warm country, a quickly prepared article of food.

Goats' milk was largely consumed in the household, "And thou shalt have goats' milk encugh for thy food, for the food of thy household, and for the maintenance of thy maidens." (Proverbs 27:27.)

In the European countries the goat has a place on every little farm. Switzerland is noted for its Swiss cheese.

The peasantry of Europe would starve without their goats and rabbits.

America has been slow to take up the thrifty and frugal habits of the old country people.

Only in the last few years have the Toggenburgs, Saanens and Nubians been brought across the ocean to our country.

As an economical "family cow," the well bred milk goat surpasses the cow, being cleaner in every way, and only consuming about one-eighth as much feed.

The milk of the goat is free from tubercular germs, and the best milk for children.

Registered Toggenburg goats are being installed on almost every little farm in the Charles Weeks poultry colony.

A part of the ideal plan is to have all stock pure bred and registered so that as a community, a reputation may be secured as the breeding place of the very best quality in the land.

High grade stock will make each little farm more intensive.

Milk goats make the finest pets, being exceedingly lovable and gentle and almost human, and respond to kindness. They are fast gaining favor as the "family cow."

Twenty head of registered Toggenburg milk goats have just been shipped into the Charles Weeks' poultry colony and distributed among the little farms, so that each family can produce its own milk.

It is part of the ideal plan to stock this colony with the best pure bred stock possible so that the community as a whole can work together in the breeding problem.

In the old country, the Isle of Guernsey has become famous as the center for producing the best Guernsey cattle.

The Isle of Jersey has perfected the Jersey cow. The Holstein cow has become famous through the efforts of the many little farmers in the Netherlands.

We are just beginning to learn in this country the value of community organization and co-operation in the breeding of choice stock.

On the intensive little farms it is possible to keep only the very best of everything and have at the head the best blood to be had.

People who talk too much receive little attention.

The bee is never too busy to administer a stinging rebuke.

THE WONDERFUL MOON CAR COMES TO GLENDALE

ONE OF THE LATEST ARRIVALS ON AUTOMOBILE ROW OF GLENDALE IS THE MOON--ONE OF WORLD'S FINEST CARS

The Glad Hand of Welcome Is Being Extended to R. W. Runde, 800 East Colorado Street, Who Is Bringing Popular Car to Local Fans

There's a Moon agency in Glendale.

R. W. Runde, who has been in Glendale since January 1st, and in California for almost a year, is the local Moon dispenser. For several months after coming to California, Mr. Runde traveled around all sections of the southern part of the state. He was looking for a place to light. Finally he heard of Glendale. Willing to try anything once, he came here, and here he says he's going to stay the rest of his natural life.

That's what Mr .Runde thinks of Glendale as a city. Since coming here he says he has found the people of Glendale are just as nice as the city. Iit's a case of "birds of a feather," he says.

Just to show that he means what he says, Mr. Runde has purchased a home at 532 Raleigh street, where he and his family are comfortably located. He has already joined the Glendale chamber of commerce and is a member of the Oakmont Country club. He has been an Elk for 15 years.

So much for the agent for the Moon in Glendale.

While Mr. Runde is a good salesman and a mighty fine fellow, he'll have to go "some" to keep up with the quality of the product he is selling, for the Moon is an A1, go-getter automobile—it's a car that has the appearance, the quality and the endurance qualities that "the best" car on the market today should have.

Mr. Runde is especially enthusiastic over the Moon Sport touring. Here's what he has to say about this car:

"You can't beat it in the world today—simply can't do it. The distinctive beauty of the Moon car is accentuated in this Moon Sport touring—a dashing, snappy model that commands the quick admiration of all lovers of sport. Along winding country roads, out at the game, at the country club, or in the crowded streets of the city—with this car, contentment and astisfaction are yours.

"It gleams from silver radiator to body rails and trunk. It has power for real bursts of speed. Once you sit at the wheel you'll realize how truly it is a playmate for the great outdoors.

"Every detail, every essential requirement of this new Moon Sport touring car has been painstakingly provided to delight and please. Nickel head lamps, nickel cowl lamps, nickel tail lamp, nickel windshield, aluminum body rails, trunk rack and trunk, six disteel wheels, two mounted at front, khaki top, leather body in distinctive Moon color with two-line stripe, aluminum footplates with rubber pads, are few of the features of this wonderful car, which, I believe is one of the finest on the market today."

The ten important features of the Moon car are as follows:

Continental Red Seal motor.
Delco starter and ignition.
Timken axles.
Spicer universal joints.
Warner transmission.
Borg and Beck clutch.
Exide battery.
Fedders radiator, German silver.
Gemmer steering gears.

The Moon Motor company has been manufacturing automobiles for the past sixteen years. It has a reputation of putting out quality cars in preference to quantity production. Over a quarter of a century ago, and before the automobile was heard of, partically the same stockholders who are now manufacturing Moon cars, were engaged in the manufacture of what was to be known later as the famous line of Moon buggies. So they are manufacturers of wide experience.

The Moon Car company is headed by Stewart McDonald, president. He is one of the youngest executives among the well-known automobile manufacturers. He has surrounded himself with young department heads and has progressive ideas in keeping with the day.

"It is easy enough," said Mr. McDonald recently, "to build new cars that stand up, and any manufacturer can secure the proper units that make up an automobile and make a fair success. Due credit, however, is not given to the early pioneers in the industry who risked their fortunes and their reputations in developing, inventing testing and blazing the ways through the great unknown which has brought the motor car industry into the present state of efficiency.

"On the streets today you can see many makes of cars, but only one or two have lived through the acid test of early automobile manufacturing. I feel that no little credit should be given to the engineers of the Moon company for contributing their share, as the Moon company is reputed for some of the most popular and now fundamental features of motor car construction. The Moon made the first left hand drive and steering wheel car in this country in 1901. They continued to build right-hand drive cars, but advocated the left hand. Today, all manufacturers use the left-hand drive, except export cars.

"The Moon was one of the first cars to go from four to six cylinders, proving the superiority of the six over the four for even light cars The first full-floating axle used in America was on the Moon car. It was this Moon car, Model 0-7 that won the big race on the Boston race track.

"In 1913 the Moon car was one of the first in America to come out with full streamline body for radiator through the body. Moon is also responsible for the adoption of a number of changes of importance in motor car construction, changes which are now in universal use in automobile construction.

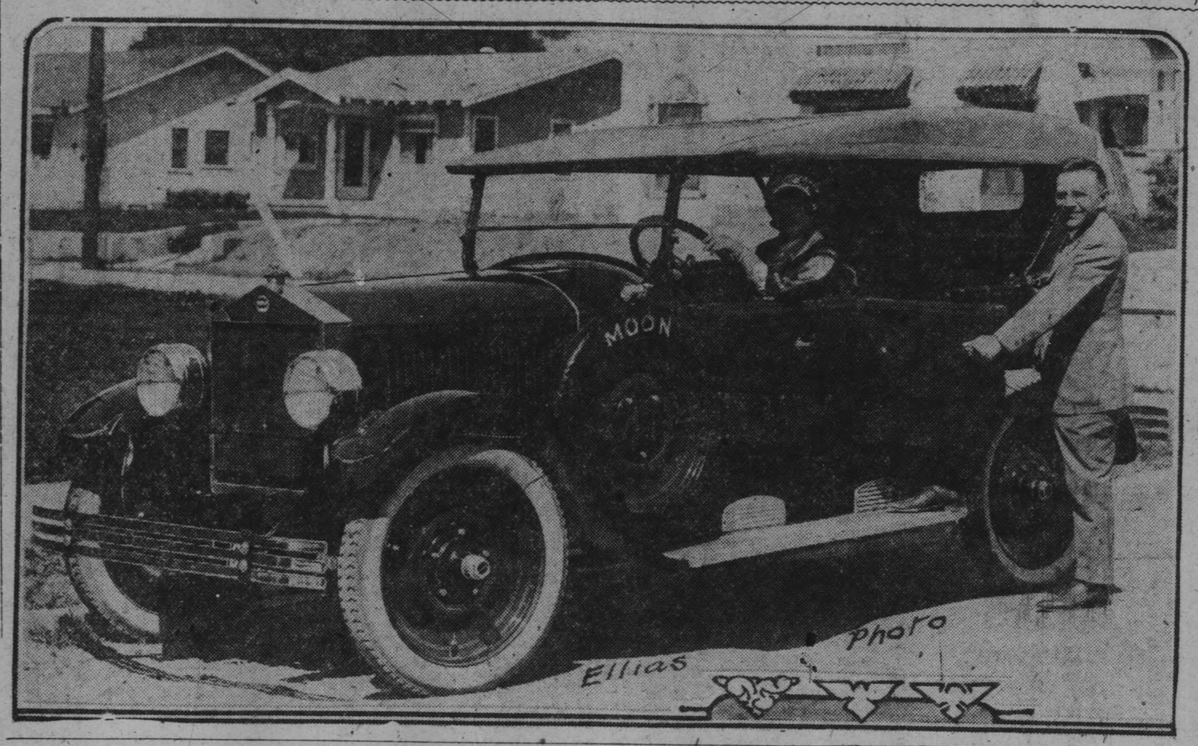
"There is an old saying, 'A man is judged by the company he keeps.' The same can be applied to an automobile. If you will but glance through the April, 1922, booklet published by Underwriters' laboratories, which contained a list of inspected automobile appliances, you will find that the Moon is listed with nine other cars which have successfully passed the underwriters' requirements and have been placed in the highest possible fire risk classification.

"In other words, the Moon car is reasonably safeguarded against fire resulting from features of design, construction and assembly. The other cars that are listed with Moon are the following: Cadillac, Franklin, Hudson, Lincoln, Locomobile, Packard, Pierce Arrow and Rolls-Royce."

The local Moon agency occupies a brand new building that was built especially for this firm at 800 East Colorado street. The Moon Sport and other models are now on display.

J. R. Thorpe, of Waltonia Drive, Montrose, has been appointed Moon agent for Montrose, La Canada, La Crescenta, Tujunga and the entire La Crescenta valley.

TWO THOROUGHBREDS—NEW MOON SPORT AND ITS LOCAL DEALER



HERE'S RECIPE FOR ROADABILITY

First, the car must have supple springs in order to yield to light impact. Secondly, the springs must have sufficient range not to bottom on heavy impact. Thirdly, the reaction of these lively springs must be controlled, and fourthly, this reaction must be controlled in proportion to the reactive force, which may be anything from a few ounces to a great many hundred pounds, depending upon the extent to which the springs have been compressed.

TAX BY WEIGHT IN MICHIGAN—MAYBE

A bill has been introduced in the Michigan state senate which proposes an entirely new plan for licensing of automobiles, with a view of raising upward of $15,000,000 annually. The plan has the backing of Gov. Alex J. Groesback and others.

This bill is aimed to serve as a substitute for the proposed gasoline tax. It is claimed for it that it is a more fair tax and that in addition it will provide sufficient funds to insure a sound fiscal policy for the State highway department which will permit continuation of road construction without interruption during the coming year.

Under the proposed plan pleasure vehicles weighing under 2,000 pounds will pay a tax of 80 cents per 100 pounds, and those over 2,000 pounds a license tax of $1 per 100 pounds, this tax to take the place of present weight and horsepower tax. It will also be proposed to place a tax of probably $2 per $100 pounds on trucks and other commercial vehicles.

Exclusive of truck tax it is estimated this new tax will bring in $12,000,000 annually instead of $7,000,000 now received.

The bill will provide that counties receive one-third of the tax in place of one-half as at present, but this provision, it is pointed out, will increase the county revenues from $3,761,000 in 1922 to more than $4,000,000 annually.

Present estimates place the annual requirements of the state highway department at $8,000,000 annually to provide for interest on bonds, sinking fund requirements and maintenance work. This estimate is based on the sale of remaining $20,000,000 of highway bonds.

IMPORTANCE OF REAR LIGHT

A motorist should inspect the tail-light of his car frequently. This light marks the position of his car for the driver coming in the rear, who may be facing lights of an oncoming machine.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

By E. R. WAITE,
Secretary Shawnee Oklahoma Board of Commerce

THAT courtesy among motorists should be observed.

THAT lack of courtesy often leads to recklessness which in turn leads to accidents.

THAT when a man approaching you from behind sounds his horn as a signal that he wishes to pass, don't hog the road—draw over to the side and let him pass.

THAT it is not courteous to "steal" a parking place from a man who is just getting ready to back into it.

THAT you should not imagine that every man who tries to pass you on the road is trying to race. He may have important business.

THAT it is discourteous when you pass a man from behind to cut directly in front of him.

THAT you should not shove a man's car along the curb to make room for yours, thus jamming his car against a fire plug, or the car ahead.

THAT it is discourteous to halt behind a traffic jam and honk your horn.

THAT the correct giving of hand-signals is courteous as well as safe.

THAT you should keep your mind on the job and drive safely. USE YOUR HEAD AND EYES.

THAT you should not cut in front of another car. It is not what you are doing, but what the other driver MAY DO that causes accidents.

THAT you should not try to blow children off the streets with your horn—it can't be done.

THAT a thoughtless moment may cause an accident that a lifetime cannot repair. DON'T TAKE CHANCES.

THAT when hurry interferes with safety, CUT OUT THE HURRY.

THAT when you pass a man in trouble on the road, help if you can, go on if you must, but if you do go on, don't drive by so fast and close as to throw dust or mud all over him.

NEW ROAD PLANNED FOR SANTA YNEZ

A generous amount of interest has been created in the Santa Ynez valley over the completion of plans for the resurveying and building of the famous San Marcos pass over the Santa Barbara mountains.

During the past few weeks there has been a concerted movement on foot to develop the hills on the north slope of the Santa Ynez basin as a great hunting preserve, and land owners in and around Zaca lake are getting ready for one of the best seasons that the sportsman has known in that favorite section.

"It was my first venture over the San Marcos pass," said one motorist, "and to my surprise the road over the San Marcos is a wonder as far as scenic beauty is concerned, and not so bad as far as roads go.

"After scaling the face of the mountains we plunged down into the Santa Ynez basin and came face to face with a concrete bridge such as one meets with on drives over our famous highways. This was the deserted San Lucas bridge, abandoned after the highway was built through Gaviota pass to San Francisco. But the bridge is in perfect condition today and is to form the connecting link in the proposed San Marcos pass highway when that road is completed. This route opens up an entirely new territory that has lain dormant for 30 years and more and will provide a more

WONDERFUL SURPRISE AWAITS MOTORIST WHO HAS NEVER BEEN TO SECLUDED PAINTED CANYON

Lying Less Than a Day Away From Glendale, This Scenic Wonder Is Being Sought by More Motorists Every Year

Have you ever been to Painted Canyon?

If you have not you have missed one of the most scenic pieces of country of Southern California—you have "passed up" seeing a feature which, after once you have beheld its beauty, will linger in your memory for years and years.

The Painted Canyon is 150 miles from Los Angeles, just a little too far to drive in comfort in a day and spend much time in the canyon. It is a miniature Red Rock, and like Red Rock seldom visited in the summer time because of the fiery heat.

Photographs can never do the Painted Canyon justice. They can't even half begin to tell the story. Every color on the painter's palette even to the most delicate pastel shade can be found in this desert museum.

Situated on the edge of the Salton sink, the shore line of an ancient sea touches the edge of the low-lying mudhills which guard the entrance to the canyon, the outlook from this point being a vivid reminder of the Furnace Creek region in Death Valley.

Three miles from Mecca the desert road to Blythe turns into a sandy wash, over which the auto noses its way in high gear. The wash is much like any other sandy wash dotted with sunburned desert shrubs and an occasional ironweed tree, which the old-timers of the valley claim is even more ancient than the giant sequoias.

Three miles in the wash and you enter the winding canyon. Immediately you realize that you have entered a different country altogether, a weird country, but a beautiful country of fantastic shapes, withal. Nature in a geologic outburst thousands of years ago chiseled out a volcanic rift in the earth, twisted the strata in a thousand different ways and painted the cliffs with all the delicate and vivid hues of a great master.

The artist revels in this wonder spot. The layman glories in it. Interesting little canyons lead off from the main one. One narrows down to such a point that it has been called the Narrows. Through it one may wiggle if one is not too fat and gain a glimpse from the top of an endless chain of mudhills stretching away to the east. The canyon is far more interesting. You can sit and ponder on the vagaries of nature in her painting moods.

Back to the highway you go, and on to Brawley, passing on the way the famous Indian Head, where the thirty-six foot water line of the old Salton Sea shows itself on the heiroglyphic-covered mound, and Fig Tree Johns, which was a landmark in the days of the old Los Angeles-Phoenix road races.

A quick night trip to Mexicali to visualize the wickedness of this Mexican town and a stopover at the Barbara Worth hotel at El Centro complete the first day's journey. A dash to San Diego over the Mountain Springs grade and the changing delights of this region and a spin along the coast route brings the party home in time for Sunday supper.

YOSEMITE PARK TO OPEN ON APRIL 15

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 24.—The Yosemite touring season will open officially on April 15, this year. The Wawona road to the famous valley will be open by that date, it is predicted, and Camp Curry will also open its doors the same date, according to Managers Don Tresidder and Bob Williams, who recently returned to their offices here from a tour of inspection in the valley.

Camp Curry is now the scene of great activity in preparation for what is expected to be the greatest season the Yosemite has ever known. Many new buildings are being erected and extensions made as a result of the enlarged franchise just granted the Curry Camping company by the department of the interior.

A general merchandise store is being erected to furnish supplies for guests in Camp Curry's new housekeeping camp unit and for private campers in the upper end of the valley. The housekeeping unit is also in process of construction, permanent platforms with built-up sides assuring a high class of accommodations in this department.

With the completion of twenty more bungalows, Camp Curry now has one hundred bungalow rooms, which it is hoped will meet the season's demand for this class of accommodations.

Other new buildings to be added to the camp this season include a cafeteria for the general public and an outdoor dance pavilion. Kitchen and pantry facilities are to be enlarged to provide for the expected increase in the number of guests.

SKILLFUL DRIVING SAVES AUTO TIRES

The car owner who is a skillful driver has much to reward him beside the compliments of passengers in his car.

The good driver seldom skids. The poor driver skids on the slightest provocation—he skids when he turns corners and he skids when he stops with a too-sudden slamming on of the brakes. Skidding is undoubtedly the worst abuse to which a poor driver submits his tires, and the greatest source of unnecessary wear which the good driver escapes.

They have found out that this is the more comfortable way, and though they may not realize it, they also make it easier on their tires by so doing. The abrasive action of the rocks is much less severe when the rear wheels are not being driven.

Many a strong man is paid a weekly salary.

FORD TURNS OUT 116,080 CARS IN FEBRUARY

DETROIT, Mich., March 30.—With 116,080 Ford cars sold at retail in February, a new record for the shortest month in the year has been established. February sales exceeded those of January by more than 15,000 and marked the eleventh month in which Ford sales have topped the 100,000 line.

This sale record bears out predictions made at the opening of the year that an acute shortage in Ford cars is certain and this shortage is expected to be felt within the next two months with the increased volume of car buying which is always attendant upon the spring months. Even the high production schedule set at the Ford Motor company's factory here, which will reach 6,000 cars and trucks a day about April 1, will be unable to meet the apparent demand for Ford products.

Anticipating a great increase in the demand for Ford cars during the present year the factory here laid plans for increasing production to the 6,000 cars a day schedule and since January 1 has been constantly speeding up manufacture to reach this figure. Demand so far has been of such great proportions as to absorb nearly all production, and stocks in hands of dealers are at present the lowest they have been in months.

February sales of 116,080 cars were made in the face of unfavorable weather conditions in many sections of the country which tied up freight traffic and prevented many deliveries. This was particularly true throughout the northwest, the northern tier of states and in New England. In California, too, cold weather during a part of the month had its effect upon car sales. Yet with these unfavorable conditions, the February sales topped those of January by 15 per cent and set a new high record for mid-winter selling. With February the eleventh month in which Ford car sales have gone over the 100,000 mark, the total for this period is close to 1,250,000 cars.

Peak car sales usually are reached during the summer months with drops in the fall and winter. This feature of automobile absorption by the buying public has been completely changed during the last few months through the activities of the Ford dealer organization which has raised the "peak" line to include every month in the year.

DRIVE NEW CAR SLOWLY

A wise motorist, when breaking in a new car, will not only drive less than 25 miles an hour, but will make a careful inspection of every working part, paying particular attention to the oiling system, the amount of water in the radiator, and the adjustment of the brakes.

THE OUTING—WHERE Y'GOING THIS YEAR?

All signs point to a greater use of the national forests as playgrounds for young and old in the coming season of 1923 than ever before since these forests were established.

Elbert Hubbard, who wrote "A Message for Garcia," once remarked that no one who did not know to work hard deserved a vacation or knew how to use it. Men who live in the forests see much more than they tell, and one everyday observation is that a vacation either improves the fellow who takes it or leaves him worse in his behavior.

Said one of the old-time rangers of 20 years ago, "I notice that the men who loaf in, lie around all day, don't pull their tent ropes tight, grumble, drink lots of whiskey and shoot cattle by accident, need lots of watching." He told points off on his fingers: "Their camps are dirty, they catch more fish than they can eat; they shoot game out of season; they cause lots of fires; they destroy rare plants, and are much worse than Plutes

The forest officer to whom this was said answered, "Yes. All just so, Jack. But why?

"You tell me."

Taking a fallen branch, the forester wrote on the sand in large capitals, well spaced, "RECREATION" is what a man wants when he goes to the woods; he needs a new start, a rebuilding of all that city life wears out and shatters. If he goes in that spirit, nature meets him halfway, gathers him to her heart as if he were a child once more, tells him new-old secrets, sends him home a rejuvenated mortal."

The forest ranger had his share of hidden imagination, and he answered. "I see. That's the tourist whose every vacation helps the forest as well as himself; whose camp is a joy to behold; who treats the forest as if it were a place to love and protect. Makes me think of a piece I use to speak in school when I was a little boy: 'The groves were God's first temples'."

"Yes," the forester said, "they will always be places for worship, no less than for ceaseless work."

TEST RESERVE TANK OFTEN IS ADVICE

It will many times repay the owner of an automobile to determine whether his car is equipped with a reserve tank of gasoline. It is a good plan to run your car on the reserve tank occasionally, just to make sure it is working.

It takes a smart man to write an unimportantant letter.

BUYING AUTO BY COMPARISON IS GOOD IDEA

Buying your car by comparison proves to be advantageous both to the people in Glendale as well as the Oldsmobile dealer here.

Last week C. H. Hunter, local Oldsmobile dealer, advertised that a good way to buy a car was by comparison. Mr. Hunter says that a large number of people came in to see what the idea was. He gave them a comparison sheet and told them to compare the cars they were interested in. The result was that he sold 6 Oldsmobile cars the past week, 5 of them being the latest Olds model brougham.

These people who took the Olds Brougham stated that after looking over the different models, in their judgment, the Olds offered the most for the money and that the comparison idea helped them greatly in making their selection.

Mr. Hunter invites the people to come in and get a comparison sheet to buy their next car from.

This firm sold six Hudson supersixes this week, which goes to show that around the Kelly establishment there is something doing every minute.

This will doubtless cause all the ladies of Glendale to hold their breath.

Kelly is wearing that unwashable smile—and there's a reason.

USE WRENCH TO LOOSEN SCREWS

To loosen a screw that is so tightly screwed that it is quite impossible to move it with the leverage of the screwdriver handle, apply a wrench to the screwdriver blade, pressing down firmly on the top of the screwdriver with one hand, and turning it by means of the wrench.

KEEPING BRAKES "RIGHT"

Apply brakes slowly.
Test both brakes before starting.
Adjust the brakes every 30 days.
An equal pressure should be had on the right and left wheel brakes.
Clean the brake lining with kerosene and keep the surface clear of oil, road grit and metal particles.

AUTO DEALERS MAY START CENTRAL MARKET

The Glendale Automobile Dealers association is seriously considering the establishment of a central used car market.

This market, if put into effect, will be a place where anyone living in Glendale or coming to Glendale who wishes to secure a used car will be able to go and where he may be assured of finding the best there is to be secured in the way of a used car.

If this market is established, all of the dealers of the organization will participate. As the cars are taken in trade by the various firms they will be put in the very best possible condition before being placed in the central market.

The prices that will be put on the cars will in every instance be fair and just. There will be no endeavor made on the part of any automobile dealer to draw trade from any other concern. The main idea will be to get the cars in actual service as soon after being traded in on new cars as possible.

All makes of cars will be sold at this market, no effort being made to advance one car over any other.

The establishment of this market will be a distinct advantage to the used car buyer. It will eliminate the necessity of running all over town to see what there is in Glendale in the way of a used car. He can have his pick of the used cars on the one lot.

An effort will be made on the part of the automobile dealers of the city to maintain a high standard among the used cars that are placed on this lot, if this central market is established. There will be no "junk."

This method if disposing of their used cars has been under consideration by the auto dealers of this city for several weeks. The used car is one of the dealer's biggest problms, and it is to solve this that the dealers have been struggling.

This central market idea has been tried out in other sections and has been found to be successful.

The matter will be brought up for a decision at the meeting of the automobile men next Tuesday noon.

EXPORT BUSINESS IS SPEEDING UP

Evidence of a revival of the export business from Los Angeles is seen in the recent orders received and shipments made by one of the large local manufacturers.

For a considerable period past there has been a slacking up of this trade with the 17 foreign countries where this Los Angeles-manufactured truck is sold, due to preferential duties, rates of exchange and general conditions following the war.

Conditions, however, have been steadily improving, and very encouraging reports are being received at the company's foreign dealers. There is special activity in Japan, where a wide-spread good-roads movement and a general plan to develop the coenomic use of truck transportation is developing rapidly and has already gained great impetus.

This company has just received an order from Tokio, Japan, for four 1½-ton trucks for immediate delivery, and it is said this is a forerunner of large orders to come. Last week a truck was shipped to Adelaide, Australia, and another will be sent as soon as shipment accomodations can be arranged. The company's agent there writes of former deliveries.

A spinster who says that she is glad of it may make everybody believe it but herself.

NEW AGENT TALKS ABOUT JEWETT AND PAIGE

A. W. Nelson and H. W. Burr, both of whom have been in the automobile business for a number of years, have just taken over the Glendale and Eagle Rock agency for the Jewett and Paige automobiles.

In response to a question as to why he and his partner took over this line, Mr. Nelson answered, this morning:

"Because we believe these cars are the best machines on the market today for the money. Some people who are not familiar with the quality of these cars possibly will question this statement, but we believe we can prove this fact conclusively to the man whose mind is unbiased. The true worth of any car is shown in one way by the resale value. The value of a Jewett and Paige along this line is as good as any car on the market today.

"And talk about service and accesibility. No car on the market today can surpass the Jewett and the Paige. What a delight to the feminine driver! From 2 to 60 miles an hour by the simple pressure of the foot on the accelerator. No need to change gears in rounding corners or following slow teams. And on rare occasions when gear shifting is necessary, it is delightfully easy. The Jewett with the Paige-type clutch positively amazes those who are accustomed to pause to avoid clash or "missing." Move the gears fast or slow. Let the clutch in as quickly as you can move your foot. You simply cannot jerk the car or stall the motor.

"We are 'talking up' the Jewett because we know it and are absolutely sure that it will stand up under every circumstance."

TIPS ON CARING FOR STORAGE BATTERY

If the electrolyte in a storage battery reads above 1.300 there is too much acid in the electrolyte and it should be reduced. With the hydrometer syringe draw out all of the liquid possible and fill with pure distilled water to the proper level. This may have to be repeated at the end of a couple of days' running if the reading is still above 1.280, which is the best electrolytic strength. The cause of the reading going to 1.300 is that there is too much sulphuric acid present. If the electrolyte is properly adjusted when the battery is built and fully charged, no amount of charging can bring the electrolyte reading above 1.300.

Strong electrolyte destroys the separators, damages the plates, causes corrosion and hardening of the jars, which results in cracks and leaks. Lights should not be burned in the daytime when a battery is fully charged, but the battery should be partially discharged while standing idle by starting the car several times and by burning the lights for two or three hours. Burning the lights while running results in a reduced rate of charge, of course, but the charging current still continues to pass through the battery, overcharging and damaging the plates.

Think of one eating a full meal and then, without exercise, continuing to drink a small stream of milk the rest of the day. Any storage battery man will tell you that he finishes charging the battery at about three or four amps, and this rate, if too long continued, causes free gassing. Free gassing indicates a destructive chemical action going on inside the battery after it is fully charged. On the road, while burning lights this destructive action is going on when a battery is fully charged. Discharge the battery and recharge. Work actually livens up a battery but overcharging destroys it.

Don't call a man a fool—he may be foolish enough to fight.

AUTO CLUB POINTS OUT FIRE CAUSES

Forest and brush fires are breaking out in widespread areas in many mountain regions of Southern California at this time. Officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California have been asked by various communities to point out the dangers of forest fires to motorists.

A short time ago a state-wide warning was issued to campers and sportsmen that because of the lack of rain at this time of year, the brush in the foothills is drying up at an unusually early period and danger from conflagration is exceedingly great.

But now, with recent fires raging near San Juan Capistrano and Santa Ana and small blazes reported from the San Bernardino and Sierra mountains, a second warning is issued by the club to impress upon autoists the tremendous responsibility they have in protecting the water sheds of this part of the state.

Forest rangers declare that auto parties are probably responsible for about 90 per cent of the destructive fires which often cost many lives and the loss of millions of dollars in property every year. Motorists who are careless enough to throw lighted cigars and cigarettes or burning pipe ashes from a machine are the worst offenders, it is declared.

But the congenial camp fire lighted by picnicking parties to boil the family coffee over is the real offender in the case, it is said. Camp fires should be put out with water or covered with sand when the party is through with them. If a strong wind is blowing, do not light a fire and do not light a fire near dry brush or grass.

Even the smallest of camping fires will get beyond control of inexperienced motorists. It is impossible for forest rangers to be at all points of their reserves at all times and much responsibility devolves upon the individual auto owner who is picnicking in the mountains to help protect Southern California from the annual fire menace. Please remember, asks the Auto club, that from now is the open season for forest fires and govern yourselves accordingly.

MOON CAR—AUTO— SEE THAT OIL GAUGE IS WORKING

The oil gauge on the dashboard of every car is the key to the lubricating system. Make for the nearest garage without delay if the gauge fails to register a pressure at ordinary operating speeds.

A common cause for failure of pressure is excessive dilution of the oil in the crankcase, which prevents the building up of pressure when flowing through the bearings. An excessively thin oil, as indicated by abnormally low pressure in the gauge, is almost as bad as a breakdown in the pump. Both will cause rapid wear of the bearing surfaces and in a short time may result in burnt-out bearings and scored cylinders.

CLUB'S SPORTING SECTION IS BUSY

What is probably the most extensive investigation of possible fishing, camping and hunting localities in the west has just been completed for motorists by the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern Californit.

Every county from San Diego to the Columbia river, west of the Sierra Madre and Cascade mountains has been visited by the Auto club experts in order to be prepared for the spring and summer rush of autoists who are planning to take to the mountains and streams for sport purposes.

Hundreds of the best trout streams have been explored, and scores of forest rangers, old time fishermen, hunters, trackers, guides and packers were interviewed regarding camping, fishing and hunting conditions.

Recreation maps are being drawn at the Auto club showing the best camping sites, fishing streams, hunting grounds, water falls and places of special interest to persons planning a trip. Full information is now available at the club office for the opening of the trout season, which is May 1.

Five thousand miles was covered by the outing bureau of the club during a state-wide survey of outdoor "playgrounds." All motorists who wish to avail themselves of this accurate fund of information should call at any club office or telephone before starting on a camping trip.

MOON CAR LOOKS GOOD TO SLOAN

It was just as easy—.

R. J. Sloan, 229 South Jackson street, walked into the Glendale Moon agency, 800 East Colorado street, Wednesday afternoon, and laid down a check for one of the latest style Moon touring cars.

Mr. Sloan made no to-do about the matter. He wanted a Moon and he knew that the one way to get it was to "write 'er out." Before making his decision he went all over Glendale and looked over all the cars on the market that were in any way in the line of his desire. He is not a novice in the automobile game. He knows a good car when he sees it.

"The Moon suits me," said Mr. Sloan, after attaching his name to the check. I've looked them all over, and the Moon hits me right between the eyes. There are lots of good cars on the market today, but this car looks good to me."

DANGERS OF GASOLINE VAPOR

To prevent vapor of gasoline from spreading, care must be taken to avoid overflow. Any gasoline spilled over the tank or around the car forms a heavy vapor that may be ignited as soon as the engine is started.

DECREASE IS SHOWN IN ACCIDENT PRO RATA

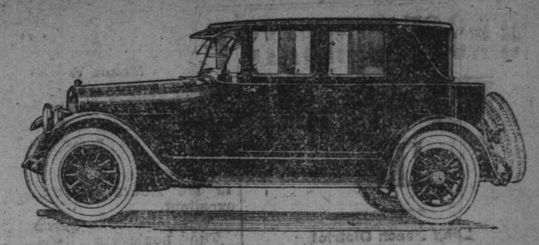
The total number of motor vehicles has increased 576 percent since 1914, while the rate of fatalities from motor vehicle accidents increased but 181 per cent in that period. In 1914 one out of every 356 automobiles was involved in a fatal accident; in 1922 one out of every 356 automobiles was involved.

The number of fatalities from motor vehicle accidents last year was nearly 15,000. The number this year will probably be as great. It is estimated that 75 per cent of these accidents are attributable to defective brakes. This means that if motorists would give their brakes the attention that they deserve, fatalities this year could be reduced by about 11,000.

Since worn brakes and brakes improperly applied are by all odds the greatest single cause of automobile accidents, any safety measures taken in 1923 will have to include the subject of brakes as a chief consideration. Drivers should see to it that brakes are adjusted every month, that they operate equally on both rear wheels, and that the lining is in good condition. Both brakes should be tested regularly before starting, and drivers should try them out under all possible conditions to ascertain how quickly and safely a stop may be made. Then, in service, a liberal margin of safety should be allowed.

FIX BRAKES — EXTERMINATE ACCIDENTS

Eleven thousand automobile fatalities might be prevented this year by remedying defective brakes.



LINCOLN
MOTOR CARS

There is a pride of ownership which comes instinctively to the man who drives a LINCOLN. It is felt with the first mile that the car is driven. It grows with each succeeding demand upon the performance ability of the motor, the riding luxury of the car itself—until it reaches fullest realization in a complete knowledge that there is no motoring requirement which cannot be met by this car.

AUTOCLUB TOWMAN GETS BACK FROM IMPERIAL

M. B. Towman, manager of the Glendale branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California, returned yesterday from a trip down to the Imperial valley. The trip down was made via the inland route, while on the return jaunt, he traveled the coast, or San Diego, route.

In brief the following is an accurate account of the road condition found by Mr. Towman:

The Inland route is paved to a paint past Jackrabbit, thence a good dirt road to Beaumont, thence paved through Whitewater to Palm Springs; where there is an excellent dirt road for one mile. The roughest place was found between Palm Springs and Indian Wells, which is really not bad. Pavement from Indian Wells to the Salton Sea and on to a point 4 miles from Westmoreland. From this point is a good dirt road to Imperial and pavement to El Centro. The distance of the Inland route is 225 miles.

The coast route is 261 miles. There is pavement from El Centro to the foot of the Mountain Springs grade, thence good dirt road over the grade, thence paved to White Star station, after which 33 miles of good dirt road brings the traveler to Alpine Heights, and thence pavement to San Diego. From San Diego to Los Angeles there is pavement with the exception of 1½ mile detour at Oceanside.

RAIN WATER BEST FOR THE RADIATOR

Pure rain water is the best that can be used in the cooling system. This is because it is free from mineral substances, which are present in ordinary water and which are deposited on the metal walls of the radiator, ppiping, jackets, etc., to their detriment. Therefore, when rain water is available, always use it.

DON'T OVERFILL BATTERY

Never fill the battery with water to too high a level. The water will tend to work through the top, starting corrosion of the terminals and quick destruction of the wooden box. The top of the box should be kept dry, and the terminals should be cleaned and covered with vaseline, so that moisture may not collect upon the metal parts.

KEEP THE MOTOR CLEAN

Dirt and water are the worst enemies of the mechanical units of a car and the more intricate the machine the greater is the damage. When dirt or dust gets into the gears and other parts, mixed with lubricating oil, it makes a dangerous grinding material. Worn bearings, loose parts, lost motion, knocks and breakdowns are the result.

STOP SKIDDING—HERE'S HOW

When a car begins to skid, the thing to do is to instantly throw the wheels so as to make the front of the car move in the same direction as the rear is skidding. Thus, if the rear of the car were to skid to the right, the front wheels should be thrown toward the right. The wheels must be straightened again the instant the skid stops. Do not apply the brakes suddenly.

TO SILENCE METALLIC NOISES

Ordinary cotton braid, such as every woman's sewing kit contains, makes an effective silencer wherever sheet metal comes in contact with sheet metal.

Speed Wagon Carries Hunters Into the Wilds of South Africa After Big Game

Suppose that some fine morning, just after the rhinoceros season had opened, your old friend, Bill, called you on the phone and proposed a little run up into Zululand. Some thrill, eh, what?

The accompanying pictures show how honchalantly they do it in South Africa. Recently a party of four men left East London in a Speed Wagon. Their equipment included all the essentials that four husky men, each accustomed to roughing it in African wilds, would require.

Traveling up the coast through Idutywa, Port St. John, Lusikisiki, Durban and Stanger they reached Somkele in Zululand on the fifth day. Here they engaged native guides and made trek into the jungles, still driving the rough and ready Speed Wagon.

We haven't the details at hand to tell you how, when that big rhino charged, with the Zulu natives fleeing for cover, that the sturdy determined looking gentleman who stands behind the fallen rhinoceros in the illustration above, crashed an explosive bullet into the bovine (or is it porcine) animal. One thing we are sure of is that his aim was perfect for the hit, as clearly shown in the photo, is directly behind the shoulder blade.

It seems a bit incongruous to see, in a wild African jungle, a motor car adorned with license plates and signs reading "Barnes Garage." But the Speed Wagon seems to know no stopping place in its adventurous ability to get over heavy going.

Altogether, the distance covered was about 1200 miles, which included everything from stony desert to the fording of half dry river beds. The Speed Wagon carried four men besides all camping equipment, together with a heavy load of game on the return trip.

The party was composed of Messrs. Meintjes Hart, R. M. Hart, W. E. Bowker and J. C. Ralph, all of East London.

Many Tourists to Visit Kansas City

According to W. W. Wooden, head of the Automobile Club of Kansas City, 100,000 motor tourists will pass through the city in the next six months. Kansas City has become one of the principal stopping places for eastern and southern tourists enroute to the Yellowstone and Colorado resorts.

MICHIGAN FARMERS LIKE TO RIDE

Forty-seven per cent of Michigan motor vehicles are registered in the seventy-four rural counties. The latest census report, of three years ago, indicated that about one-third of the automobiles were farmer owned, but subsequent state reports tend to show that the proportion is increasing.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

Shows How to Locate and Correct any Automobile Engine Trouble

By E. H. SCOTT

This is the sixth of a series of specially prepared and illustrated articles showing the ordinary automobile driver how to locate any engine trouble

What To Do When the Engine Will Not Run Smoothly and Regularly

When an engine starts to misfire and runs unevenly, do not immediately jump to the conclusion that because perhaps you hear a pop back through the Carburetor that the trouble lies there, and start altering its adjustment. There are certain defects in the Valves and Ignition that will also cause an engine to pop back through the Carburetor. In locating any engine trouble, you have not got to GUESS at ANYTHING. The ONLY way to locate what is wrong is to go about the job in a systematic manner. To find out what is wrong with an engine when it will not run smoothly and evenly, you first test the spark to EACH cylinder, then when you are certain that there is a good spark to each one, you test to see if all Plugs are firing and the Valves are operating properly. This can be done in two ways. The method used by the expert is to short out each cylinder with a screw driver, and requires a highly trained ear and years of experience to make correctly. The method described here, however, can be made by anyone without previous experience, and is more accurate than the test above, but takes a little longer to make. The FIRST thing you have to do is to find out if the trouble lies in ONE CYLINDER ONLY or if it is occurring INTERMITTENTLY IN ALL CYLINDERS, so—

1. Take off all nuts from the tops of the Spark Plugs, BUT LEAVE THE WIRES RESTING ON THE PLUGS. If, however, you have quick detachable terminals on the end of the Ignition wires, leave the nuts ON the Spark Plugs and continue below—

2. Set the Spark Lever about ¼ advance and set the throttle lever so that the engine is running about the same speed as it would be in running on the road at 15 miles an hour. Now take off the Spark Plug wires one at a time, for a few seconds, holding the end of the wire about ⅛-inch away from the metal base of the Spark Plug, as shown, noticing the spark that snaps from the end of EACH wire as do so, then—

If you see a GOOD REGULAR SPARK FROM THE END OF EACH WIRE when testing the Ignition as above, then the Ignition System is all right, and next week's article will show you how to find out if the trouble lies in the Plugs, Valves or Carburetor.

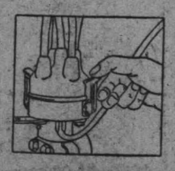
If, however, there is NO spark or a spark only NOW AND AGAIN from the end of ONE PARTICULAR WIRE ONLY, see A.

If there does not seem to be a good REGULAR spark from the end of ANY of the wires, then follow the instructions given in the third article of the series, which shows how to make a test of the Ignition at the Breaker Points, and find the exact part of it causing the trouble.

A

1. Trace the wire leading through from the Spark Plug to the Distributor Head, to see that it has a good connection at the Distributor. If it has then—

2. Examine the rubber insulation to see that it has not cracked or rubbed through at any point, so allowing the bare copper wire to make contact with some metal part. If the wire runs through a metal tube, put it out of the tube, then reconnect it to the Plug. If you NOW get a spark, it shows that the wire is defective, and must be replaced. If, however, there is STILL no spark then—



3. Disconnect the clips at the side and take off the Distributor Head and examine the Distributor Point or Segment inside the head which is connected to the wire leading to the Spark Plug, to see that it has not broken, bent or burned away. If the point looks all right then—

4. Examine INSIDE the Distributor Head to see that there are no cracks, allowing the current to short or creep across to another point or to ground now and again. If the head looks all right, then the wire must be defective inside the insulation and must be replaced.

THE Speed Wagon is delivering the goods quicker and cheaper in nearly 300 lines of business,—and the engine is one of the big reasons.

For it's super-powerful,—with intake valves located in cylinder head; exhaust valves offset; spark plugs scientifically placed; reciprocating parts built to withstand excessive strain; and cooled to the point where gasoline is converted into usable power, instead of into heat dissipated through the muffler.

Add to this the inner-frame mounting of power units; the amidship location of the transmission; its 13-plate clutch; heavy spiral-bevel-drive axle; pneumatic cord tires on all wheels; complete elctrical equipment; and a full measure of riding comfort and easy-to-drive qualities,—these substantiate the Speed Wagon claim to commercial car dominance.
